KELLEHER JAIL TERM REDUCED TO FIVE YEARS

CLEMENCY IS RESULT OF REPENTANCE PLEA

TRIBUNAL REFUSES TO CUT $7,500 FINE

Prisoner Will Be Eligible for Parole in Early Part of 1931.

John B. (Dapper Jack) Kelleher, alleged "big shot" of the local sporting fraternity, received clemency yesterday when Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, in District Supreme Court, reduced the sentence he is now serving from eight years and nine months to five years. The Chief Justice, however, did not reduce the fine, which remains at $7,500.

Kelleher's appeal to the Court of Appeals of the District was denied early this month and yesterday he was brought into the District Supreme Court on the high court's mandate to hear the sentence affirmed.

It was then that the Chief Justice surprised every one by setting aside 15 counts of the 23 in the indictment on which the defendant was convicted last June at his trial on charges of setting up a gaming table in December, 1928.

In addition the Chief Justice ruled that the sentence should be effective as of June 15 last, instead of the date of the Court of Appeals decision, as is customary.

Kelleher appeared in the court natily attired. He wore a brown suit, brown shirt, brown tie, tan shoes and a new gray hat.

He thanked Chief Justice McCoy for the reduction of the sentence and also expressed appreciation to Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, who prosecuted him.

Leaving the courthouse to return to jail, Kelleher thanked newspaper men for consideration they had shown him at the trial and during his appeal. He declared that he had heard what he was doing good work at the jail and that he would continue to be a model prisoner.

Eligible for Parole in 1931.

Kelleher will be eligible for parole within fourteen months, it was stated yesterday. One-third of his sentence will be twenty months, and with approximately six months already to his credit, due to Chief Justice McCoy's ruling, he has only fourteen months to serve before becoming eligible.

Kelleher was convicted primarily on the testimony of Charles Payne, who was jointly indicted with him. Payne, said to have been a former employe of Kelleher, pleaded guilty shortly after the conviction of his codefendant and was given a suspended sentence.

Chief Justice McCoy's action in reducing the sentence followed a statement to the court yesterday that Kelleher during his incarceration had appreciated the folly of his manner of living and threw himself on the mercy of the court. He was represented by Attorney James Maloney.

The chief justice stated that since passing sentence originally he had felt that the sentence perhaps was a little too severe and that he would reduce it by striking out the fifteen counts. Kelleher originally was sentenced to serve 90 days on each of these counts.

Head of Closed Bank Foiled in Suicide Tries

Omaha, Nebr., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Reed C. Peters, executive vice president of the Peters Trust Co., which closed its doors today, attempted to commit suicide today by throwing himself beneath a moving truck on a downtown street intersection. His skull probably was fractured and one leg fractured. He received other severe injuries.

Peters was taken to a hospital, where it was said his condition was critical. Peters, who is 40 years old, made at least one other attempt to take his life during the day. He tried to throw himself under the wheels of a truck backing into a loading dock. R. A. Randazzo, driver of the truck, stopped in time and pulled Peters from underneath the machine.

Nenenah, Wis., Nov. 25, (A.P.)—William Weid, 28, student aviator of Lind Center, was injured fatally today after his plane crashed from an estimated altitude of 5,000 feet.

Roy Larsen, 33, a passenger, received injuries which may result in death.

Radio Loudspeakers Lead Disliked Noises

One Voter Says Crime, Suicides and Divorces Are Modern Sin—Another Sees Menace to Civilization—Four Dissent.

Apparently in undertaking its campaign for the abolition of noise—or din cut probe—The Post has touched a sensitive spot on the eardrums of the Capital.

The first mail yesterday brought responses from 128 Washingtonians who tabulated and described these noises which annoy them most, and each subsequent mail added more, until the Noise Editor seriously considered sending a copy boy out for a course of instruction in yodeling when he encountered the alpin mountains of correspondence piled up on his desk.

Working in a comparative silence, broken only by the symphonic orchestrations of the linotype machines and presses, the tattoo of the telegraph battery and the reporters' typewriters, and punctuated by wisecracks from the copy desk, the Noise Editor never really realized before just how important noise could be.

"Most of the crimes, suicides and divorces of today are due to hideous, continuous, infernal noises," writes one, and, as though that were not concise and convincing enough, another points out that "Noise, the most obvious product of this fast age, is today the greatest menace to civilization."

There! That's what people think about noise.

At least, that's what some people think about noise. But it takes, some one is reported to have declared, all kinds of people to make up a world. Strange as it seems, four of the hundreds who have voted in The Post's noise campaign already have come out strongly in defense of noise.

"Dear Noisy Editor," writes one, "why worry about a little noise? Persons who do not like it should cease to live. Noise shows activity."

But so, it might be remarked, does St. Vitus dance.

Then there's another noise lover who wrote: "Your program may be all right, but for God's sake don't wish on us any more regulations, laws or prohibitions." His sentiment was echoed in the comment of another who said: "Noise Editor: Prohibition is bad enough, and now your paper is helping to ban something else. Tomorrow I start reading another paper." Let's hope the circulation manager doesn't hear about that one.

At press time last night, radio loud speakers in homes led the list of hated noises, with 54 votes to their discredit. Automobile horns ran second, at 43, with barking dogs a close third, at 39. Other noises against which squawks are heard, in the order of apparent obnoxiousness, are ambulance sirens, 28; motor trucks, 27; noisy brakes, 26; noisy parties, 24; buses, automobile cut-outs, and fire and police sirens, 22 each; milkmen, 19; street cars, 17; loud speakers in or outside stores, 15; motorcycles, 14, and so on down the line.

Each of the 22 noise sources listed on The Post's ballot form received at least 2 votes, and in addition ballot-ers added more than a dozen din dis-

BOLLING PILOT DIES IN 2-MILE PLANE PLUNGE

ENGINE CRUSHES HIM AS SHIP PLOWS HOLE

DEAD AVIATOR NOTED FOR SKILL AS RACER

His body crushed beneath the heavy engine of a British fighting plane, Lieut. George T. Cuddihy, Navy pilot, was killed at Bolling Field yesterday morning after a dive of nearly 2 miles at terrific speed. The plane, which buried itself to the tail in the soft mud at the south end of the field, was a Bristol Jupiter single-seat biplane, used by the Royal Air Force for pursuit purposes.

The cause of the accident may remain veiled in mystery forever. Officially the Navy Department laid it to "structural failure," without definitely naming the unit which gave way, while accounts of eyewitnesses varied in many respects.

As reconstructed from their accounts, Lieut. Cuddihy had put the plane into a power dive at an altitude of 10,000 feet. About 1,000 feet from the earth, diving at tremendous speed, he pulled out of the dive and turned as if to come into the wind and land.

Body Badly Crushed.

Just then, the plane went into a wide spiral, diving rapidly to the ground, indicating, according to many witnesses, that an aileron had failed. With the throttle wide open, the plane struck the muddy field, driving into the ground more than 6 feet.

The first persons to reach the wreck found the hole in which the plane rested rapidly filling with water. The engine had broken from its mountings and rested on top of the pilot, indicating, they said, that the plane must have struck the ground at an angle, bearing out the statements of some witnesses that it had turned slightly on its back before striking.

Lieut. Cuddihy's body was badly crushed and broken. Both feet were on the rudder pedals. His parachute was untouched, indicating that he made no effort to abandon the plane in the brief space of time after it went out of control.

Assembled Only Few Days.

So deeply was the plane buried that a derrick mounted on a truck had to be used to extricate it. Water constantly seeping into the hole hampered work of a crew of Navy mechanics who were called out to dig the plane from the mud.

The plane was brought to the Naval Air Station last week, and every

EMPLOYMENT SEEN FOR WORKERS' ARMY

ONE VOICE RAISED IN NOTE OF DISSENT

Some Executives Indicate Increase in Projects Is Being Planned.

(Associated Press.)

Responses received yesterday by President Hoover from a little less than half of the State Governors, to whom he appealed Saturday for cooperation in the present disturbed situation, enabled him to envision a vast army of workers engaged upon accelerated programs of State, municipal and county construction.

Ten of the 22 executives, who either had communicated with the White House directly or made statements for newspapers, gave precise figures of the programs in their State which amounted to approximately $375,000,000. This figure is considered surprisingly large for less than a fourth of the country and exclusive of New York.

Gov. Roosevelt telegraphed that his initial recommendation to the Empire State Legislature would be a building program for hospitals and prisons as extensive as possible without increasing taxation. Previously Mayor Walker had announced a huge building program for New York City exclusive of State funds.

Only One Dissenting Voice.

There was only one dissenting voice among the governors, that of Bulow, of South Dakota, who was quoted in press dispatches as having said that the remedy proposed "to me would only furnish temporary relief, postpone the agony and effect no permanent cure."

Gov. Fisher advised the President that Pennsylvania was in the course of spending $155,000,000 on public buildings and highways.

Gov. Caulfield of Missouri estimated that public building contemplated in his State for next year would amount to between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000, including the State's $25,100,000 road-building program. He has urged all mayors and county courts in the State to hasten any pending or planned construction.

Gov. Cooper, of Ohio, called a meeting of county commissioners to confer with the State highway department on a $12,000,000 program of secondary road improvement. The conference also will discuss the State employment situation. The governor also wired that about $10,000,000 would be spent for public buildings.

Kentucky will shortly begin the expenditure of approximately $25,000,000 for the construction of highways

State Governors' Replies To Hoover's Building Plea

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—In response to President Hoover's request, Gov. Fisher today dispatched telegrams to heads of all municipal governments in Pennsylvania asking information concerning contemplated public improvements.

Early replies were asked by the governor, who said he intends to complete the information as quickly as received and forward it to Secretary of Commerce Lamont at Washington.

Fisher advised the President last night, in his reply to the message to all governors, that the State of Pennsylvania is in the course of spending $155,000,000 on public buildings and highways.

In commenting on the President's effort to spur business, the governor said the conference with business men "are restoring business confidence and stimulating new enterprise and have a wholesome influence on the whole business situation."

Perth Amboy, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Morgan F. Larson, in commenting upon the suggestion of President Hoover that the governors of the States cooperate in speeding up industry, this morning said:

"The State of New Jersey, which is now engaged in a most elaborate program of road and bridge building and other types of public work, will do everything possible to aid President Hoover's plan to stabilize business, provide continued work and assure continued prosperity."

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Cooper and his cabinet today began a survey of public work to be accomplished in the near future as a means of aiding President Hoover's plan to improve business conditions throughout the country.

The State leaders after a long session had an outline of a number of projects already ready for construction work. The conference pertained only to work to be done by State departments.

The governor previously had asked county commissioners and surveyor to meet here December 5 to discuss plans of counties for highway construction. He also sent a letter to mayors of all municipalities asking cooperation and a survey of public work to be accomplished within the next few months.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Replying to President Hoover's telegram of inquiry on the subject of giving strength to the economic situation and providing for the absorption of unemployment by renewed activity on public works, Gov. Adams today advised the President that it is Colo-

EXTENSION OF ROAD PROGRAM IS URGED

STABILIZATION PLAN TO BE PERMANENT

Supercouncil on Industry to Continue as Agent for Prosperity.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

As a part of his noble experiment of keeping the wheels of commerce moving President Hoover conferred with the agricultural leaders yesterday with a view to keeping the boy down on the farm reassured.

It was mostly for the purpose of assuring the farmer that he was ever in Hoover's mind in his present program that the agricultural representatives were called, rather than the expectation that the farmer was to give such assurance of continued activity as have the industrial and business leaders heretofore conferred with.

There were some important suggestions in the discussion, but no definite action was taken. One was that the Federal Government extend its roadbuilding aid to the county farm-to-market roads.

Definite Assurance Withheld.

In fact, the farm representatives rather got the impression that this would be done, but there was no definite promise of it in the statement issued through the White House by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde after the conference.

Hyde said on this point:

"The conferees also favored an immediate extension of the road program with special emphasis on farm-to-market roads."

It will be seen that the administration in no way committed itself to the suggestion.

There is pending in Congress now a bill to increase the Federal State road appropriation by $50,000,000 annually, bringing it to $125,000,000. This fund has heretofore been given, however, only to assist in the building of State roads.

States Must Watch Funds.

Extension of aid to the county roads would, of course, add to the country's building activity as well as adding to the general welfare of the counties served. Under the Federal aid plan, however, the States have to match the Federal contribution dollar for dollar.

This would call for action by the State Legislatures even after Congress had passed the necessary national legislation. So, at best, the proposition is one of far distant accomplishment.

There had been considerable talk before the conference of the road-building activities that could be carried on by State and county bond issues and also of the increased activity that the necessary building of grain elevators would entail. There was no mention of either of these matters in Hyde's statement, however, and the belief is that even if the bond issue suggestion was raised the farm representatives did not become very enthusiastic about it.

Movement to be Permanent.

As one farm leader expressed it, the high note of the conference seemed to be a reassurance that agriculture would play a prominent part in Hoover's stabilization program, that the President wanted to call the farm leaders here and tell them that.

The stabilization program incidentally is to be a permanent going concern, instead of a method of deal-

LABOR GOVERNMENT IS UPHELD ON DOLES

SNAGS STILL IN OFFING

London, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Any fears that the MacDonald Labor government might encounter a debacle on the unemployment insurance bill to increase doles was dissipated tonight when the House of Commons voted, 299 to 213, approval of a second reading of the bill. The government majority was 86.

The victory was not surprising, as it had been generally predicted that the Liberals would vote in approval because defeat of the government is not now desired by the opposition. Since the Labor party has not a clear majority in the house such Liberal support is necessary.

The bill now goes to the committee, where it will be considered clause by clause and probably a number of amendments will be added before final presentation to the Commons. It has been estimated that unemployment insurance in the coming year will cost British taxpayers $610,000,000. The bill would increase benefit for dependent wives of unemployed men from $1.75 to $2.25 weekly, lower the insurance age to 15 and increase the weekly benefits for dependent wives of persons aged 17, 18 and 19 by about $1.

Members of the left wing Labor group attacked the bill today from various angles. They argued for higher and more comprehensive doles. James Maxton, leader of the Left, who had signed up 32 members for a "rebellion," failed to make a showing on the vote, it being discovered that most of the signers had withdrawn after consultation with government leaders.

Thomas Shaw, secretary for war, answering arguments about the insufficiency of the bill, said the measure was formed frankly as a stopgap and was not intended for permanency.

He said no one believed the bill was

BRITISH SEA PARLEY DELEGATES LEARNED

BAR FOOD SHIP ISSUE

London, Nov. 25 (N.Y.W.S.).—Great Britain's delegates to the forthcoming five-power conference here will be Prime Minister MacDonald, Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson and possibly Chancellor of the Exchequer Phillip Snowden, it was learned tonight.

The delegates probably will be officially named next week, MacDonald told the House of Commons today. Snowden's inclusion in the list is not yet certain, it was learned.

In reply to questions by Commander Southby, Conservative, MacDonald revealed that President Hoover's suggestion to make food ships immune in war time will not be discussed at the naval conference. MacDonald explained that President Hoover in his Armistice Day speech had said the food-ship question was not intended for consideration at the conference.

Informal conversations between Prime Minister MacDonald and the Japanese Ambassador here preliminary to the naval conference have been suspended, at least temporarily, pending the outcome of similar conversations between the Japanese and American governments.

Though British officials are extremely reticent on the matter, it is understood the difficulty involves the question of Japan's ratio for big cruisers.

MacDonald already has assented to Japan's plea for a 5 to 3½ ratio of 10,000-ton, 8-inch gun cruisers as far as Great Britain is concerned. However, this would leave Japan with the Washington conference ratio of 5 to 3 in relation to the United States.

It is understood MacDonald informed the Japanese Ambassador that he was unable to intervene at this time between its demands and the United States' position. Therefore, he

Comissioners Grow Grave Over Starlings

May Request Agriculture Department's Advice On Tree Terror.

Confronted with their annual fall problem of what to do about the nuisance roost of thousands of starlings on Pennsylvania avenue, the District Commissioners are considering calling in experts of the Department of Agriculture to help evolve a plan which will prove effective.

With the number of starlings roosting on the Avenue growing rapidly from year to year, the Commissioners agree that something should be done to relieve the National Capital's most famous street of the nuisance. But what to do is, they admit frankly, another question.

The problem was considered last year but no action was taken beyond ineffective noise making at night to rid the ledges of the District Building of the roosting birds. It was said that the birds were protected under the migratory bird act which prohibited killing them. Subsequently, however, the Department of Agriculture removed from its shoulders any criticism for protecting the nuisance birds by declaring that the birds undoubtedly were a nuisance in large numbers and there was no law which prohibited action to drive them away from the Pennsylvania avenue roost.

Agriculture Department experts prepared a pamphlet which was published by the department, setting forth the history of the bird in the United States. The millions of starlings now inexistence throughout the country from Maine to the Carolinas and the Atlantic Ocean to the Mississippi are the progeny of 57 starlings which were brought from England and released in Central Park in New York by an Englishman who had come to live in America and wanted some starlings here, too. The spread of the birds has been more rapid in recent years and Washington has been for the last several years well within their breeding zone and year-round habitat.

The predilection of the birds for roosting on buildings and in trees downtown where they are surrounded by buildings is probably due to the

PARENTS ARE ADVISED

Richmond, Va., Nov. 26 (A.P.).—Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, first assistant superintendent of public schools, Washington, D. C., speaking before the twenty-sixth annual meeting of the Cooperative Education Association of Virginia tonight, emphasized necessity of cooperation of the home with the school in the furtherance of child guidance.

"The progress of the race depends upon the individual coming into his social inheritance of the experience, judgment, standards and ideals of those who have for generations before him developed the civilization of today," Dr. Kramer said at the beginning of his address. He continued with the assertion that "a child can not come into his inheritance if the parent be but the transmitter of life and a nonconductor of the social heritage of the past."

The history of many children now in schools will be an unbroken series of failures, Dr. Kramer predicted, for they are preparing to attempt tasks for which they are wholly unfitted. This, he pointed out, in an effort to show the need of cooperation of home and school, for the success of the child.

Substantiating his opinion, he quoted figures showing that in the State of Wisconsin 6.3 of the school children looked forward to an agricultural life, while actually 26.3 of the population gained its livelihood from agriculture; 39.9 looked for a professional career, while the actual percentage of the population of the State engaged in professional careers was 5.2; 52.4 expressed desires for business and clerical occupations, and the actual percentage engaged in such business was 17.7. In the mechanical trades, 4.3 expressed willingness to

MARYLAND TO SPEND HUGE SUM ON ROADS

SURVEY WILL BE MADE

The State of Maryland will spend approximately $12,730,000 for road, bridge and other public works construction during 1930, Gov. Ritchie notified President Hoover yesterday in answer to the latter's request that a survey of expenditures be made and given him.

Gov. Ritchie said that he would make a survey of county and municipal expenditures and forward it to the President as soon as possible.

He pointed out that his State has no standing fund for public works construction but that the planned expenditures have already been authorized or provided for. The State expended nearly $9,500,000 on highway construction last year, the governor pointed out, and this will produce an estimated additional revenue from various road taxes of $13,000,000 next year. Of this sum $3,500,000 will be used to maintenance and the remainder to the construction.

The governor's telegram follows:

"Your telegram November 23 received this morning and I assure you of my cooperation in the matter.

"The State of Maryland has been proceeding and will continue to proceed with its construction work as rapidly and as energetically as possible.

"In 1929 the State expended nearly $9,500,000 on highway construction of all kinds and this is nearly double the amount expended during the preceding year, so our State highway revenues from all sources for 1930 will far exceed those for any other year. They will aggregate nearly $13,000,000, of which nearly $3,500,000 will be for maintenance. The remainder, over $9,500,000, will be available for highway and bridge construction and for the removal of railroad grade crossings and will be expended for

Vatican Slaying Blocked As Cleric Seizes Woman

Former Prince Wrests Gun From Her as Deranged Seamstress Aims It at Archbishop in Historic St. Peter's; Deportation Probable.

Vatican City, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—A Swedish woman named Ramstad Marguerite Gudum was under arrest today for the first attempt at a crime in the history of the newly formed Vatican City state.

The woman, who is 30 years old, and is believed to be mentally deranged, attempted to kill Mgr. Smit, titular Archbishop of Paralo and former apostolic vicar of Norway, in St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday.

She drew a revolver, aimed at Mgr. Smit and pulled the trigger three times. The weapon jammed, and then Prince George of Bavaria, a brilliant cavalry officer who took ecclesiastical orders eight years ago, took it away from her. Prince George is a canon of St. Peter's.

Fraulein Gudum was turned over to the pontifical gendarmes. She said she had come to Rome some time ago and had earned a living by sewing and embroidery. Having been unemployed for several months, she went to Mgr. Smit to ask for work at the Vatican, but Mgr. Smit could do nothing for her. She said today that she had tried to kill him because she wanted vengeance for his failure to get her a job.

She was not sent to the Italian authorities for trial, and will probably be returned to her relatives in Sweden.

Hoover Lineage Is Traced To Swiss Revolutionists

German Genealogist Is Sure Line of President's Ancestry Can Be Clearly Followed to 14th Century; White House to Get Research Results.

(Associated Press.)

The ancestral line of President Hoover, which has interested genealogists here and abroad ever since he became Chief Executive, is believed now to have been traced definitely to Switzerland, and there back as far as the fourteenth century.

Although the Hoover family had believed that its sources were in Germany, the researches of Prof. Herman Macco, German genealogist, have persuaded him and his American colleagues that the Hoover ancestors paused in Germany only to escape the consequences of an unsuccessful revolution against feudal lords in the Swiss Canton of Berne.

The mass of material regarding the early history of the family accumulated here and abroad has been transmitted to the President's household by Prof. Macco and Calvin Kephart, president of the National Genealogical Society.

It was a 15-year-old lad, Andreas Huber, who in 1738 left family and home behind to seek his fortune in the New World, and to become the first American ancestor of the thirty-first President of the United States.

Arriving at Philadelphia he took an oath of allegiance to the province and State of Pennsylvania and became known forthwith as Andrew ing with the present situation. That is to say, the supercouncil that Hoover has set up, or rather given over to Julius Barnes for organization, is to be a permanent agency to coordinate the activities of the various groups having to do with the country's economic fabric.

It is Hoover's ambitious effort to apply his ideas of standardization, which marked his tenure as Secretary of Commerce, to the whole economic system.

It will not be a governmental standardization except in its initial stages of moral support from the Government, because Barnes is to make up his committee or council, or whatever it is to be called, from the various public groups, industry, agriculture, labor, business and the like.

The farm representatives were assured that this national effort of coordination was to be permanent and that good was bound to result to agriculture, not necessarily at the first, but in the long run.

Release of Capital Cited.

So far as immediate aid to agriculture is concerned there was the agreement among the conferees, according to Hyde's statement, that the release of capital from the stock market will result in lower interest rates to agriculture and that this would be reflected back in the market through the purchase of necessary equipment and supplies for the farm.

Concerted action by the Government credit agencies, such as the intermediate land banks, will bring about the cheaper and easier money to agriculture, it was pointed out.

"The general opinion expressed," said Hyde's statement, "was that confidence has been gaining in agriculture and that the morale of agriculture is now better than it has been for years past. Except in short crop areas there has been genuine improvement in agriculture and an increased income and therefore an increased buying power this year.

High Interest Rates Hit.

"The representatives assembled considered that agriculture has suffered, and now is suffering to some extent, from high interest rates induced by the absorption of credit for speculative purposes. They felt that a concerted action by the credit agencies of the Government is now possible, and that such action would reflect back to agriculture the lower interest rate. It also was the opinion of the conferees that the savings which might thus be made to agriculture by the lower interest rates would immediately be reflected back into the markets through the purchase of necessary equipment and supplies for the farm."

The statement also said that the farm representatives pledged support to the President's program.

The impression would be gained from the statement that the farm representatives did all of the talking. Yet this is not believed to have been the case. They met first in the morning with Secretary Hyde and Chairman Alexander Legge, of the Federal Farm Board. The statement could have been issued just as well at the close of that meeting.

With Hoover Entire Afternoon.

But after that meeting the President gave the entire afternoon over to the farm representatives. It is not believed that they sat in his office several hours going over the same matters that were discussed in the morning.

The belief is, instead, that the President did most of the talking at his meeting, talking to the farmers about all of the things he has in mind to make them happy. The Farm Board was touched upon. It was referred to in the statement in this wise:

"The opinion also was expressed (by the conferees) that agricultural prices, which had suffered in sympathetic action in the stock market, now have begun to recover, and that the efforts of the Farm Board in stabilizing those prices has been very helpful."

The farm representatives were very close-mouthed about the conference, even the genial C. S. Barrett, former head of the Farmer's Union, who is not usually so uncommunicative.

Others in Attendance.

Besides Barrett, those attending the conference were: C. E. Huff, Barrett's successor; C. C. Talbot and C. N. Rogers, of the Farmer's Union; Fred Brenckman and S. S. McCloskey, of the National Grange; S. H. Thompson and Earl Smith, of the American Farm Bureau, and LeRoy Melton and F. L. Betts, of the Farmer's Equity Union. It was the first time this latter organization was generally known to exist around here.

The agricultural group about concluded Hoover's conferences. Later in the week the utility groups are to come, and prosperity will have been restored so far as the program of conferences is concerned

Road Committee Head To Seek Fund Increase

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Dowell of the House roads committee announced yesterday he would seek an increase from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 in the annual authorization for Federal highway aid for the fiscal years 1931 and 1932 in response to a general movement over the country for expansion of road-building programs.

Conferences with officials of the Bureau of Roads, members of State highway commissions and associations sponsoring highways had shown him, Dowell said, that the country as a whole desires to extend and improve the highway systems.

Since the war, he said, $75,000,000 had been sufficient to meet the annual demands of States which match the Federal money dollar for dollar in the construction of arterial highways.

Dowell said in many parts of the country, particularly in the Western States, there was an urgent demand to build roads to connect links which would afford complete highways which were now only improved in sections.

and bridges, Gov. Sampson announced in a wire to the White House.

From Gov. Weaver, of Nebraska, came word that $16,500,000 in State construction alone was contemplated there and that he had ordered a State-wide survey to determine other proposed activity.

At least $20,000,000 will be spent in South Carolina in 1930 for highway and street construction, Gov. Richards said, with an additional $30,000,000 going for State high school buildings.

Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland, reported that $9,500,000 would be available in his State for new road work, and $3,230,000 for general construction projects. This figure does not include any building programs the several counties may be planning, he added.

Iowa Paving Program.

Paving of 1,000 miles of highway in Iowa at a cost of about $35,000,000 was announced by Gov. Hammill, who said this was an increase over the 750 miles of paving originally contemplated.

Gov. Leslie, of Indiana, reported it was too early for him to announce definite plans for State improvements, but that he was "in sympathy with President Hoover's plans and I shall do all in my power to further them." The State highway commission made known that about 2,000 miles of roads are to be added to the highway system there.

A telegram from Gov. Tobey of New Hampshire, commended the move initiated by the President and said his State planned an expenditure of $4,500,000 for highways. He estimated the towns and cities would spend $2,000,000 additional.

"Permit me to congratulate you," said a wire from Gov. Horton, of Tennessee, "upon the practical and effective manner in which by stimulating industry and preventing unemployment you are perpetuating national prosperity." He added that he would ask the Legislature to authorize expenditures for highway work, and to provide funds for construction of schools, county hospitals and other public buildings needed.

Messages Indorse Hoover Idea.

Messages indorsing the speeding up of public building projects, but which did not detail the amounts to be expended in the respective States, were received from Govs. Gardiner of Maine, Carlton of Florida, Holloway of Oklahoma, and Kohler of Wisconsin.

In addition, Gov. Hardman of Georgia, announced in Atlanta that he had telegraphed Hoover his willingness "to cooperate in every way possible," and said he was preparing detailed information which would be forwarded later.

Gov. Larsen of New Jersey, was quoted in press dispatches as saying his State was now engaged in an elaborate program of road and bridge building and other types of public work.

Holds Farm Aid Factor.

Minnesota will cooperate as fully as possible, Gov. Christianson said in St. Paul. He suggested, however, that "more can be accomplished toward stabilization of prosperity by stimultaing the farmers' buying power."

"Hearty accord" with President Hoover's plan was expressed to reporters in Boston by Gov. Allen of Massachusetts. He said orders had been issued "to speed up all uncompleted State construction and reconstruction work authorized for the current year."

Colorado's intention to continue public improvements "as fast as State finances will permit" was disclosed by Gov. Adams.

Husband and Admirer Die in Duel Over Wife

Pittsburg, Calif., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Two men stood facing each other here today and fought a duel, fatal to both, over the love of a woman. Pistols were used and Enemecio Galvez, 25, and Andres Lopez, 24, the duelists, were struck by at least five bullets each. They died within a few minutes.

Cristina Galvez, widow of one of the slain men, over whom they fought, witnessed the shooting, horrified. She collapsed and was reported in a serious condition. The shooting took place in the Galvez home. Deputy sheriffs said Lopez came, intoxicated, to the Galvez home and said, "Here's where we settle who gets Christina."

FARM LEADERS CONFER WITH PRESIDENT

GOVERNORS WIRE HOOVER

rado's intention to continue public improvements "as fast as State finances will permit."

The governor's telegram said the State already has under way a public improvement program that calls for the expenditure of many millions of dollars during the coming year.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Walter J. Kohler has telegraphed President Hoover that Wisconsin will do everything possible to "strengthen the economic situation."

The governor's telegram follows:

"I have already directed a survey of State construction programs for 1930. The survey will be enlarged to include counties and municipalities. Wisconsin will cooperate to the fullest extent possible to further employment and strengthen the economic situation."

Bismarck, N. Dak., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—All departments of the State government will cooperate to the fullest extent with President Hoover's efforts to stabilize business and employment, Gov. George F. Shafer said in a telegram dispatched to the President today.

North Dakota, the governor said, is in a good position to cooperate with the national effort, since the heaviest part of the building program outlined by the 1929 Legislature will be started next year. Buildings costing more than $800,000 will be started in 1930, he said.

Gov. Shafer also said the State is planning a maximum of highway construction for next year and a substantial building program is in progress for municipalities as well as the State. He urged "a substantial increase" in Federal aid for the highways.

Cleveland, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Co., announced today he will submit to the firm's board of directors Friday alternative expansion programs calling, respectively, for expenditures of $10,000,000 on $5,000,000 this winter and spring.

The proposed expansion, Kulas said, is made as a part of the national prosperity campaign instituted by President Hoover in recent Washington conferences which the Otil Steel executive attended.

Kulas has taken a leading part in stimulating the prosperity campaign in this part of the State.

The announcement from Kulas from Philadelphia by telephone. He is there studying the organization methods employed in the Pennsylvania prosperity campaign, and will present his findings to a conference of chief executives of 29 counties and 56 cities of northern Ohio at a meeting in Cleveland called by the chamber of commerce for Wednesday.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Dan Moody said today he will give full cooperation to President Hoover in the President's effort to speed up public building. The governor dispatched messages all over the State seeking an estimate of the amount of county and municipal building scheduled for next year. He said he has already advised of the amount of building to be done by the State, which was limited by legislative appropriation and available revenue.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Montana may be counted on for its share in President Hoover's economic program, Gov. Erickson said today.

Construction programs for highways, railroads, power concerns and municipalities in the State call for the expenditure of many millions of dollars, the governor advised President Hoover.

Illinois Governor Approves.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today telegraphed President Herbert Hoover that "collective action by all branches of the Government as suggested by you should result in continued prosperity for all sections of the country." He added that the president could "depend upon the State of Illinois to do its part."

"Public projects contemplated by the State for the coming year," the governor said, "involve the expenditure of approximately $60,000,000. Road construction and maintenance alone will require the spending of $39,000,000. Carrying out this program is dependent on the favorable termination of litigation brought by the oil companies questioning the validity of the State's gasoline tax law.

"I am also advised that Congress has been asked to increase the appropriation for Federal aid roads. If this be done, the volume of road work in the State will be increased to some extent above the figures I have cited.

$6,000,000 Contract Let.

"Contracts have already been let for State buildings in excess of $6,000,000 and plans are being completed for $3,500,000 worth of additional improvements to be under way within six months. * * *

"Although the $20,000,000 State bond issue for the Illinois waterway has proved insufficient to complete this work, the State will go as far as possible with the system. We are hopeful that a way will be found to finance the remainder of the work on the linking of the great lakes and the Gulf of Mexico in one complete waterway, as this means more to the prosperity of the Middle West than any other single construction project.

"Your efforts at this time to encourage the business interests of our country add a new note of optimism to the Thanksgiving season."

Oklahoma Aid Pledged.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. W. J. Holloway, of Oklahoma, today sent a telegram to President Hoover pledging his coperation, along with that of county and municipal officials, in the President's plan to absorb unemployment by speeding public construction programs.

The governor directed Ban Harrison, State budget officer, to make a survey of pending construction work in the State and transmit a report to Secretary Lamont, at Washington.

New Mexican Meeting Called.

Santae Fe, N. M., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. R. C. Dillon today called a special meeting of the State highway commission for November 26 to consider President Hoover's appeal for aid to industry and labor by speeding up State and county construction work. Replying to Hoover's letter, Gov. Dillon said:

"Our State highway department is ready to put on and carry to completion next year a road building program costing $5,300,000. The Rio Grande conservance district confidently expects to begin its vast engineering plans early in the new year costing $10,000,000 for drainage, flood control and irrigation in the Rio Grande Valley."

South Dakota Opposes Plan.

Pierre, S. Dak., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. W. J. Bullow today expressed opposition to the launching in South Dakota of an extensive public improvement program.

"The people of South Dakota," he said, "are not getting unduly alarmed with the present apparent disturbance of the economic equilibrium among speculators at financial centers." His statement was in reply to a message from President Hoover asking cooperation of States in a national public improvement program.

"If I can get Al Smith to move into the mainland and bring just the memory of the sidewalks of New York with him," Bullow said, "I will try and get Mr. Hoover to trade the Island of Manhattan off for some foreign port and thereby settle all our financial disturbances.

"The remedy proposed by the President to add a national, State and municipal building improvement program sems to me would only furnish temporary relief, postponed the agony and effect no permanent cure; in fact, there might be a great danger that the patient would suffer a serious shock when the doctor's bill for this kind of a prescription would be finally presented."

Iowa to Increase Paving.

Des Moines, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Iowa's response to President Hoover's request to the States to cooperate in improving business conditions will be an attempt to increase the amount of paving to be laid in 1930, Gov. John Hammil said today. He prepared to send to the Chief Executive a telegram outlining the State's public improvement plans for next year.

Gov. Hammill said he would ask the State Highway Commission to increase the amount of paving in 1930 from 750 miles, the amount the commission planned, to approximately 1,000 miles.

The total cost of these improvements, the governor said, would be about $25,000,000.

This program, the governor said, would bring the total of hard surfaced roads in the State to approximately 2,400 miles.

Missouri Governor Writes Mayors.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Commenting today on President Hoover's request to governors of all States to speed up public work to stimulate industrial and trade conditions, Gov. Henry S. Caulfield said he would write to mayors and county courts throughout Missouri, urging that they do all possible to hasten public building.

The governor said that while he has no accurate information at this time as to the amount of public work contemplated for next year, he believes it will amount to between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000, including the State Highway Commission's $25,000,000 road-building program for 1930.

Kansas Accepts Invitation.

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Postponement of income tax reduction and application of surplus Federal funds to governmental construction was urged today by Gov. Clyde M. Reed in accepting President Hoover's invitation to cooperate in his business program.

The Kansas Governor said that with the "liberal" exemptions now in effect income taxes do not bear heavily, and "only apply where there is income." On the other hand, he said, general property in the agricultural sections "must pay taxes regardless of whether there are net earnings."

The governor suggested that the proposed Federal expenditures should include additional allowances for the national highway system to match State expenditures.

Normal Work in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Nebr., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The State of Nebraska, Gov. Weaver advised President Hoover today, will attempt to aid the Nation's employment situation in 1930 with a normal amount of publicly sponsored construction activity. He said $16,500,000 worth of State work alone was contemplated. The governor has ordered a State-wide survey to determine other proposed activity.

Indiana Governor May Aid.

Indianapolis, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana has expressed himself as being in sympathy with President Hoover's suggestion that strength would be given to the present economic situation if road, street, public building and other construction of this type could be speeded up.

"It is too early for me to speak definitely of plans for State improvements, the governor said, "but I am in sympathy with President Hoover's plans and I shall do all in my power to further them. I have a number of things in mind, but I shall have to discuss them with other officials before I can announce them."

The State already has plans for a number of building projects, many of which will be under way soon.

In addition, the State Highway Commission announced Saturday that 2,000 miles of roads are to be added to the State highway system.

North Carolina Ready.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. O. Max Gardner, answering the appeal of President Hoover that States, counties and municipalities speed up construction work to aid business and economic conditions in the United States, said today that North Carolina's support was pledged "to the extent of the necessity and ability of the State and its geographical units."

The telegram to Hoover follows in full:

"In the year 1921 when business was hesitant and the economic situation unstable the General Assembly of this State voted a $50,000,000 bond issue for road construction. This fund supplemented by generous Federal aid served greatly to assist North Carolina through a most depressing period. The road program in the several States has not reached the stage of completion that it has in North Carolina and offers concrete opportunity supplemented by Federal aid to give expression to the plan proposed. The constructive program adopted in North Carolina offers complete justification of your proposal and to the extent of the necessity and ability of the State and its geographical units I pledge you the hearty support of North Carolina. It seems to me to be the duty of all governmental agencies to cooperate to the fullest extent in the practical adaptation of public expenditures to meet the pressing necessities of the public good."

Georgia's Aid Pledged.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Responding to President Hoover's message to governors asking their aid in spurring public building, Gov. Hardman, of Georgia, today telegraphed that he would "be glad to cooperate in every way possible."

The governor's message said he was "preparing information for your files which will be mailed as soon as completed."

South Carolina Pledges Support.

Columbus, S. C., Nov. 26 (A.P.).—In reply to a telegram from President Hoover, asking cooperation in stabilizing business conditions, Gov. John G. Richards today pledged his support to the movement and estimated that at least $20,000,000 will be expended in South Carolina during 1930 in construction of highways and streets, with an additional $30,000,000 in construction of State high school buildings.

DuPont Expenditure Planned.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—An expenditure over the next 12 months of more than $25,000,000 is involved in building projects, either under way or authorized, by the DuPont company and its subsidiaries, officials have announced.

The building program is planned to meet the needs of the companies' varied manufacturing activities, which officials believe will continue to expand.

Of the amount involved, $16,000,000 will go to complete projects already under way, including the completion of the rayon plants in the South; the cellophane plant at Old Hickory, Tenn., a plant for the viscoloid company at Leominister, Mass., and expansions at Belle, W. Va., for the Du Pont Ammonia Corporation.

Bel Telephone Budget Revealed.

Philadelphia, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Leonard H. Kinnard, president of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, has announced thata the company plans to spend $44,000,000 on construction in this State next year.

Hoover Plea Gets Action.

This is $10,000,000 more, the announcement said, than the company had planned to spend before President Hoover began his move for the stimulation of business.

"From 1930 to 1934, inclusive," Kinnard said, "we will spend in Pennsylvania a total of $215,000,000 in new construction."

Southern Pacific Goes Ahead.

San Francisco, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—President Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. announced today his company contemplated new investment expenditures of more than $50,000,000 during the coming year and that within the next ten days the company would place a $5,000,000 order for 120,789 tons of steel rail for 1930 delivery.

The entire budget, he said, will be for new equipment, extensions and betterments of the company's Pacific lines and its subsidiaries, the Northwestern Pacific and the Pacific Electric.

Rubio Is Said to Plan Visit to United States

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 25. (A.P.).—Col. Jose G. Cavazos, nephew of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico, said today that a visit to the United States soon after his induction into office is contemplated by the new Mexican chief executive.

Col. Cavazos said tentative plans for the visit provide for a trip up the west coast of Mexico and entrance to the United States here. After brief visits in Los Angeles and San Francisco the president-elect is expected to entrain for Washington to meet President Hoover.

FIGHT ON OLD GUARD TO BE ACCENTUATED

Committee Jobs Scramble Expected to Increase Heat of Revolt.

SEVERAL POSTS VACANT

The revolt against old guard leadership in the Senate will be accentuated in the coming scramble for committee assignments precipitated by the death of Senator Francis Emroy Warren, of Wyoming, veteran chairman of the appropriations committee. This fact became evident yesterday when it was learned that Senator Smoot, (Republican), Utah, is disposed to give up the chairmanship of the finance committee and take Warren's vacated post to which, by the rule of seniority, Smoot is entitled.

Coupled with the determination of Chairman McNary (Republican), Oregon, of the committee on committees, to have a new deal generally on majority committee assignments, Smoot's reported decision is believed to forecast a strenuous intraparty battle with the finance chairmanship and memberships on the finance and foreign relations committees as the major prizes.

It is not anticipated that there will be any serious opposition to Smoot's assuming the chairmanship of the appropriations committee, but there are indications that there may be very considerable objection to allowing another old guardsman to take Smoot's place at the head of the finance committee.

The manner in which the old guard leaders handled the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was the chief reason for the dissatisfaction expressed by the young guard in their recent short-lived revolution.

Senator Watson (Republican, Indiana), the major leader, and Senator Reed (Republican, Pennsylvania) are first and second in line respectively for Smoot's present position. Watson, it is generally assumed here, would be unlikely to press his claim because to do so would involve giving up his position as leader. With Reed the situation is different. His State is vitally interested in the tariff and also in Federal taxation, both of which subjects fall within the jurisdiction of the finance committee. Moreover, he is considered one of the best informed members of the Senate on the subject of public finance. The difficulty is that he has been heart and soul with the old guard on the Hawley-Smoot bill which has aroused so much dissatisfaction among members of his own party.

The vacancy on the finance committee, created by the retirement of Senator Edge of New Jersey to become Ambassador to France, is another prize for which three candidates are already in the field. There is Senator Steiwer of Oregon, the old guard candidate; Senator Thomas of Idaho, favored by the young guard bloc, and Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, the choice of the insurgent group.

Edge's retirement also creates a vacancy on the foreign relations committee, which is of considerable concern to the administration in view of the forthcoming submission of the Root formulae on the World Court, as well as whatever agreements may come out of the impending naval conference.

It is understood that there has been strong administration pressure exerted in favor of Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, assistant majority leader, for this assignment. It has also developed that some promises had been made by Senate leaders some time ago that the next vacancy on this committee would go to Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana. Robinson has been opposed to American participation in the World Court; but he is a member of the young guard group, the support of which will be necessary to carry out any administration program of committee realignment.

Other vacancies resulting from the deaths of Senator Warren and Senator Burton, of Ohio, and from the resignation of Edge occur in the committees on banking and currency, privileges and elections, interocecanic canals (of which Edge was chairman), civil service, commerce, education and labor, judiciary, military affairs and public buildings and grounds.

Advertising Man Urges Stimulation of Trade

Special to The Washington Post.

George Harrison Phelps, Detroit advertising man, in a statement today called upon all advertisers who possibly could do so to maintain their drive and not allow business to lapse for want of proper stimulation. "When I wrote tomorrow's advertisers and their advertising agencies," said Phelps, "I devoted considerable attention to advertisers who overspend by under spending—in other words who stop just short of effectiveness and therefore waste their money or a large part of it.

"While I was writing them of the future I believe every sagacious business man should think hard today before he slashes his advertising appropriation and thus brings upon himself that very slump which he dreads. Unless there are sound economic reasons to believe that the country's purchasing power has been largely destroyed, at least for the present, there can be no reason to quit advertising. And so far there is no real evidence that we are in any such situation.

"People are going to go right on living and desiring and those whose machinery is geared to gratifying their wishes and thus to contribute to their joy in living should not deliberately enter into a state of paralysis. The advertiser should remember that the competition for attention is fierce and that to compete weakly is to compete wastefully."

STATE LAWS UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

(Associated Press.)

Four State laws were pronounced valid yesterday by the Supreme Court as the justices donned robes again after a three-week recess. The highest tribunal handed down eleven opinions, added two cases to those it will review, declined to consider fourteen and refused to reconsider its former actions in sixteen.

In addition to upholding the validity of a Connecticut, an Oregon and two California statutes, the court declined to reconsider a refusal to review cases involving the Pennsylvania sedition law and the Iowa prohibition law.

The California cases involved the motor vehicle fuel tax laws of 1923 and 1927 and the highway tax on common carriers operating between fixed termini or over regular routes.

Motor Liability Limit Upheld.

That from Connecticut attacked the validity of a law regulating the liability of motor vehicle owners for injury of guests being gratuitously transported.

The one from Oregon was directed at a statute imposing a heavy tax on fire insurance agents for all over one in the smaller towns and two in the larger.

Among the other decisions, the court held that Interstate Commerce Commission was without authority to compel the construction of union passenger stations, and that the gift tax of 1924, since repealed, was constitutional.

I. C. C. Authority Upheld.

In a case from New Jersey the court recognized the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission over foreign shipments when the merchandise is moved by railroads between two points in the same State.

The court declined to reconsider its recent refusal to pass on the conviction of Peter Musslin and associates at Woodlawn, Beaver County, Pa., under the State sedition law on the charge of advocating the use of force to overthrow the Government, and also declined to reconsider its refusal to pass on the contention of A. C. Bamsey, of Creston, Iowa, that he had been convicted for violating the State prohibition law on evidence illegally obtained.

NEW JUROR TO SIT IN M'MANUS TRIAL

Special Panel of 50 Is Called to Provide Alternate for Ill Member.

CASE IS AGAIN DELAYED

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Another of the vicissitudes which have beset police and the district attorney in their effort to bring to justice the slayer of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway's gambling king, today halted the trial of George McManus, charged with the murder.

The latest stumbling block was the nervous illness of a juror, which led to his being excused.

Rothstein was killed a year ago, November 4, and since late in September the State has been attempting to bring his alleged slayer to trial, spurred on by charges of the opponents of the city administration that there was no desire to bring the case to a decision.

A week ago last Tuesday the trial finally was called in general sessions, but immediately adjourned on the plea of the State that Alvin C. Thomas, then expected to be one of its strong witnesses against McManus, was ill in Milwaukee.

Adjourned until last Monday, three days were consumed in selecting a jury, during which one juror was excused because of illness and another for too close an acquaintanceship with attaches of the district attorney's offices.

Then, after two days of testimony, when the trial was adjourned Friday over the week-end Eugene Riker, one of the younger members of the "blue ribbon" jury, complained to Presiding Judge Charles C. Nott, jr., that he was ill and asked to be excused.

Today Judge Nott formally granted his request, on the advice of a court-appointed physician who reported that Riker was on the verge of a nervous breakdown, evidently aggravated by the thought that he might have to vote a death sentence against McManus, who remains one of the most powerful gamblers in the "roaring forties."

After adjourning the case until tomorrow Judge Nott ordered a special panel of 50 talesmen called.

A mistrial will be formally declared when court opens tomorrow, but a new one will be immediately opened. State and defense will again accept the eleven jurors remaining from the first jury, and from among the 50 talesmen attempt to find a juryman to fill the one vacant place in the jury box.

Rhode Island Avenue Fund Committee Named

A special financial committee was appointed by the Mount Rainier Citizens Association at a meeting last night to raise funds for the share of the association in the celebration of the opening of the extension of Rhode Island avenue.

An impromptu collection at the meeting last night resulted in the raising of $50 toward the $500 which has been prescribed as the quota for the Mount Rainier Association. The financial committee is composed of Albert Vauman, chairman; W. T. S. Rollins, David Lang, H. L. Stanforth, Carl Bock and A. J. Bates. The committee will meet next Monday to complete plans for the raising of the necessary fund.

$10,000 Suit Bares Trials Of Lady Heath and Mate

Woman Flier Threatened to "Sting Old Swine," Is Testimony.

London, Nov. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The martial difficulties of Lady Heath, noted woman flyer, and her aged husband, Sir James Heath, featured the trial today of the suit brought by Christabal Russell, Ltd., Fashionable dressmakers, to recover $10,000 for apparel supplied to Lady Heath.

Eric Ernest Stammers, solicitor for Sir James, testified for the defense that before sailing on her last trip to the United States Lady Heath said: "I'll sting the old swine."

Sir James settled $100,000 on his wife when they were married, Statmmers said, which brought her an income of about $5,000 a year. The wedding was once postponed, he continued, because Lady Heath insisted on a formal settlement before the ceremony and failed to show up at the church at the appointed time since nothing had been done about it.

Stammers said Sir James eventually informed hi swife that he would continue to take care of the housekeeping expenses and the upkeep of her airplane, but that she must pay for hr private things out of her own money.

Matters came to such a pass, Stammers testified, that Lady Heath promised to cancel her American trip if Sir James would agree to a certain course. If he didn't, she threatened to spend as much money as possible and clear off to the United States and remain there. It was then that Lady is alleged to have said: "I'll sting sting the old swine."

"I told her I'd report this to Sir James," Stammers said, "and advise him to place a notice in the papers forbidding her to pledge his credit. She said she didn't care."

Stammers added that a few days later Lady Heath's secretary phoned him that if the notice was published the woman flier never would get past Ellis Island, and Sir James postponed publication of the notice until later, as he didn't want to interfere with his wife's plans in America.

The trial will continue tomorrow.

BIG FUND FOR NAVY WILL BE CONSIDERED

House Committee Plans Discussion Regardless of Navy Parley.

SPECIAL CLAUSE URGED

(Associated Press.)

Allotment of millions of dollars for construction of new cruisers and submarines will be considered by the House appropriations committee in January, regardless of the naval limitation conference beginning in London that month.

Chairman French, of the naval appropriations subcommittee, expressed the belief yesterday that the House will not modify its plan to consider the measure in January, when it is reported by the committee, but will go on with its work as though the conference had not been called.

The bill should be passed by Congress, the Idahoan said, without regard to the conference. It should, he added, carry appropriate language that would permit the President to suspend construction of warships if the conference permits reduction, or expedite the expenditure of funds for construction in the event the conference does not provide reduction.

British Scrapping Wanted.

Chairman Britten of the House naval affairs committee said, however, such language should be included in the bill only in event of an agreement between England and the United States that "will bring about scrapping of enough British cruiser tonnage so there will be actual cruiser parity between the nations."

The bill should specify, Britten added, that further reduction in cruiser strength would not be approved by the House which "has gone on record urging fifteen cruisers to be laid down by 1931."

Hearings on the naval bill, which carried $362,000,000 last year, are set by the committee for early in January.

Submarine Funds Sought

The Navy Department has indicated, French said, that it would ask for funds to construct three V-type submarines and to complete the last three of the eight light cruisers provided in the 1924 program.

In addition, the Navy is expected by French to submit estimates for construction of five of the fifteen cruisers and the airplane carrier authorized last year.

Although estimates have not been submitted, some committee members believe an outlay reaching probably $50,000,000 might be necessary.

Cruiser Work Suspended.

Construction of three of the five cruisers to be begun in the fiscal year 1930 has been suspended by President Hoover, pending the London conference; and some by committee members expect that this would affect the amount of construction to be done during the next fiscal year.

Noting that the conference itself might last some time, French said that—assuming most favorable results—it probably would require several months for the respective nations to consider ratification.

"The logical course for Congress to follow is for my committee to consider the Naval bill and make a report and the Congress to consider the bill as though the conference were not being held," he said. "The measure should contain appropriate language that would permit the President to suspend construction of ships or to expend the money should the naval conference result in a program that would not permit reduction."

VOTE REGISTRATION STATUTE ATTACKED

POLICEMAN TALKS CRIME

Criticism of the law which compels residents of Maryland to register a year before they may vote was voiced last night by Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, republican candidate for governor of Maryland, at a Republican rally at Star Hall, Mt. Rainer, held under the auspices of the Chillum District Republican Club.

Mayor Broening declared that the statute prevents a large number of newcomers to the state from voting because most of these persons are unfamiliar with the law.

"It is a crying shame," he said, "that people should be compelled one year before election to journey to the county seat to register."

The meeting was also featured by the announcement of William P. Conners, of Hyattsville, that he will be a candidate for sheriff of Prince Georges County. Connrs is a member of the Hyatsville Town Council.

"So far as State buildings and general construction work are concerned, the State of Maryland has never had any general standby fund which could be expended for these purposes from time to time as conditions warranted, and I do not believe that the Legislature would authorize such a general fund because of the efforts which would almost certainly be made to draw upon it for purposes which might not represent the matured and best judgment of the State.

"State construction work in Maryland has always been provided for by the issue of State bonds at the times and for the purposes specifically designated by the Legislature. In accordance with this custom, the Legislature of 1929 authorized a general construction loan of $3,761,000 to be raised from the issue of State bonds during the years 1929 and 1930. On August 15, 1929, $531,000 of these bonds were issued under the terms of the law and the proceeds have either been used or are now being used in constructing the public works authorized by the law. On February 15, 1930, and on August 15, 1930, the remainder of these bonds, aggregating $3,230,000, will be issued and the proceeds will be expended during 1930 in constructing as rapidly as possible the public buildings and works authorized by the law. Additional construction money can not be realized until the Legislature meets again in January, 1930.

"From this you will see that the total expenditures which you ask me to give you which will be made by the State of Maryland for construction purposes of all kinds in 1930 are over $9,500,000 for highway purposes and $3,230,000 for general construction work and all of this work will be pushed as rapidly as it is possible to push it.

"I have not at hand today the figures for the county and municipal construction programs in this State for 1930, but I will communicate at once with the proper local officials and advise you as promptly as possible. I can assure you that the counties and the cities will cooperate in pushing their programs as energetically as can be done."

HOOVER TO ATTEND RITES FOR WARREN

COMMITTEE SHIFT DUE

With President Hoover and a host of other dignitaries in attendance, a state funeral will be held for Senator Frances E. Warren, of Wyoming, in the Senate chamber at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

This will be the second time within a month that President Hoover has attended such a ceremony. On October 28 he was present at the state funeral of Senator Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio.

The late Senator Warren also was in the chamber on that occasion. Not long thereafter he was stricken with a cold that developed into pneumonia and brought about his death Sunday morning.

Simple Ceremonies Set.

This afternoon's ceremony will be simple and brief, and will be conducted by the Senate chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Z. B. Phillips, after which, at 3:15, the body, escorted by delegations of the Senate and House, will be taken to Wyoming for burial.

In addition to President Hoover, the services today will be attended by the members of the Cabinet, the members of the Supreme Court, the chieftains of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, senators and representatives, and members of the Diplomatic Corps.

In addition to these persons, all of whom will have seats on the Senate floor, places have been reserved for friends and relatives, including Gen. John J. Pershing, the late senator's son-in-law and commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War.

The services are scheduled to be concluded in time for departure of the body at 3:15 o'clock this afetrnoon from the Union Station on a Baltimore & Ohio special train, accompanied by relatives, friends and a group of senators. The train is due to arrive in Cheyenne Thursday morning, when the body will be placed on an artillery caisson and atken to the capitol, where it will lie in state from 9:45 to 11:45 o'clock that morning. Due to the announced lack of an auditorium or building sufficiently large to accommodate the throngs that would attend the funeral services, plans call for a procession of he body to Lakeview Cemetery for services and interment at noon. The entire garrison of more than 2,000 men from Fort D. A. Russell will form the guard of escort.

With the House mourners will be Representative Charles M. Stedman, of North Carolina. He and Senator Warren were the only congressional survivors of the War Between the States. Stedman, who served with the Confederacy, and Warren, a hero in the Union Army, were good friends, and always exchanged greetings when they met in the Capitol corridors.

"Hello, Johnny Reb. How you be?" Warren would sing out.

"Howdy yourself, you Yankee," Stedman would laughingly reply.

Mellon Eulogizes Warren.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon joined with others in eulogizing Senator Warren yesterday. His statement follows:

"I am deeply distressed to learn of the death of Senator Warren. To me it brings a sense of great personal loss. I valued his friendship and had the highest regard for him both as a man and as a public official.

"He had a remarkable understanding of the public business, based on long experience and the careful study which he gave all questions. Such men, combining his integrity of character, his long legislative experience, and his high standards of public service, are rare in any country and his loss will be greatly felt."

Dale Praises Colleague.

Senator Dale (Republican) of Vermont, said that "Senator Warren was fortunate in a long life of romance, duty well done and reward justly earned.

"He met faithfully his obligations in a great war, the vast new West of his country and political forums of territory, State and Nation. The Nation may well mourn the passing of a strong, good man."

There still is some uncertainty as to who will succeed Senator Warren as chairman of the Senate appropriations committee. Senator Smoot, of Utah, is the ranking Republican on it, and therefore entitled to the post. Smoot, however, also is chairman of the powerful finance committee, and he is not expected to relinquish this.

Next in line is Senator Jones, of Washington. Like Smoot, however, he, too, is chairman of another important committee, that on commerce. So far it is not known whether he would be willing to give up the commerce post to take Warren's chairmanship of the appropriations committee.

LONG FALL FATAL

LIEUT. GEORGE T. CUDDIHY.

BOLLING FLIER DIES IN TWO-MILE CRASH

Navy pilot in Washington had hoped to try his hand at flying it. It had been assembled only a few days, and had been tested Friday by an officer of the Royal Air Force Reserve. The flight which ended fatally yesterday was said to have been the first to have been made by Lieut. Cuddihy in the plane.

Lieut. Cuddihy lived at 3101 Thirty-fifth street northwest. He was a noted pilot, especially of racing planes, having been a member of the United States Schneider Cup Team in 1926. He also participated in the Schneider Cup races at Baltimore in 1925 and in the National Air races at Philadelphia in 1926. In 1927, he made an extended trip over the Andes Mountains. He was an honor man at the United States Naval Academy, graduating near the top of his class in 1917.

Had Reputation for Nerve.

Since being transferred to the Naval Air Station here in 1924, Lieut. Cuddihy gained a reputation for fearlessness and dexterity in the air. Last July he was made flight test officer at the station, being placed in charge of tests of new planes with a view to their acceptance by the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Anna K. Cuddihy, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and two sisters, Mrs. Charles O'Brien, 3728 Veazy street, and Mrs. Harry O'Brien, 3421 Porter street. The former sister is employed at the Veterans' Bureau, and the latter had been employed at the same place until recently.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

PEASANT'S FUNERAL GIVEN CLEMENCEAU

GUNS ROAR OVER FRANCE

Mouchamps, Vendee, France, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The man who is credited with having saved France from disastrous defeat in 1918 was buried today in his native Vendee with less ceremony than would be accorded to the humblest peasant on his estate.

Georges Clemenceau, one of the last of the great prewar European statesmen, ordered that there be no flowers, no procession and no speeches at his funeral, and these orders were carried out to the letter.

His body was brought from Paris by automobile in a simple oaken coffin. Only members of his family and a score of his most intimate friends were permitted to be present at the burial. Gendarmes and soldiers kept curious spectators, newspapermen, photographers, and even the inhabitants of the countryside at a distance.

Rests Beside His Father.

The wartime premier of France was buried alongside his father in the land of his fathers, a little plot of ground near the Clemenceau farm outside this village.

The site is a small wood on the slope of a hill that descends to a brook where the old Tiger played as a child. A nude figure holding a glaive, an ancient Greek marble presented to the Tiger by Greece, stands above his grave.

Like the time-worn stone of his father, it bears no inscription. The Tiger's chief thought for his funeral was to avoid any religious service or formal mourning.

He was not buried standing upright, though his lawyer and other close personal friends had given out in Paris that he would be. The ground where Clemenceau and his father are buried slopes sharply, and the graves themself have a sharp incline. This created the legend that Clemenceau, like his father before him, would stand up and face the world, even though dead.

Peasants Respect His Views.

The peasants of the neighborhood paid the war-time premier a silent and furtive homage. Knowing his antireligious opinions, they unostentatiously made the sign of the cross as the motor hearse went by.

Four men who worked on the Clemenceau farm carried the coffin from the hearse and lowered it into the grave, while the family and the friends stood with bared heads. The ceremony was over in twenty minutes. Nobody except the mourners was allowed to come close enough to see the body put into the grave.

When the automobiles had driven away through the mud, the guards were withdrawn and the peasants permitted to go to the tombstone.

Whole Nation Salutes.

Paris, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—As the coffin of former Premier Clemenceau was being lowered into its grave near Mouchamps today, 101 guns of Armistice Day fame boomed out the tribute of the French nation to the "Father of Victory."

Although the war-time leader had given command that his passing be marked by the utmost simplicity, official France felt called upon to disobey him in some respects. For him the cannon thundered as on Armistice Day and the Chamber sat in a solemn special session to hear eulogistic orations from the president of the chamber, Fernand Bolsson and Premier Tardieu.

For him on Sunday the soldiers of the World War will march up the famed avenue of the Champs Elysee to the Arc de Triomphe, which Napoleon erected to commemorate the victories of France.

In his oration to Parliament today Premier Tardieu, successor of Clemenceau and Poincare and a leader among the younger figures in French political life, addressed a fervid appeal to all Frenchmen never to forget Clemenceau's idealism and above all to work and labor for France.

Peace was Clemenceau's great goal, said M. Tardieu, for Clemenceau sought the lasting contentment and happiness of his people.

"Practice his virtues!" exclaimed the premier, "that is how we may honor the great Clemenceau best."

Girl, Jilted, Burns Self to Death.

Havana, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Jilted by her sweetheart, 15-year-old Margarita Garcia this morning committed suicide by saturating her clothing with alcohol and setting it afire. Dancing a grewsome dance of death and calling the name of the boy, Margarita was mortally burned before members of her family could extinguish the flames.

Vatican Plans Nuncio Accredited to Dublin

Vatican City, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Negotiations have advanced between the Irish Free State and the Holy See for the appointment of a papal nuncio in Dublin. An Irish minister to the Vatican already has been appointed.

Although England also has a minister accredited to the Holy See, there is no nuncio accredited to King George since this is forbidden by British law. The nuncio at Dublin nevertheless will be technically accredited to the British monarch but will not reside on English territory.

STARLING EXPOSED AS RANK VULGARIAN

ITS 'STURNUS VULGARIS'

What is a starling and why? Well, the latter question is something that perhaps no one this side of heaven can answer; but, as for the first, a Post reader has gone to the trouble of delving into a dictionary to assist the participants in the contest being conducted to determine the most effective and humane method of ridding the Capital of the bird pests. Following are his findings:

The Starling Editor:

Sir:—There is one thing wrong with your announcement of a prize contest for the elimination of starlings from the trees and buildings bordering Pennsylvania Avenue and that is your neglect to tell just what a starling is.

Now we know that a starling is a bird and we know in what respect he (or possibly she, or rather the whole starned family) constitutes a nuisance, but how can one write with an air of authority unless one can bandy about the Latin phrases so loved by Orni. . . . (please fill in correct words here for the kind of 'ologist that studies birds)?

It may be possible that you yourself do not know the proper term and so in order that you might pass it on for the information of your readers, I looked it up for you. The term is "Sturnus vulgaris" (no kidding) and referring to the definition of "vulgar" it seems singularly and plurally, appropriate. The first definition of vulgar given by my friend Mr. Webster is "of or relating to the common people" but as most of us disclaim all such relationship it is necessary to look farther down the page where we find the line "offensive to good taste or refined feelings; low; coarse." With all of this we can agree with the exception of the word "low" and if only starlings would roost a little "lower," say, down a sewer somewhere, the entire definition might be revised.

To get back to the question of "what is a starling" we find that "Sturnus vulgaris" (get the Latin?) is "any passerine bird belonging to Sturnus or any allied genus; in a broad sense any bird of the family Sturnidae." The dictionary goes on to say that "the European starling is sociable (we found that out) and builds about houses, old towers, &c." We haven't found a starling building yet, but it seems possible that the Pennsylvania avenue hordes are merely engaged in a series of conferences to decide where and what to build. (We could offer some excellent suggestions along this line—free advertising for "Chick Sale.")

Well, Ed., this is just to give your prize contestants a little authoritative information about starlings that may aid them in winning. If you need any more "dope" or if you don't get satisfactory solution to the problem, let me know and I'll fix you up.

(Signed) A BIRD FANCIER.

CHILDREN'S RIGHTS UPHELD BY KRAMER

consider such labor, though 30.8 of the population was thus engaged.

Dr. Kramer asked the question, "where lies the responsibility for supplying the necessary guidance?" And answered, saying, home, school, public opinion and social relations.

"Parental authority and guidance must be restored in the dominance of the lives of our children on a basis of mutual respect between the parent and the child," Dr. Kramer said. "The fundamental characteristics of a real home are as applicable to a home today as at any time through all the change in social conditions of the generations of the past."

His specifications of a home were: A place of shelter; a source of food and clothing; a center of social life; a center of affection; a source of fond memories which remain a comfort when all else fails; the elemental social unit of which one is a true part; a real democracy wherein the ruling power is not mere authority but recognized wisdom and judgment and the directing force is an equitable and loving, but also forceful leadership; a real democracy in which every member is a part and in which every member has a voice in proportion to his experience, judgment and self-control; the source of one's standards and life ideals; the source of the basic principles of justice, tolerance and religion, the source of hospitality which is as much at the disposal of the child as the parent; a family rather than a showroom for satisfaction of parental vanity; a place above all which is the center of real life interest; a harbor of refreshment rather than simply a port of departure; a place of being rather than just a postoffice address.

Turning to the school, Dr. Kramer said "the school must recognize that a pupil going out into life is confronted with a problem of making a choice. He will have presented to him the problem of selecting from a vast array of opportunities the one wherein he shall find a field for his talents, a satisfaction to his own soul, a worthy service to his fellowmen, and a material return sufficient to make provision for the needs of himself and his dependents."

Responsibilities of Opinion.

"What are the responsibilities of public opinion in the guidance of youth," he asked. "There are few forces so potent in the shaping of minds and inspirations of our children as that of social approval expressed by public opinion. When the public attention and interest are centered upon undesirable outbreaks of lawless youth and when the public exploits the bizarre and reckless, what can be expected from public opinion as a constructive guidance force for the youth of our land?

"'Flaming youth' is a phrase which we often hear. Why must this picturesque phrase mean the excesses, the recklessness, the extravagances, the lawlessness, the sensational?

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he, and public opinion is a real force in shaping the thinking of youth," Dr. Kramer concluded.

Best Gift for Schools.

Summing up his address, Dr. Kramer said: "The best gift that can come to the school is a sympathetic and understanding public. The undertaking of a guidance program by the school is well-nigh impossible without the support of the people whom we serve. It lies within the power of an organization such as this to make any program undertaken by the school a success. Your are the people who pay for the schools. The cooperative force of a people convinced that a program of instruction is necessary, makes the establishment of that undertaking imminently possible."

"The cooperation of the home has been even a deeper significance," the speaker said, "than that of furnishing a support for the program of the school. The home is a source of the attitudes that help or hinder the work of the school. The standards of the child are in nearly all cases the standards of the home. Too often thoughtless pride deceives us into believing that the place in life's work which we desire for our children must of necessity be possible. Our ambition for our children should be of the most exalted character but such ambitions must be based upon knowledge and reason.

"These boys and girls must obtain from the home, attitudes, ideals and aims which will be in keeping with those set forth by the school, and the only way in which this can be brought about is by the establishment of a true cooperation between the home and the school.

In passing, attention might be called to a postscript printed at the bottom of the ballot, which states that "your name and address will not be used publicly in any way at any time." While practically every ballot received thus far has contained the voter's name and address filled in on the proper lines, some few apparently seem to think The Post does not mean what it says.

Listing loud speakers in homes as his pet aversion, one reader gives the location as "next door" and then signs the ballot, "A Subscriber for Many Long Years." All right, we'll bit; next door to where?

We Really Mean It.

In case some readers may not get the idea yet, let it be repeated here that "your name and address will not be used publicly in any way at any time."

One voter who objects to the noise of airplanes writes on the location line, "up."

Another protests against the noise of "automobiles parking all night in the streets instead of in garages." Possibly the teeth in their gears rattle as they shiver in this chill November air. The same voter, incidentally, objects also to motorcycle policemen.

A Boy Scout with a bugle has aroused the ire of one resident of the Northwest section, while various readers in various sections have protested against boys with bugles, drums and other allegedly musical instruments, and still others rise in arms against boys who whistle.

"Street cars, everywhere, always," writes one who criticises "jangling bells on the cars, the rails and their operation, the bells with which the conductors ring up fares, banging of doors, &c., &c., &c."

Emergency Ambulance Named.

Of the 28 who condemn ambulance sirens, a dozen mentioned Emergency Hospital as the particular offender, this being the only institution to have its chariot named specifically. One reader complained that the Emergency ambulance makes a trip along Connecticut avenue regularly at 5 o'clock each evening, "probably taking nurses home or something equally important."

Roaring oil burners and clincking electric refrigerators drew fire from other seekers after quietude, and one whose silence is broken by barking dogs even went so far as to designate the hounds by breed in the ordr of his objections, listing collies first and spitzes second.

Using automobile horns as substitutes for doorbells was one of the most common complaints in the first day's batch of ballots.

"Maggie's boy friend sits out in the car and honks all the time he's waiting for her," writes one critic. "He does it because she wants the neighbors to know her sugar plum has a car."

Spare Neighbors the Details.

Another old Capital custom that doesn't seem to be appreciated by the neighbors is that of bidding long distance adieus. Quite a number of voters protest against company that terminates an evening call just before dawn and keeps yelling "good-night" until he gets all the way over to the other side of town.

"Presumably," writes one, "when company leaves after a call, both the host and the guest are aware that the parting is taking place, and that, it seems, is all that matters. The neighbors are glad, of course, that the party is over, but they're not at all interested in hearing the details about what a fine time was had by all."

Sopranos Are Not Popular.

It is interesting to note that radio leads by a wide margin as a noise nuisance, of all the ballots and letters received thus far, only "three contained complaints against jazz specifically, whereas there were seven who cited sopranos as their most hated sounds, and five squawked particularly against announcers in general.

Replying to the complaint published yesterday, an official of the telephone company writes to say: "How long a telephone bell should ring is not a new question. It has been given careful and thorough study over a long period. How loud the telephone bell might be is largely a matter of individual taste on the part of the telephone patron. The telephone company has bells of various tone and will provide a loud tone or soft tone bell as requested by the subscriber. The patron complains that the telephone bell rings for too long a time. If it did not ring long enough it would resut in failure to complete calls, which would be unsatisfactory both to the person calling and the person being called.

Answering Will tSop It.

"What the telephone company aims to do, therefore, as a result of long experience, is to have the bell ring for a period which, as far as possible, will saisfy the public generally. Of course, the sure way t ostop a telephone bell from ringing is to answer the telephone."

Now, that's service. On the very first day after The Post starts its Din Cut Probe (Noise Abatement Campaign to you), results start to flock in. So mark up the ballot right away, and if there aren't enough noises listed there already, add as many more as may arouse your ire.

It is apparent already that the public of Washington is strongly incensed against the unnecessary din of the city, and if that resentment is demonstrated sufficiently, it should be possible to get the necessary action taken to substitute silence for some of the clatter that now disturbs the peace and serenity of the Nation's Capital.

Harrisonburg Man Dies After Fall From House

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 25.—Jehu Long, 71, carpenter, was fatally injured here today when he plunged from the roof of a house which he was building on South High street. He fell about eighteen feet and was so severely injured that he died at the hospital two hours later.

Long was a former member of the Harrisonburg police force and also served as a rural mail carrier.

Advance warnings of severe cold, frost and floods result in an annual saving of $33,000,000, says Dr. C. F. Marvin, chief of the United States Weather Bureau.

FORD PLAN RAISES STORM OF PROTEST

Purchase of Historic Homes in Alexandria to Meet With Opposition.

RUST BOY RITES HELD

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The announcement that Henry Ford, Detroit automobile magnate, contemplates purchasing one of the historic buildings of Alexandria to be razed and reerected as an addition to his Dearborn, Mich., collection of antiques, has raised a storm of protest from Alexandria citizens and civic organizations interested in the preservation throughout Virginia of its historic buildings.

According to Richard B. English, manager of the Washington division of the Ford Company, Ford contemplates merely the purchase of a building of colonial design to add to his collection of period structures.

The Washington Society of Alexandria, through William B. McGroarty, president, is said to be prepared to make a formal protest against the removal from Alexandria of any of its outstanding historic buildings. A meeting of this society has been called by McGroarty to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the office of Charles H. Callahan, commissioner of revenue, who is an active member of the society. At this meeting it is understood that Ford's reported desire to obtain one of Alexandria's old buildings to add to his unique collection in Dearborn will be discussed. There appears to be no serious objection to the purchase by Ford or any one else of any one of the number of buildings in Alexandria which would be fairly representative of almost any style of architecture characteristic of Virginia or any of the early colonies.

A vigorous protest, however, it is understood, will be made to the removal from Alexandria of any of the buildings which have figured in Colonial history, such as the Carlyle House, in which the conference of governors was held which resulted in the commissioning of George Washington as a major in the British army and a member of the personal staff of Gen. Braddock; Gadsby's Tavern, a room of which was reserved for Washington as his headquarters on at least two occasions when he was engaged in recruiting troops for the Colonial forces, in which building he was entertained on many occasions, and in which the first official celebration of Washington's Birthday was held; and the old Ramsay House, at the corner of Fairfax and King streets, in which Washington is reputed to have been entertained many times at dances given by Col. Dennis Ramsay for his several beautiful daughters.

Another house upon which Ford's attention might be centered is that at the corner of Duke and St. Asaph streets, which is probably one of the best examples of colonial architecture in the city, and in which the Marquis de Lafayette was entertained on his visit to the United States in 1825.

The funeral of Thomas Locke Rust, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Rust, took place yesterday from Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Braddock. Ministers who officiated both at the church service and the burial in Ivy Hill Cemetery were the Rev. George S. Vest, rector of the church; the Rev. Page Dame, head of Christ Church School; the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Harry B. Lee, of Towson, Md., an uncle of the boy.

Honorary pallbearers were the following former playmates of young Rust at Braddock Heights: Swann Sinclair, jr., Franklin Backus, Robert Rodgers, Charles P. Nicholson, jr., Carter Beverley and Roland Goode, jr. Active pallbearers were Billy Rust and Willie Lee, cousins of the boy; DuBois Prookings and three classmates from Christ Church School.

Young Rust was fatally injured on Friday when the automobile in which he was riding, in the rumble seat, was in collision with a truck in Middlesex County, Va., during a blinding snowstorm, as he, with Jack Monroe, of Alexandria; Gardner Hill and William Smith, of Baltimore, all students at the school, were starting off for a week-end at their homes. The other three were only slightly injured, and all were taken back to the school hospital, where Rust died on Saturday morning.

The funeral of Arthur M. Purvis, 38 years old, who died early Sunday morning at the Alexandria hospital as the result of injuries received about noon Saturday when the motor truck in which he was a passenger was in collision with a bus of the Alexandria, Barcroft and Washington Bus Line, at the intersection of Prince and Henry streets, will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow from the Funeral Home of Cunningham, Kennedy & Watkins, 809 Cameron street, and burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery. The deceased was a member of Shipman Lodge of Masons and the burial service will be conducted by Alexandria-Washington Lodge of this city, acting for the Shipman Lodge.

Fitzgerald Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold a Thanksgiving celebration tomorrow evening at the hall, after the regular meeting to be held at 8 o'clock. The entertainment will be under the direction of George W. Kimball and Francis H. Fannon.

Mrs. Alice Graham, 70 years old, wife of James G. Graham, died yesterday morning at her home, 212 North Alfred street, after an illness of several weeks. Besides her husband she is survived by a son, John G. Graham, and two brothers, Loudoun and Edgar Campbell. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home.

The funeral of Alexander Kaufmann, who died on Sunday, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning from the home, 217 South Pitt street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Abram Simon, of Washington, and burial will be with Masonic honors. The deceased was a member of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons and of Alexandria Lodge No. 758, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Mrs. Malinda Finch, wife of George S. Finch, of 317 Queen street, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mudd, 211 North Fairfax street, where she had gone Sunday to pass the day and was taken suddenly ill. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from her home, 317 Queen street, services conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Miss Sarah King, about 90 years old, died yesterday morning at her home, 315 Wolfe street, and the funeral will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church, with the Rev. Hugh McFadden officiating. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The Alexandria unit of the War Mothers' Association will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the George Mason Hotel, with Mrs. A. J. Pohl, the president, in the chair. Other officers are Mrs. Norman L. Williamson, vice president; Mrs. L. L. Spofford, recording secretary; Mrs. Alice Petitt, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Robert E. Knight, treasurer.

John W. Tulloch will be chairman of the program for the meeting today of the Rotary Club and will be assisted by the Rev. Hugh McFadden, rector of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and the Rev. Pierce Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. A delegation from the local club will attend the charter night celebration of the Rockville (Md.) Rotary Club tonight.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY HUNT CLUB ELECTS

KESWICK GROUP MEETS

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 26.—The University of Virginia Hunt Club has been reorganized for the session, with the following officers: Jouett Todd, of Louisville, Ky., president; Hubert P. Phipps, of Westbury, Long Island, N. Y., vice president.

About 20 men attended the reorganization meeting, five of whom are first-year students. A committee was named to secure information regarding obtainable hunting rights over various territories.

Inasmuch as the University Club has as yet no course of its own, it is highly probable that the members will ride with the newly formed Farmington Hunt during the remainder of the season.

This is the second year in which a hunt club has been established at the university. This club gives the institution the distinction of being the only college in the world, with the exception of Oxford, to have such an organization.

If the new club is to continue to be a success, it must naturally have a fair-sized membership. An active campaign is now under way to secure additional members.

The Keswick Hunt Club, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in Virginia, has elected John C. Stewart as master of drag hounds. Stewart has served one season as master of fox hounds. He succeeds Julian Morris, widely known horseman, who has hunted the hounds for over 30 years. Mowis resigned from his position on account of ill health.

Cary Jackson, secretary of the hunt, reports that the panneled country of the Keswick organization now covers more than four times the area of two years ago. A drag pack is being assembled, and regular hunts are expected to start in the near future.

Gas Overcomes Worker On Automobile Truck

Purcellville, Va., Nov. 25.—Frank Coates, 33 years of age, of Mount Ida, Va., and a mechanic employed by the International Harvester Co., located on Bladensburg road, was overcome by monoxide gas this morning while working on a truck at Phillip's Garage, in Purcellville. The motor was running while he was doing the work.

Coates remained unconscious over an hour. He was treated by Dr. J. B. Hackley, of Purcellville, and was able to resume his work this afternoon.

ideal, since it did not go far enough, but the government believed under the circumstances it was as much as they would be able to get through the Commons.

Members of the Left argued that better conditions should be given unemployed and that "to break the pledge given poor constituents was indefensible." The bill may encounter shoals in committee and even defeat of the government is possible therein, but it was generally believed tonight that Prime Minister MacDonald would emerge safely.

FIVE M'CRORY BLAST VICTIMS ARE BURIED

PLUMBER SHOWS PLANS

While funeral services were being held for five of the six victims, District officials yesterday started delving into the mechanical causes of the blast last Thursday at the McCrory five-and-ten cent store which resulted in their deaths and injury to a score of others. Of those injured, only four are still held in hospitals and they have shown improvement.

Final rites for Miss Elizabeth Dawson, of 337 Maryland avenue northeast, the first to succumb, were held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Scheppach, at 2811 Fifth street northeast, followed with requiem mass in St. Joseph's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment was in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Triple services were held at the Cockrell home, 4505 Arkansas avenue northwest, for Mrs. Annie C. Cockrell, her 2-year-old daughter, Mary Ann, and her aunt, Miss Kitty Cullinan, at 8:30 o'clock, followed by mass at Sacred Heart Catholic Church and interment in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Rites Held for Last Victim.

Services for Mrs. Flora M. Darlington, the last to die, were conducted at the residence, 63 W street northwest, at 9 o'clock. Requiem mass was sung at St. Martin's Church, and interment was made in St. Mary's Cemetery.

An inquest into the deaths caused by the explosion, and the question of whether any person was culpable, will be held next Monday in the District Building. The purpose of the investigation started by the special board yesterday is primarily to determine the cause of the disaster in order to prevent similar blasts in the future, but much may depend on the results of the inquiry.

In explaining the secrecy surrounding the investigation, the officials stated that "nothing could be done to jeopardize the coroner's inquest next week."

Technical Phases Considered.

"Our examination," Maj. Donald A. Davison, assistant Engineer Commissioner, said, "will not be directed toward the determination of any criminal responsibility. That is a matter for the coroner. The District Commissioners have delegated me to investigate and report on the accident, and our meeting today is simply a gathering of technical men, who will go into the technical phases of the disaster. If we make public any report, it will not be until after the coroner's inquest."

Besides Maj. Davison, P. M. Greenlaw, inspector of boilers; John W. Oehmann, building inspector; C. G. Achstetter, fire marshal; A. R. McGonegal, plumbing inspector, and Robert E. Lynch, of the corporation counsel's office, attended the meeting.

Maurice J. Colbert, the plumber who made the installations in the McCrory store building nine years ago, was the first witness called. He supplied the board with drawings of the installations for comparison with plans from the plumbing inspector's office.

Manager Is Heard.

James Paxton, manager of the McCrory store, and several colored employes were also heard by the board.

The low pressure boiler which exploded was of the type not deemed dangerous and comes within the classification of those not inspected under the District code. As a consequence, it is believed the investigation probably will result in an amendment to the code requiring periodic examination of all boilers in the city.

Much of the outcome of the inquiry may depend upon whether a valve existed on the inlet pipe of the boiler. If there was such a valve it is contended that it must have been closed or clogged at the time of the blast, or the steam would have forced the water back into the main stream and prevented the calamity.

Navy Band Completes Annual Concert Tour

The United States Navy Band, under the leadership of Lieut. Charles Benter, arrived in Washington yesterday, completing its fifth annual concert tour, which started in Atlantic City, September 29, continued through the New England States and played in 56 different cities in 56 consecutive days.

The purpose of these tours is to give the people of different cities the privilege of hearing and seeing the famous U. S. Navy Band.

STARLINGS PUZZLE TO COMMISSIONERS

greater warmth found in such places in cold weather than in open spaces, it is said. The stone buildings and streets, it is explained, absorb heat from the sun throughout the day and give it off at night.

Various contraptions have been devised to scare the birds away from roosts, but these have proved ineffective, inasmuch as the birds are smart and are quick to learn that the device does them no harm. The one effective way in which to combat such roosts as now bespoil Pennsylvania avenue, it is said, is to organize a shooting of the birds with shotguns. The shooting should be done at dusk, as the birds are settling down for the night, but before it is too dark for them to see that to remain means death. Quick to learn and very adaptable, the birds will quickly desert the roost thus attacked and roost elsewhere, those who have studied them say. This quickness, is its said, will make it unnecessary to shoot very many of the birds or to continue the drive against them for a long period.

What the Commissioners will do has not been determined. They do not like to order the birds shot and are not quite certain who should do the shooting. Neither do they want to stir up a storm of protest from those who pride themselves as nature lovers who might call the officials cruel. One facetious suggestion was that the Commissioners turn the avenue over to the starlings completely, possibly building a roof over the avenue to protect pedestrians and motorists who pass under the trees.

Psychoanalysis Is Factor In Custody of McCormick

Dr. White Is Quizzed by Baker on Methods of Mental Treatment Being Used in Case of Incompetent Millionaire.

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 25 (A.P.) Phychoanalysis became an issue in the hearing to determine the guardianship of Stanley McCormick, multi-millionaire incompetent, on resumption of the case in Superior Court here today.

Between clashes of opposing counsel, efforts were made to draw testimony from Dr. William A. White, of Washington, D. C., on cross-examination, that he had supported Dr. Edward J. Kempf in employment of psychoanalysis of the son of the late Cyrus H. McCormick, Chicago harvest king.

At the outset of today's hearing, which was instigated by Mrs. Katherine McCormick, wife of the multimillionaire, on claims that his guardians, Harold McCormick, a brother, and Anita McCormick Blaine, a sister, were dissipating his fortune, Dr. White made a voluntary retraction of previous testimony.

He admitted that medical reports made in 1927 and 1929 by Dr. Kempf had been sent by him, contradicting his answer last week to questions propounded by Newton D. Baker, chief counsel for Mrs. McCormick.

"Is Dr. Kempf a psychoanalyst?" Baker asked in opening the discussion on Freud.

"What do you mean by that?" Dr White countered.

The attorney, Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Woodrow Wilson, explained it related to the Freudian theory. Dr. White answered that Dr. Kempf was not a Freudian psychoanalysis.

Q—He works on the Freudian theory of sexual basis for mental disturbances, does he not?

A—I don't think so; that is, I wouldn't exactly pick out sex as being of first importance.

Q—Then Freud did not teach that from earliest infancy sex impulses which, being repressed, become stored in the unconscious mind?

Oscar Lawler, attorney for the defense, objected strongly, arguing that the questioning was abstract and not proper cross-examination.

Walter K. Tuller, aiding Baker, asked the court to allow continuance of this "minor cross-examination to explain psychoanalysm that the court may judge fairly the whole question at issue, which is that Dr. White recommended continuance of psychoanalytic treatments as being given by Dr. Kempf."

CAPITAL POLICEMAN ENDS LIFE WITH GUN

HAD REPORTED AT WORK

Firing a bullet from his service revolver into his brain, Policeman Charles Montgomery, 50 years old, ended his life at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning in a lavatory on the ground floor of the District Building.

Despondency over ill health was advanced by police as the motive for Montgomery's act. District Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, after an investigation, issued a certificate of suicide. Montgomery was a member of the police force for 28 years and was assigned to the property room at Police Headquarters. He resided at 656 E street northeast with his wife, Mrs. Pauline Montgomery, and two children, Miss Loretta Montgomery, 21 years old, and Charles Montgomery, jr., 18 years old.

Less than an hour after Montgomery had reported for work, he went to the lavatory and shot himself. The report of the shot was muffled by the thick walls of the room and first news of the suicide was given by Herbert Tolson, colored, who rushed out of the room, shouted to a watchman that "a man shot himself" and then disappeared.

Frederick Hess, the watchman, went to the room, discovered the body and then summoned members of the Detective Bureau. Lieut. Joseph Morgan with Detectives George Darnall, John Fowler and Thomas Sweeney, of the homicide squad, conducted the police investigation. After considerable difficulty, the detectives located Tolson, who declared he fled the scene because of fright. He told police that he was in the room and heard the shot, then fled.

Edward Wall and Harry Bauer, who worked with Montgomery in the property room, declared that Montgomery appeared in good spirits when he reported for work and had not exhibited any signs of despondency. Police said that Montgomery had been suffering from heart disease.

Montgomery was appointed to the police force in 1909 and had received five commendations for excellent police work. He was a native of the District.

Investment Bankers File Bankruptcy Data

Edward A. Campbell and Edward C. Campbell, copartners, trading as A. E. Campbell & Son, doing an investment banking business in the Southern Building, who filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy last week in District Supreme Court, yesterday filed a schedule of business assets and liabilities. Schedules in personal bankruptcy also were filed by both father and son.

The business schedule shows liabilities of $82,866.70, and assets of $41,024.78. The elder Campbell lists personal liabilities of $1,840.63, and assets of $900, of which $400 is claimed as exempt. The son lists no liabilities and no assets other than personal property which is claimed as exempt. Principal liabilities of the business firm are listed as secured claims totaling $70,278.75.

Harris & Ewing Ask Woman Be Restrained

Harris & Ewing, a photographic concern doing business at 1313 F street northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to restrain Dorothy Dean Roberts, of 2127 California avenue northwest, from accepting employment with any other photographic concern in the District, from soliciting its customers and from divulging its business secrets.

The plaintiff tells the court that on April 8, 1928, the defendant entered its employment and that under the terms of her contract she was pledged not to divulge the names of its customers or its business methods for one year after the termination of the contract. She left the plaintiff's employment on November 4 last, the petition sets out.

Presbyterian's Group New Church Is Ready

The new building of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Kennedy streets northwest, has been completed and the first service will be held at 10 o'clock Thanksgiving morning. The Rev. Godfrey Chobot will preach the sermon. The dedication of the new church will be held in the near future.

Building of the church was started last year. The design is an adaptation of French-Norman architecture. The church was designed by Joseph Younger. James L. Parsons, jr., was the builder. The exterior of the church is constructed of rubble stone, from the Connecticut avenue quarries, ornamented with Indiana limestone and polished granite.

FUNERAL ARRANGED FOR DR. M'GAUGHEY

U. S. Veterans Bureau Medical Supervisor Succumbs on Fishing Trip.

HEART ATTACK IS CAUSE

Funeral services for Dr. Carl W. McGaughey, 49 years old, medical supervisor of the United States Veterans' Bureau, who died from a heart attack Sunday at a hunting camp near Richmond, Va., will be held tomorrow afternoon from the Tabler Funeral Home, 928 M street northwest. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

At the time of his death Dr. McGaughey was visiting Dr. C. T. Wilfong, regional medical officer of the bureau. The fatal attack is believed to have been induced by shock received when the doctor was thrown into the water when a boat overturned.

He had been medical supervisor of the bureau since 1927, and had been connected with the bureau since 1921. He joined the United States Public Health Service in 1919, and was stationed at Cincinnati in charge of the station there until being appointed to the Veterans' Bureau in this city.

His service with the Veterans' Bureau began as rating officer. He held this position from August, 1921, until July, 1927, when he was transferred to the central office as medical supervisor.

During the war Dr. McGaughey served as a member of the National Draft Board and in the Army Medical Corps as a captain. He served as ward surgeon at the U. S. General Hospital at Des Moines, Iowa, for approximately a year. After the war he was made a major in the Medical Reserve Corps.

Dr. McGaughey was born in Greenfield, Ind., and educated at Butler College and the Indiana Medical School. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Helen D. McGaughey; a daughter, Elizabeth, and a son, Carl W. McGaughey, jr. The family resides at the Boulevard Apartments, 2121 New York avenue northwest.

ANNIE L. EDWARDS BURIED.

Lifelong Resident of Capital Died Friday, at Age of 75.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Miss Annie Lewis Edwards, who died Friday at the age of 75. She was the daughter of the late Dr. Lewis Edwards, U. S. A. She had been a resident of Washington all of her life.

Miss Edwards was a descendant of an old Washington family on her mother's side. Her mother was Eulalia Emma Crawford. Her father was a surgeon in the Army and a son of Col. James L. Edwards, at one time commissioner of the Indian office. Her maternal grandfather was James Thomas Tartley Crawford, for many years a judge of the Criminal Court here. Miss Edwards was a member of the Church of the Covenant since its organization. She made her home at the Dupont Apartments.

RITES FOR MRS. LINTHICUM.

Long Time Washington Resident Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sophronia Linthicum, 95 years old, a resident of Washington for more than 90 years, who died yesterday at the home of her grandson, David F. Linthicum, 1012 Eighth street northeast, after a short illness, will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Mrs. Linthicum was the widow of Hamilton S. Linthicum. She came to Washington from Frederick County, Md., where she was born. She is survived by three sons, Richard, Benjamin and Hamilton; also by another grandson and four great-grandchildren.

FIRST LADY OF LAND LAYS CORNERSTONE

BOARD'S WORK LAUDED

Mrs. Hoover yesterday laid the cornerstone of the new Children's Country Home on the site, recently purchased by the board, at Bunker Hill road and Eighteenth street northeast.

To the First Lady laying the stone was not a perfunctory ceremony, for she took the level from the workman's hand and carefully scrutinized the position of the stone when it was put in place. With the trowel she smoothed the mortar with great care.

Mrs. Alexander B. Legare, president of the ladies' board of the Country Home, opened the exercises with a brief talk on the history of the old home on Grant road in Rock Creek Park, the need for the new home for convalescent children to be open the year round, and plans for the fireproof building which is to be completed within the year.

Commissioner Dougherty gave an informal talk on the work being done by the board for the sick children in Washington and congratulated the organization for its humanitarian services. He further expressed himself as being personally interested in the welfare work being done for child welfare in the District. The program closed with a benediction by Chaplain C. A. Neyman, of the United States Navy.

The 6-acre site on which the new fireproof building is being erected is the gift of Col. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien. The home is to be French farmhouse in design, built of white brick, and the architects have designed it to be homelike rather than institutional in character. The playroom on the first floor will be well lighted, and the rooms on the second floor will be like private nurseries. When the home is completed 50 children can be cared for the year round, the administrative staff will be comfortably housed, and the children will have all the advantages of medical attention, nutritious food and out of doors.

Among those who were present at the ceremony yesterday were Mrs. Joseph Leiter and her mother, Mrs. John R. Williams who have devoted years of service to the home; Col. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, Mrs. Joseph Himes, vice president of the board; Mrs. Lee Warren, Mrs. Harry Kerr, Mrs. Randall H. Hagner, Mrs. Frederick DeF Faust, Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, president of the Board of Lady Visitors of the Children's Hospital, members of her board and members of the board of the Child Welfare Society and of the Prenatal Clinic of Columbia Hospital.

Realty Firm Files Bankruptcy Plea

Hedges & Middleton and Two Members of Company Are Listed.

Hedges & Middleton, Inc., one of the largest real estate firms operating in Washington, with offices at 1412 I street northwest, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court. No schedule of liabilities and assets were filed, the petitioner res in the ten-day period of grace.

Coincidently, Jesse H. Hedges, of 5636 Western avenue northwest, and Albert E. Landvoight, of 2841 Chesapeake street northwest, officers of the corporation, filed personal petitions in voluntary bankruptcy. They also filed no schedule.

The action of the corporation follows a meeting of its board of directors last Friday, at which it was decided that the business could no longer operate. A resolution authorizing the employment of an attorney to begin bankruptcy action was filed with the petition. The resolution was signed by M. P. Hedges as secretary.

Attorney Louis Ottenberg appears on behalf of all the petitioners.

Christian Science Head Quits for New Position

Boston, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Albert F. Gilmore has resigned as editor of the Christian Science publications to become a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, the Christian Science board of directors announced today.

He is succeeded by former Judge Clifford P. Smith, for 15 years manager of the committees on publications. C. A. Norwood, general counsel of the church, has become manager of the committees on publication.

INQUIRY NOT AFFECTED

The F. H. Smith Co., whose activities are under investigation by a Federal grand jury, yesterday announced the removal of its general offices from Washington to New York city. A branch office will be maintained at the former headquarters, 815 Fifteenth street northwest, the brief announcement stated, but "it is requested that all communications be addressed to the company at 285 Madison avenue, New York."

Upon learning of the plan of the real estate and investment company, Nugent Dodds, Special Assistant Attorney General, who has been conducting the grand jury investigation, said that the move would make no difference in the inquiry.

For the last seven months the F. H. Smith Co. has been the object of attacks in the Senate by Senator Brookhart, and United States officials have been severely criticized for tardiness in the prosecution of the firm by the Iowan.

Ten days ago the grand jury summoned as witnesses in its investigation Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, director of the concern; G. Bryan Pitts, chairman of the board of directors, and C. Elbert Anandale, first vice president. The two latter were indicted on May 28 for perjury in the Hamilton Hotel case. Samuel E. Henry, president; John H. Edwards, jr., vice president, and Henry C. Maddox, also have been called.

Senator Brookhart last spring introduced a resolution in the upper legislative body asking for an investigation into the company's dealings. He charged the firm with "pyramiding values" in order to secure additional loans, with obtaining excessive appraisals and with deception in advertisements. The matter was referred to a Senate subcommittee, but nothing has as yet come of it.

Several weeks later Brookhart asked the Postoffice Department to issue fraud orders against two Washington firms which, he alleged, were trying to victimize holders of bonds issued by the F. H. Smith Co. because of the threatened Senate investigation.

Assistant Attorney General Dodds and counsel of the firm have been waging a legal battle for the last month over the right of the grand jury to issue John Doe warrants in its inquiry.

When the grand jury demanded to see the records of the Smith company a legal fight developed which ended only when Justice William Hitz, of the District Supreme Court, ruled that the files must be produced while taking under advisement the plea of the Smith firm that the John Doe subpenas were illegal.

After the Smith company had claimed that it was unable to produce the records because of their enormous volume, Dodds charged that they had been moved from the Capital.

Resuming his attack on the firm in the Senate, Brookhart asserted that the files had been moved in 20 truckloads to a farmhouse in Maryland. He demanded that the officers of the company be cited for contempt.

MORE NAVAL EXPANSION.

An unexpected aftermath of the Anglo-American alliance policy of Prime Minister MacDonald is the inception of new competition in naval armaments on the eve of the London naval conference. France, Italy and Spain are taking steps to expand their respective navies and increase their building programs along extensive and unprecedented lines.

Coincident with the news of renewed naval expansion comes the hint that Mr. MacDonald's ambiguous statements respecting a joint Anglo-American naval program for the enforcement of the Kellogg pact are responsible for the restive spirit and the suspicions in France, Italy and Spain. Apprehensive of the consequences of a possible alliance between the two leading naval powers, these nations apparently feel compelled to increase their naval forces, to enter into secret understandings and alliances among themselves, and otherwise to adopt advance measures which they believe may be necessary for their safety. The rivalry between France and Italy and the French fear of a secret alliance between Spain and Italy are serving further to stimulate naval building along competitive lines.

The outstanding fact in the present atmosphere of apprehension is the distrust of the coming naval conference. European statesmen are almost unanimous in the view that Mr. MacDonald will endeavor to accentuate his Anglo-American alliance idea in the hope of obtaining political advantage for himself.

Georges Leygues, French minister of marine, is embarking on an expansion program with the backing of Premier Tardieu and the hearty support of the French people. He proposes to increase France's cruiser strength without delay and without regard to the ratios to be discussed at London. French supercruisers, comparable to the new German cruiser, are to be given preference. A cruiser strength of approximately 360,000 tons—greater by 110,000 tons than the American suggestion for a British maximum at Geneva—is referred to in connection with the campaign to arouse interest in naval expansion throughout France.

In the matter of submarines France is planning to have 130,000 tons, in contrast with the maximum 90,000 tons suggested for Great Britain and the United States at the Washington conference. Increases all along the line are apparently in contemplation. With her debt to America virtually funded and with her finances in good shape, France refuses to be guided by the plea that she must accept dictation as to her naval strength from outside powers.

Premier Mussolini's plans for naval expansion are even more ambitious in some respects than those of France. Italy intends to keep pace with French expansion, but Mussolini is not likely to admit at the London conference that his nation is of such secondary importance that it needs only a small percentage of the naval strength conceded to others. It will cause no surprise if Mussolini should demand that Italy be given the status of a leading power with the right to build a navy equal to any other navy, even though such right be never actually exercised.

Spain is embarking on a naval expansion program, according to cable reports reaching Washington on Friday last. Spain wishes to recover her naval prestige, it is stated, and to this end has laid down a program for destroyers, submarines, and various other auxiliary craft. King Alfonso, Gen. Primo de Rivera and Spanish naval officers have announced, after the Spanish naval maneuvers, that the time is at hand for an expansion program.

LIEUT. CUDDIHY, HERO.

Lieut. George T. Cuddihy, U. S. N., who was killed in an airplane crash at the Naval Air Station yesterday, was one of the best pilots America has produced. It was his exceptional ability that led to his selection as a test pilot and it was while testing an English fighting plane of a design unfamiliar to American pilots that he fell to his death.

The test pilots are the real heroes of aviation. Day after day, their courage generally unsung and the great danger they face unrecognized, they go aloft in new or untried ships to put them through maneuvers unknown to ordinary flying and subject them to stresses and strains such as in all likelihood they never will be called upon to withstand. When "the wings fall off" the test pilot must take to his parachute to save his skin and if, for some reason, he finds it impossible to jump, the reason, and the reason for the failure of the plane itself, is generally hidden in the tangled wreckage of the ship.

Lieut. Cuddihy died a hero. His last contribution to the advancement of aviation was in the nature of tragic proof that the ship in which he was flying was unsafe, as a result of which the lives of those who might have been killed in ships of similar design will be spared. The public joins the Navy in mourning his death and in extending condolence to his sisters and mother.

OCEAN MAIL CONTRACTS.

It remains to be seen whether the controversy that has raged around the awarding of ocean mail contracts has been resolved. The interdepartmental committee created by President Hoover for the purpose of making such awards has decided that the law requires the acceptance of the "lowest responsible bid," and it announces that it will proceed on that basis. Purchasers of Shipping Board vessels, however, as well as certain Shipping Board officials contend that Congress intended in drafting the merchant marine bill that the purchasers of Government vessels be favored in the awarding of mail contracts. Despite the decision of the interdepartmental committee, the latter element holds to its view, and no doubt the matter will be thrown into Congress early in the forthcoming session.

The law is ambiguous. One section does make it mandatory that the "lowest responsible bid" be accepted, and inasmuch as there is no definition of the word "responsible" by which an interpretation favoring purchasers of Government vessels can be made, there would seem to be no alternative to awarding contracts to well-established operators of American flag lines. The law by which ocean mail contracts are awarded on a basis of speed and tonnage, however, is part of the merchant marine act, which was designed to stimulate the transference of Government ships to private ownership, and the act itself, as well as the debate that attended its enactment, gives ground for the opinion that Congress intended the mail contracts to be, in effect, subventions to enable the fledgling merchant marine to be operated at a profit. Inasmuch as this ambiguity exists, it may be doubted that the decision of the interdepartmental committee to award contracts to the low bidders will put an end to the controversy.

Where is an operator of an American flag line who will contract to spend eight or ten millions for new tonnage on the basis of a mail contract awarded, when Congress may shortly amend the merchant marine act in such a fashion as to require the transference of the contract to the operator of a line purchased from the Shipping Board? What of those who purchased Shipping Board lines with the assurance that mail contracts would go with the purchase, and who have not been awarded such contracts? They have been unable to operate except at a loss. A situation may be reached when all they can do to stave off bankruptcy will be to hand back the properties to the Shipping Board.

There is an imperative need for early congressional action to clarify the "intent" of the merchant marine act. If it was intended that mail contracts should be awarded to the low bidders Congress has only to say so. The way will be cleared for the permanent award of mail contracts and the shipbuilding program involving more than 40 new vessels and gross expenditures of above $50,000,000 will be got under way. If, however, it was intended that the contracts should be, in effect, subventions to insure the profitable operation of newly acquired lines more lasting benefits will be secured. A large shipbuilding program will necessarily follow, in addition to which the end of Government ship operation will be hastened.

PITY THE FARM KIDS!

The Government is renowned not only for its major accomplishments, but for its achievements in dealing with little things. The United States Department of Labor, for example, has a separate bureau to deal with the problems of children and its specialists go so far as to study critically the "leisure time pursuits" of juveniles.

The city recreation movement has advanced rapidly in the last fifteen years, reports one of its specialists, but a much slower development has taken place in rural communities. A study made last year in selected rural areas of West Virginia proved that practically no farm boys or girls belonged to Scout troops, Young Men's or Women's Christian Associations, or similar organizations. Commercial amusements are not largely attended by rural children. Less than 50 per cent attend motion picture shows once a month or oftener. In addition—horror of horrors!—rural communities must depend upon amateur recreation directors, inasmuch as they can not afford to hire specialists.

Pity the farm boy! He has to slide down a haystack instead of a bright, shiny, metal contraption fitted with steps and guard rail. He must amuse himself with dangling a fish line into a gurgling stream on summer afternoons, instead of joining with others to play in a crowded street. He has only forests and fields through which to wander on crisp autumn afternoons, instead of sitting in a talkie and listening to Hollywood slobber.

Pity the farm girl! She can not experience the pleasure of opening a delicatessen store tin can, but must instead help her mother in a kitchen made pungent with the odors of frying chicken. She can not play beside the cozy steam radiator of an apartment, but must, instead, amuse herself in the dusty, semidarkness of a garret filled with trunks containing the finery of another day. She belongs to no Girl Scout troop, and must depend upon her mother to teach her the rudiments of sewing, cooking, housekeeping and the like. Her's is a sorry lot.

There are, of course, great disadvantages to living on a farm, but children, it would seem, are least affected thereby. There are some advantages to living in the city, but children get less than their share. Many a man looks back upon his farm-boy days as the most pleasant period of his life. Many a city boy and girl looks forward to a few weeks in the summer upon his grandparents' farm as the brightest spot in the year.

THE ANTINOISE CRUSADE.

In focusing public attention on unnecessary noise The Post is fostering a movement that already is well under way in a number of large American cities. Urban residents are waking up to the fact that noise is a real detriment to health as well as peace of mind, and the movement may be expected to gain momentum. There is no excuse for much of the noise that keeps the nervous system at constant tension.

A few years ago thriving communities were proud of the noise they could make. Clangor and din seemed to give them urban importance and dignity. But obnoxious noises have multiplied so rapidly since the inception of the so-called machine age that city people are anxious for quiet surroundings. Automobiles, street cars, airplanes, buses, radios and a dozen other devices have carried noise into the residential districts and it becomes impossible to escape from the daily hubbub. The noisy city will soon acquire the disrepute of the smoky city. Urban atmosphere will become desirable only for its quietude and composure.

Washington is needlessly noisy. It is not primarily an industrial city and is therefore free from many rackets that afflict large manufacturing communities. With this advantage, and being the seat of Government with every facility for an effective antinoise movement, Washington should become a leader in the general campaign.

Much can be accomplished by calling public attention to the noise evil. Many have become so accustomed to a constant din of machinery, radios, &c., that they do not realize the tension they are under. In the final analysis elimination of noise depends upon public cooperation. Creation of an antinoise public opinion is the first important step toward substantial improvement.

The antinoise campaign scored a major victory when Congress adjourned.

Scientists now believe that egotism causes crickets to chirp. If that reaction were only confined to crickets!

Those who are depressed over what the New York bears have done to the bulls might find consolation in the activities of the Russian bear in China.

MEXICAN PROSPECTS

That the presidential election held in Mexico on November 17 went in favor of Ortiz Rubio occasions no surprise. It is always a foregone conclusion that the candidate having the backing of the government will win over his opponents whether he is the choice of the people or not. That, however, is Mexico's affair; our interest concerns the treatment to be accorded foreigners by that government. An impartial view of the situation does not disclose any cause for elation over the result.

Assuming that on the "official count" Rubio is declared to be elected and that later he is duly inaugurated president just what advantages have alien property holders and creditors gained by the change of administrations? One of the sore points in Mexican affairs is a public debt that is an international affair. Late in August Candidate Rubio, in answer to a question for publication, declared the debt will be paid "as the nation's income allows."

That has been the fair answer given by his predecessors, but evidently the income does not allow. A definite pledge was given in July, 1922, for payments on an agreed amount approximating $500,000,000. Payments made before a subsequent complete cessation amounted to 8.6 per cent of that total. The reason for this failure to keep up payments lies in the character of the government. Fair words butter no parsnips.

In the same statement Rubio made a reference which would imply that he is in favor of the proposed labor code now before the Mexican congress. If so, industrial capital will have little to hope for. Admitting Mexico's right to enact any labor code it chooses, so far as future investments are concerned, the matter becomes serious when it promises to destroy or cripple investments legally made before the enactment of the law. No state can enact such laws without violating its international obligations.

On the subject of agrarian confiscations he said:

> I shall continue the expropriation of lands; to pay for them a special allotment will be set aside exclusively for the solution of the problem.

Mexico is not paying the current interest on the public debt, nor any part of the interest defaulted since 1914; has stopped redeeming at par the small volume of agrarian bonds already issued which have a quoted value of but a few cents on the dollar; and she is not free from a deficit in the budget. The program seems to call for takings of 10,000,000 hectares of land on which an arbitrary value of 20 pesos is set, which would make an addition of $100,000,000 United States currency to the Mexican debt. So the special allotment sounds better than it looks.

American landowners can merely rely on the statement that "expropriations shall continue," but for which they will not be compensated.

Perfidy Personified.

SKILL TALKS TO A BOY.

Said Skill to the boy: "If you'll work for me,
Clever in time will your fingers be.
Those who follow my stern commands
Are rewarded at last with nimble hands.
Mine is a difficult road to climb.
The seeker of skill must serve his time."

"When I am skillful, shall I be kind?
Do you furnish all things which I hope to find?
When I am clever," the boy inquired,
"Shall I have all that can be desired?"
"No. To be truthful," then answered Skill,
"One can be clever and hateful still.

I'm of the hand and not the heart.
Though I am good for a man to gain,
I'm but a link in life's golden chain.
If you'd be generous, brave and true,
That for yourself you will have to do.

"Who would be noble must have the will.
Blackguards have cunningly worked for skill.
This, however, I'd say to you,
One can be skillful and kindly, too.
Success can be tarnished by many sins,
But glad is the world when a clean man wins."

No Matter How Hungry He Is, the Fox Never Jumps on a Wolf

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN a cavalry troop that had some fame in frontier days there were two small men who bore the same name, though unrelated by blood or character.

One was called "Goosey" Smith and the other "Poison" Smith.

The first was the butt of coarse jokes and the victim of every trooper who cared to torment him, while the other was given the respect and affectionate consideration that serve as a tribute to superiority.

Why was one Smith shamefully treated and the other given a proper man's due? Because one endured all indignities with no other protest than a whine, while the other was quick to resent any trespass on his rights and as quick to make his resentment effective.

Some years ago an organization of masked men made itself the arbiter of community morals and paid midnight visits to the homes of men and women who offended it.

The poor and weak and craven opened their doors when the summons came and made no defense except a plea for mercy. They were flogged and covered with tar and feathers and driven from the community.

But when the organization or an imitator operating in its name endeavored to bully proud and manly men it was greeted with buckshot and steel-jacketed missiles from automatic guns that flashed from doors and windows and its hooded members vanished in the night and left their tar buckets behind.

Always and everywhere men are bullied because they submit to bullying, or respected because they fight back.

The newest form of bullying to trouble America is called "racketeering." An organization of common thieves sends one of its members to a business or professional man and offers him a choice between paying regular tribute or suffering.

If tribute is refused the stubborn one's property is destroyed and his life made a nightmare. Knowing this to be true, men who prefer peace and life at any price accept the inevitable and surrender their liberty and manhood forever.

Racketeers do not operate in all sections. When they come among proud men who had rather die than submit to any man's dictation their representatives will be kicked into the street. And if the organization persists in its efforts manly men will arm themselves and go hunting as they would for a sheep-killing dog and juries of manly men will find them guiltless.

Bullies prosper only when they deal with cravens who love money more than honor.

If There Has Been Politics in the Maryland School System, Let There Be More.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Maryland State Republican central committee, in the course of a statement, declared that "there has been politics in the school system" of Maryland.

If this charge be true, then let there be more politics in the educational system of the State. Under the capable administration of Gov. Ritchie, the Maryland State public school system has attained the highest ranking among the various educational systems of the country.

Smoke Is No Less a Nuisance Than Starlings and Noise.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just read with great interest and approval the crusades you are undertaking to rid Washington of unnecessary noise and to abolish the pest of the starlings.

Won't you undertake one other crusade, namely, to abolish the downtown smoke nuisance so that we may once more have a city fit to live in?

One can get away from the starlings, and it is even possible to find quiet neighborhoods in which to live, but the soft coal smoke nuisance is universal. There is no escape from it and it has become a menace to health and cleanliness and all standards of decent living.

Will Rogers Was Right. Has the Country Learned a Lesson?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The public now realizes that Will Rogers was telling the truth about the Senate. If there is an organization in this country that needs investigation, it is the United States Senate.

Big business should have learned a lesson. Instead of spending its money on lobbyists, it should spend it in electing experienced business men as senators, who, from experience, know how to operate big business. The United States should replace the country lawyers from Main street whose only object in life is to see their names on front pages of newspapers.

Can't Stop Margin Trading by Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A bill introduced by Representative LaGuardia designed to prohibit marginal transactions in securities serves to illustrate how impossible it is to draft legislation of this sort. The bill prohibits the transmission in interstate commerce, through the mails, the telephone, the telegraph, &c., of offers or orders respecting the purchase or sale of securities if it is intended that the contract shall be terminated on the basis of market quotations without intending a bona fide purchase or sale or if there is intended or not intended, as the case may be, any of several other transactions peculiar to the marginal purchase or sale of securities.

"Intent" is one of the most difficult of all mental processes to establish. Who can tell what is in another's mind when he takes certain action? Who would be able to prove whether or not a marginal transaction was intended if the principals involved were unwilling to give testimony that would make them criminals? Who, for that matter, would be qualified to decide whether a marginal transaction in violation of the law had been consummated or whether it was within the law?

If a man buys 100 shares of an industrial security and uses the certificates for those shares as security for a bank loan with which he purchases an additional 50 shares of the same security, he has, in effect, negotiated a marginal purchase. The bill proposed by Representative LaGuardia apparently would not bear upon such a transaction, and the bank loan purchase scheme would immediately supplant the pure marginal transaction in which the financing is assumed by the broker. It would be impossible to enact a bill prohibiting bank loans or designating to what purpose bank loans may be put.

DIPLOMATS CONFER HERE ON MANCHURIA

RUSSIANS PRESS GAINS

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, conferred for two hours late yesterday with State Department officials regarding the Chinese-Soviet situation in Manchuria.

The Ambassador first met with Assistant Secretary Nelson T. Johnson, the newly appointed Minister to China, and later had a half-hour talk with Secretary Stimson. The Secretary and the Ambassador exchanged information on the activities in Manchuria, as received from American and Japanese diplomatic consular officers in China.

Ambassador Debuchi told the Secretary that information to his government from Chinese sources was that the Soviet forces had bombed Dalainor, 16 miles from Manchuli, but that no information had been revealed regarding an attack on Hailar, the first large station of the Chinese Eastern Railway east of Dalainor.

While Secretary Stimson described the situation as serious, he does not plan to remain in Washington because of it over the Thanksgiving holidays, and will leave for New York after a meeting of the Cabinet today. Undersecretary Cotton also will go to New York tomorrow.

Reports Held Extravagant.

Unconfirmed messages, mostly from Chinese sources, were received by the department last week from Harbin, telling of the bombing of border towns. Although department officials declined to comment on the general situation beyond the remarks of the Secretary, the general impression was that many of the reports of extensive military activities and invasions of territory were exaggerated. It was not known whether there are any Americans in the vicinity of Hailar, but American wool buyers frequently visit the region.

The approach of extremely severe weather in Manchuria, with temperatures often as low as 30 degrees below zero in the winter was not looked upon as favorable for engagements between large bodies of troops. The freezing of the roads in the Barga region, which is now affected, facilitates movements of supplies, as compared with the muddy roads which must be used during the summer rains.

This advantage in supply movement, however, is usually overcome in military campaigns by severe weather. One factor which is looked upon as important was whether Soviet forces have been able to collect large food supplies on the border since the situation was less active. The Chinese in the region are known to be without the unusually large quantities of good necessary for a long campaign.

Seek End to Rebellions.

Nanking dispatches, apparently authentic, stated yesterday that military and civil leaders of various factions throughout China were seeking to end internal struggles in order that all forces might be combined to resist Soviet attacks. Although lacking official confirmation, these dispatches were apparently further borne out by reports that fighting had subsided on all civil war fronts.

Simultaneously with its military action, China was reported to have appealed to Russia to reopen diplomatic negotiations for settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway controversy in Manchuria which caused the rich Manchurian area to become once more the scene of Sino-Russo armed conflict.

The Soviet forces, after many weeks of preparation, moved into Manchuria from Siberia both on the western and eastern frontiers, their object, as stated in the past, being to regain participation with the Chinese in control and operation of the Chinese Eastern Railway, a short cut across Manchuria from China, on the Trans-Siberian Railroad, to Vladivostok, Russia's port on the Japan Sea. Since July China had operated the railroad without the aid of Russian officials whom it expelled for asserted propaganda against the Chinese government.

Chinese Troops Are Routed.

Sweeping in from the northwestern border, the Soviet forces have advanced to the Khanan Mountains, driving before them Chinese soldiers and civilians in a semipanic. In this area, the Chinese losses are reported as high as 12,000, without a real battle being fought. Chinese bands of soldiers, leaderless, roam over the country, living upon it. A general of China's Northwestern Manchurian Army, his troops scattered, arrived alone at Buchatu, 240 miles east of the western frontier.

More than 8,000 Chinese soldiers and 300 officers were reported captured and disarmed in a series of counterattacks along the western Manchurian front before the Chinese gave way entirely and fled helter-skelter toward Buchatu, where railway traffic was too congested to move them southward promptly on special trains sent to their assistance.

On the eastern front of Manchuria also the Russian bear was making his claw felt. Coal mines were seized, with loss of life, as the soviet troops advanced more than 100 miles into Chinese territory.

Separate Peace Being Hinted.

Future developments in the Manchurian situation are variously predicted. Some reports, stated to be authentic have asserted that Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria, disheartened by nonsupport of the Nationalist government, due to its preoccupation with internal warfare, has sued Russia for an independent settlement of the Manchurian railway situation. These reports have been denied, with the statement that the governor of Manchuria, son of Chang Tso-Lin, for many years its dictator, was loyally supporting China's central government.

Officials of the Japanese government, which on other occasions has made war in Manchuria to protect its nationals' interests, intimated their belief that the Soviet forces would not remain permanently in Manchuria and gave no indication of Japanese intervention between China and Russia.

Meanwhile the censored communication channels brought little news from Honan and Hupeh provinces in Central China, where for weeks the Nationalist government forces, estimated at 150,000, have striven to put down the rebellion of the Kuominchun, "people's army," whose declared purpose it is to spread the revolt through China and drive President Chiang Kai-Shek and his government from power.

The South China civil war era, in recent days prolific of stories of advances toward Canton, Kwangtung province, of a concerted movement of the rebellious "Ironsides" division and the Kwangsi insurrectionists, gave little information yesterday of the turbulence within it.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

ONE can almost imagine the various States carrying on like an ill-mannered child now and saying: "For goodness' sake, you were bawling us out for spending too much and now you come along and tell us to loosen up."

Because President Hoover's call upon the States to get busy on the construction of public works is in direct opposition to what Mr. Coolidge used to preach. Mr. Coolidge waited only long enough for his Federal economy policy to become impressed upon the country before he began to harp upon State and municipal expenditures. And once he got on the subject he repeatedly returned to it.

He would take the list of State bond issues, the growing indebtedness of the States and insist that they were the greatest obstacles to prosperity because they heaped too much taxation upon the taxpayers' backs.

He came to the point, indeed, of saying to the States, not in so many words, that he had effected economy in the National Government, "Why don't you follow suit?"

* * * *

NOW, this is not Mr. Hoover's idea at all He has just embarked upon a campaign to stimulate public building and construction in all the States.

Instead of tightening up and economizing he wants the States to open their pocketbooks, to get the pickaxes, the shovels and the trowels to work.

Of course, he is not advocating any orgies of extravagance. Indeed, in his message to the governors of the States he has used the word "prudent" in suggesting that there is much construction that can be undertaken.

But the contrast between the two men is striking, nevertheless.

* * * *

THE impression is that Mr. Coolidge was getting somewhere in his efforts to have the States take up his economy policy. At least one did not hear so much about the State expenditures any more and Mr. Coolidge ceased to harp upon the subject himself.

It may be, too, that he so schooled the States in the penny pinching business that Mr. Hoover will have a hard time now in making them adopt a different attitude. The youngster is always taught that once he gets the habit of saving he has acquired the habit of a life-time.

* * * *

A DIFFERENT situation confronted Mr. Coolidge than is presented to Mr. Hoover, of course. The country was faced with a saturnalia of State expenditures about the time Mr. Coolidge felt so keenly on the subject. States were going wild in that so-called "progressive" atmosphere of the time. Bond issues were being floated right and left and heavy taxation saddled upon the citizens for years to come. The condition made the great Federal tax reductions but drops in the bucket as State levies continued to mount.

But in view of the fact that Mr. Coolidge worked so hard to check this wave it would seem to be too bad that a situation should arise so soon after he leaves that prompts Mr. Hoover to urge the States to loosen up. Why, it might start them on another orgy.

Woman, Hale at 108, Works At Usual Stint on Birthday

Mrs. Emma McMahon, of Kansas City, Earns Money Enough to Be Independent and Often Walks to Her Place of Business.

Kansas City, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Emma McMahon, of Kansas City, is only 45 years younger than the United States and when friends came to see her to congratulate her on her 108th birthday today they found her at work as usual. This woman, who has a good start into her second century of life, sews patches on men's clothing at the Goodwill Industries, a welfare organization situated in a busy street downtown.

"Grandma" doesn't mind staying on in the world at her advanced age and birthdays have become trivial to her because folks have been making a fuss over her longevity since she became 99.

It was only two or three years ago when she picked up her skirts and jumped rope after some one had offered to bet she couldn't. "I wasn't going to have them beat me," she said today in recalling the incident. "I didn't know whether I could or not," she confided, dropping her voice a little.

The corners of the aged woman's mouth have a quizzical hint in them, as though she were enjoying a private and very pleasant joke. She sees and hears quite well; she walks easily; she lives alone, earns money and is independent. Sometimes she walks to work.

Mrs. McMahon came to America from England when a baby and her parents settled on the Little Red River south of Milwaukee. Her seafaring father went back to sea. When she was nearly 4 years old the camp was surrounded by Sioux Indians and little Emma was carried away by them. She would have been killed had a squaw not taken fancy to her blond curls and interceded violently for her.

One day when she was 7 an elderly woman, captured by the tribe, was carried into camp and bound. The woman attracted little Emma's attention and told her she had known her parents and asked that the child return at night and untie her. To shorten a long story, this was successfully accomplished and Emma was taken to her new home.

Problem of Language to Be Used in University Starts Dispute.

It was unable to agree on the linguistic problem of Ghent University, over which the Liberals and Roman Catholic elements had differed.

Henri Jaspar formed a government from a coalition of the Catholic Liberal and Christian Democratic parties on November 21, 1927. He himself is a member of the Catholic party, but such prominent members as Minister of Foreign Affairs Paul Hymans and Minister of Justice Paul Emile Jansin are Liberals.

Flemish extremists, allied with the Catholic parties, wanted to have all classes in Ghent University taught in the Flemish tongue, but Flemish Liberals wanted to retain certain courses delivered in French. The question had been seriously agitated for more than ten days, but a week ago the premier was said to have averted the crisis by a conference of Catholic members of both senate and the chamber.

Nine Injured in Crash Of Brooklyn Trolleys

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Nine persons, eight of them women, received injuries serious enough to require medical treatment and 40 others received a severe shaking up when two trolley cars were in collision in Brooklyn today.

A seventh avenue car, loaded with shoppers, crashed into the rear end of a car in front when its brakes failed to hold. Passengers were thrown to the floor of the cars and showered with broken glass. All of the injured were treated by ambulance surgeons and were taken to their homes.

Pair Wed in Plane Jumps Over Side

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Two thousand feet over Roosevelt Field in an eighteen-passenger two-motored bombing plane, Miss Marguerite Klinger, of New York, and Donald Babcock, chief of a crew of flying field mechanicians, were married today.

As soon as the ceremony was completed the bride and bridegroom made parachute jumps, the best man following them. Both Babcock and his bride had previously made several parachute leaps, and Eugene Kraus, the best man, is a professional jumper.

The airplane was piloted by Harold McMahon, who played a thundering wedding march on two 525 horsepower motors. Judge Eugene L. Flanagan, of Bayville, L. I., performed the ceremony, and Miss Elaine Lewie of Far Rockaway, was the maid of honor.

The bride's wedding costume consisted of a khaki-colored canvas flying suit, extra heavy fur-lined boots and a leather helmet. For a veil she wore a 24-foot silk parachute.

U. S. MEDICAL CARE STUDIED IN PARLEY

SICK DAYS LOST CITED

The committee on the cost of medical care, headed by Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, held its semiannual session yesterday in the Mayflower Hotel. Further plans were laid for provision of adequate medical care for the people of the United States. It is planned to devote another three years to completion of studies now under way and to preparation of a series of recommendations.

Secretary Wilbur presided at the morning session. The committee confined its work to study of three reports recently issued, one of which deals with the extent of illness and of physical and mental diseases prevailing in the United States.

This survey indicates that the 36,000,000 wage earners in the United States lose at least 250,000,000 workdays a year and that the 24,000,000 school children lose 7,000,000 days a school year. Men are, on the average, sick at least once a year; women and children somewhat oftener.

A second report shows that almost 1,500,000 persons are employed in the United States in connection with the care and the prevention of illness. The survey shows that there are more physicians per 100,000 population in the United States than in any other country in the world. It indicates, however, that the distribution is very uneven. Various State surveys show that larger cities are oversupplied with doctors, while smaller towns are undersupplied. Hospital service for persons of moderate means is the subject of a third report.

The committee decided to hold its next meeting in Washington in the latter part of April, 1930. Following a luncheon the committee held another session and adjourned.

Among the 47 members of the committee who attended are Secretary Wilbur, former Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work, Dr. M. S. Harris, of Chicago, president of the American Medical Association; Dr. William G. Morgan, of Washington, president-elect of the American Medical Association; Dr. Olin West, of Chicago, secretary of the American Medical Association; Dr. C. E. Winslow, professor of public health, Yale University; Gen. John J. Carty, vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Dr. Hugh Cummings, surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service; Dr. Joel T. Boone, White House physician; Dr. John Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institute of Washington; Dr. William J. Mallory, vice president of the District of Columbia Medical Society, and Dr. W. C. Borden, dean of the Medical School of George Washington University.

Six Stitches in Heart, Man Continues to Live

Baltimore, Nov. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—With six stitches closing a wound in his heart, Barrington Hill, 25, was still alive today at University Hospital. The operation was performed Saturday a short time after Hill was alleged by police to have been stabbed in a brawl. Unless unforeseen complications develop physicians predicted he will recover.

Checking the flow of blood with one finger, a surgeon succeeded in closing the wound with six stitches. Five were made in the left ventricle and one in the left auricle. Before closing the wound, the surgeon removed part of Hill's breastbone and two ribs. The wound was ¾ of an inch deep.

Hoover. He settled on a farm in what is now Carroll County, Md. In 1762 the family moved to Randolph County, N. C. His son, John, in 1802, moved to West Milton, Ohio, with his wife and children. Jess Hoover, third in the American line, moved westward again to Hubbard, Iowa. Eli Hoover and his son, and next in line was Jesse Clark Hoover, father of the President.

Tracing the family tree was difficult, because the records of immigrants settling in Pennsylvania during the eighteenth century showed that two Andreas Hubers came from Germany to settle. The second Andreas, although older, did not arrive in Pennsylvania until 1741, while documents in the family's possession showed that the President's ancestor had been in this country at least the year before.

The belief that the Hoover family originated in Baden-Baden, one of the German principalities, was explained by finding that the town of Ellerstadt, in the Palatinate, where Andreas Huber, the younger was born, once was sold to Baden in payment of a debt, although it was never in the principality's territory. The town later was reclaimed by the Palatinate.

Andreas was born January 29, 1723, the son of Jonas Huber. The latter, a member of the Reformed Church, was mentioned in the records of the town as the son of Johann Heinrich Huber, a citizen and linen weaver at Oberkium, county of Lensburg, in the Swiss Canton of Aargau.

As far as the records now available in this country go, Johann Heinrich Huber is the most distant ancestor of the presidential family yet traced. But Prof. Macco, digging busily in the records of the Swiss Cantons, has expressed the belief that he has followed the line successfully back to the fourteenth century, when the Hubers were citizens and freeholders, though not of the nobility.

The fruit of his Swiss investigations is expected to be brought to this country before long, to be added to the collection of data already assembled at the White House.

SOVIET OPPOSITION SUBMITS ABJECTLY

WHEEL ON OWN PARTY

Moscow, U. S. S. R., Nov. 25 (A.P.). Nikola Bucharin, Alexis I. Rykov and Michael P. Tomsky, leaders of the right wing opposition, today handed to the central committee of the Communist party a written declaration admitting their political tactical mistakes, condemning their former oppositionary activities and promising the Communist party their full support in carrying out decisions of the central committee.

About a week ago Bucharin was expelled from the powerful political bureau of the central committee as the leader of the right wing opposition. Earlier this year he had been removed as editor of Pravda, the official organ of the party. Little power remained to him from the prominent part he had taken in Communist councils for more than ten years.

Rykov and Tomsky, also members of the political bureau besides holding important posts in the Soviet Union government, were warned at the same time that continued opposition would result in similar measures against them.

The declaration today said:

"For nearly two years we opposed the central committee in a series of political tactical problems. We considered it our duty to declare that in this dispute the Communist party and its central committee proved to be right and we were wrong.

"Admitting our mistakes, we promise, together with the Communist party, to fight decisively against deviations from the party general line, particularly against right wingers, in order to overcome all difficulties and assure full victory for socialistic construction."

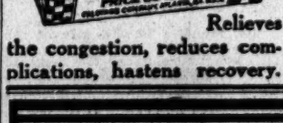

The "mistakes" of the rightists were chiefly opposition to the five-year industrialization plan.

Dry Administrator's Wife Granted Divorce

New Orleans, La., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. O. D. Jackson today was granted a divorce with alimony from O. D. Jackson, Federal prohibition administrator for this district. The two had been separated for several years. In her testimony at the divorce trial, Mrs. Jackson claimed her husband had threatened to kill her.

Mrs. Jackson sued for $300 monthly alimony, but the jury reduced it to $175. Jackson denied allegations of Mrs. Jackson, who said he had threatened her with a pistol and a butcher knife and had treated her cruelly.

Pinchots End Long Cruise in Own Schooner

By JEAN ELIOT.

HOME from a cruise to the South Sea Islands, which represented the fulfillment of a childhood dream, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot are again at their Washington residence. Or rather, Mr. Pinchot, quondam Governor of Pennsylvania, is. Mrs. Pinchot left town yesteday afternoon, after making her first "public appearance" since her return at a luncheon at the Woman's National Democratic Club, and has gone to Connecticut to spend Thanksgiving with her son, Gifford Pinchot, jr. However, she will return on Friday and the Pinchots expect to be in Washington for the winter season.

School days must seem a trifle innocuous and gray to a lad fresh from six months aboard a topsaid schooner, the Mary Pinchot, cruising through waters of the Caribbean and the South Seas in search not of pirate gold but of rare flora and fauna. With a tutor to see that he did not lag in his studies and a friend of his own age to provide youthful companionship, Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot's son accompanied them on their picturesque journey. Mrs. Pinchot was the only woman who made the trip, but, as she remarked before she sailed, she was not the "petticoat" in the party. She wore dungarees or breeches most of the time and took few petticoats with her on the trip, for quarters were cramped and laundry facilities few and far between.

Although inspired by Mr. Pinchot's youthful reading about the romantic realm of the South Seas, the expedition had a definitely scientific character. It was undertaken with the approval and cooperation of the National Museum and specimens were collected not only for this institution but for the National Geographic Society and for several universities. All sorts of rare specimens were secured from the glamorous islands at which the party touched. And Mr. Pinchot had every opportunity to indulge his taste for deep sea fishing.

Fishing, indeed, has been the main object of Mr. Pinchot's life for forty years—according to Mrs. Pinchot. Forestry, politics, yes, even prohibition, have been merely incidentally in a picturesque career. Indeed, she contends that he would rather take a gold fish from a bowl than not fish at all.

After visiting the Caribbean Islands, the Pinchot party made for the infrequently visited Gallapogos group, where a long stay was made and much careful scientific research. Then came the 3,000-mile journey to the South Seas and exploration of a dozen islands, with romantic names.

Mr. Cutting Hostess To Lady Lindsay.

"Now it can be told" that on her recent visit to Washington, Lady Lindsay, wife of Sir Ronald Lindsay, named to succeed Sir Esme Howard as British Ambassador, was the guest of Mrs. Bayard Cutting. Lady Lindsay came to town "incognito" to look over the new British Embassy and it was not until after she had gone back to New York that her friends discovered where she had been staying. There has been a friendship of years' standing between the Cuttings and the Hoyts—Lady Lindsay was Miss Elizabeth Sherman Hoyt—and Senator Bronson Cutting and Lady Lindsay played together as boy and girl. Senator Cutting and his mother have a charming house in Woodland Drive.

Senora de Morales, wife of the Minister of the Dominican Republic, is again in Washington after passing some time at her home in Santo Domingo. She was accompanied to the Capital by her sister, Senorita Emma Rojas. Senor de Morales is passing a good deal of his time in Baltimore, where the President of the republic is receiving treatment.

Mr. Richard P. Ernst, former senator from Kentucky, who is at the Willard for a few days, entertained at luncheon there yesterday, having Senator Lawrence C. Phipps among his guests. Mr. Ernst is now living in Cincinnati and is associated with Speaker Longworth in the practice of law.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Himes also had guests lunchng with them at the Willard yesterday.

Mr. Samada Takes New York Post.

Following an official visit here with Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, Mr. Setsuzo Sawada, recently appointed Consul General to New York, has taken up his duties there. Splendidly equipped for any post in the foreign service of his country, Mr. Sawada enjoys distinct popularity in the diplomatic groups, having displayed profound knowledge of American conditions during his stay in Washington as counselor of the Japanese Embassy from which post he was transferred to Tokyo to serve in the foreign office.

Mr. James W. Wadsworth, jr., former senator from New York, will join Mrs. Wadsworth for the Thanksgiving holiday at their home on Woodland drive, which they will occupy for the winter.

Maj. Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Kuhn, who now make their home at Coronado, Calif., are visiting Mr. George Bond Cochran at his home on Nineteenth street. Mrs. Kuhn's sister, Miss Anne Squire, makes her home with Mr. Cochran, who is their cousin. Gen. Kuhn will go to New York the last of this week for a short visit and he and Mrs. Kuhn will start for California early in the New Year.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley has returned to her residence in Washington. A fortnight ago she accompanied her son, Mr. McClure Kelley, to his new home in Aurora, Ill., and since then she has been visiting in Chicago.

Mrs. Franklin Adams, wife of the counselor of the Pan-American Union, who writes under the name of Harriet Chalmers Adams, will be the guest of honor today at the luncheon hour of the Women's National Press Club in the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women on I street. Mrs. Adams is president of the Society of Women Geographers.

Debut Halted For Daughter By De Sacasas

The Minister of Nicaragua and Senora de Sacasa have postponed until December 21 the reception they were to have given next Saturday evening, from 9 to 12 o'clock, to present their daughter, Senorita Maria Sacasa, to society. The change has been made in deference to official mourning for the late Secretary of War.

The Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi have already announced the postponement of their reception for their debutante daughter, Countess Alice Szechenyi, from Saturday afternoon to the afternoon of Thursday, December 19. Other festivities for the debutantes, which have been postponed because of official mourning, are the dinner dance which the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont were to have given on December 7 for Miss Gertrude Lamont and the debut of Miss Virginia Cheatham, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. B. F. Cheatham, which has been put off from Thanksgiving Day until Christmas week.

Since December 17, the date announced for the concert of Latin American music at the Pan-American Union, falls within the period of official mourning for the late Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good, the concert will be postponed. It will be given in the Christmas holiday season if a date can be found to fit in with the engagements of Mme. Marguerite d'Alvarez, famous Peruvian contralto, who is to be guest artist. Mme. d'Alvarez is a sister of Senor J. Alvarez de Beunavista, of the Peruvian Embassy.

Brig. Gen. George F. Simonds has left Washington for an official trip to the Pacific Coast and will be absent three weeks.

Mrs. George Mesta, who has been in Washington for several days, has returned to New York, where she entertained a party at dinner last evening, later taking her guests with her in her box at the opera. Mrs. Mesta will return to Washington early in the new year.

Senator and Mrs. D. O. Hastings and Miss Elsie Saxton have closed their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel and are passing the holiday at their home in Wilmington, Del.

Mrs. Kean to Return From New York.

Senator Hamilton F. Kean will be joined at the Wardman Park Hotel on Friday by Mrs. Kean, who is passing a short time in New York.

The Naval Attache of the Italian Embassy, Capt. Nobile Luigi Notarbartolo dei Duchi Villarosa, who accompanied the Italian Ambassador to Philadelphia for the reception given by the Italian Book Exhibition Committee of the Free Library yesterday, will remain at the Warwick Hotel there for a three days' visit.

Doctor and Mrs. William Gerry Morgan returned this morning from Miami, Florida, where they attended the annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association.

ceptions, a few have chosen to make their formal debut at luncheons for groups of their sister debutantes. Yesterday Miss Grace Moffat Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Moore Stuart, was introduced at a luncheon given in her honor in the palm court of the Mayflower.

Those present were Miss Junia Culbertson, Miss Katherine Lowman, Miss Mildred Huston, Miss Engracia Freyer, Miss Helen Walker, Miss Starr Eaton, Miss Margreta Swenson, Miss Susan Kintner, Miss Elvira Johnson, Miss Mary P. Bradley, Miss Clara Bolling, Miss Barbara Nell-Thomas, Miss Jean Hay, Miss Sophia Beale, Miss Elizabeth Dunlop, Miss Mary Martha Wren, Miss Mary Caroline Henry, Miss Eunice Lee Evans, Miss Elizabeth Beall, Miss Margaret Olmstead, Miss Alberta Perley, Miss Mary Ingraham Henry, Miss Priscilla Totten, Miss Gertrude Macatee, Miss Mary Stuart, Miss Mary W. Bradley, Miss Phoebe Fuller, Miss Caroline Sanderson, Miss Mary Ruden, Miss Margaret Stringer, Miss Mary Macatee, Miss Anna Virginia Ashburn, Miss Florence Beale, Miss Janet Murray, Miss Isabel Lamberton, Miss Emiscah Gale Davis, Miss Jane Hanna and Miss Catherine Berry. Yellow chrysanthemums and yellow candles with ferns were used as a table decoration.

Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Kelly are entertaining Mr. Kelly's sister-in-law, Mrs. Clark Kelly, of Pittsburgh, who will be in town over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Col. Carson's Widow And Son are Here.

Mrs. Samuel A. Kimberley has as her guests, Mrs. Lawrence Carson, widow of Col. Carson, U. S. A., and her son, Lawrence. Mrs. Carson has been passing some months in Charleston and Fort Sumter as the guest of the late Col. Carson's family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Austin Coolidge, of Cambridge, Mass., are at the Dodge Hotel for several days.

Mr. Preach Strother, research assistant to President Hoover, and Mrs. Strother have with them at the Wardman Park Hotel the latter's sister, Miss. Clark Farley, of California. Miss Farley expects to pass the winter with her brother-in-law and sister.

Miss Angela Chappelear entertained a party of 22 at the supper dance in the gold room of the Wardman Park Hotel last night.

Dr. L. J. Ragatz, of George Washington University, will be honor guest and speaker this morning at 11 o'clock, at the Y. W. C. A., when members of the Y. W. C. A., the A. A. U. W. and the D. C. Voteless League of Women Voters will be hostesses. Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle will present the speaker. Among those who will assist are Mrs. Edna Johnston, Mrs. H. Murayama, Mrs. Albert Putney and Capt. Julia Flikke. "The Background of the World Court" will be the subject of the talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer will have with them over the Thanksgiving holiday their daughters, Miss Elizabeth Meyer, a student at Vassar, and Miss Florence Meyer and her classmate at Bryn Mawr, Miss Mary Cass.

Southern Relief Fete Scheduled.

The trustees of the Southern Relief Society will give a pre-Thanksgiving tea in honor of the ladies of the Southern Relief Home, 2408 Pennsylvania Avenue, this afternoon. For fifteen years it has been an annual custom to give such a tea just before Thanksgiving. Mrs. Charles Nelson Riker will sing during the afternoon and there will be other entertainment. Mrs. Wallace Witcover is chairman of the social committee and the following have consented to assist:

Mrs. Bates Warren; Mrs. Alexander Bull; Mrs. Pearce Horn; Mrs. Drury C. Ludlow; Mrs. Wallace Streater; Mrs. George Hillyer, jr.; Mrs. Rose D. Thurston; Miss Elizabeth Zea; Mrs. Andrew B. Graham; Mrs. Andrew J. Sanford; Mrs. Eugenia Rollins; Mrs. Herbert Merrill; Mrs. Frank Long; Mrs. Milton Johnson and Mrs. Mary L. Barnes.

Mrs. Theodore Tiller, president of the Southern Relief Society, will receive the guests and all Southerners interested in the organization are invited. Mrs. Robert E. Lee has presented for this occasion a large cake with the Confederate flag embossed in icing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb will have with them for Thanksgiving and the week-end their daughter, Miss Cecelia Calbert Robb, who will arrive on Wednesday from Bryn Mawr College.

Following her usual Tuesday morning talk on current topics today, Mrs. Georgette Rose Howard will review briefly several of the outstanding new books of the season.

The present state of affairs in Afghanistan, which has passed through several political upheavals in the last few months, will be one of the interesting subjects on which Mrs. Howard will talk in her lecture, which will take place as usual at the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women, and will be followed by several luncheon parties in the club diningroom.

Mrs. Stephenson-Scott will go to Philadelphia on Saturday to attend the Navy-Dartmouth football game.

Because of Thanksgiving Day, Mrs. William Wolff Smith has postponed to Friday morning of this week at 11:30 o'clock her discussion of "Books Talked About," which usually takes place weekly on Thursday mornings. The Countess de Chambrun, formerly Clara Longworth of Cincinnati, sister of Mr. Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House, will be represented on the program by her book, "His Wife's Romance," which will be reviewed by Mrs. Smith, with reference also, to "Shakespeare, Actor-Poet," by the same author, which received the Bordin prize.

The non fiction book of the morning's review will be the race epic of the American Indian by Flora Warren Seymour, entitled The "Story of the Red Man." The auhtor has the distinction of being the first woman appointed as a member of the Board of Indian Commissioners.

Mrs. Grace C. Frysinger has taken a table for the celebrity breakfast of the National League of American Pen Women, which is to take place Saturday at noon at the Willard Hotel, and will have with her an interesting company of guests, the list including Mrs. John C. Merriam, wife of the regent of the Smithsonian Institution; Mrs. Seymour Lowman, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Andrieus A. Jones, wife of the former senator from New Mexico; Mrs. Charles Craig, Mrs. Wilbur R. Turner, Mrs. Frank Van Vleck, Mrs. Eldridge Moore, and Mrs. Charles White.

On their return from a wedding trip by motor, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howell Furlow will be at home at 829 Quincy street. Mr. Furlow, whose former home was in Atlanta, and Miss Nellie Lee Kidwell, of Washington, were married last Saturday afternoon in St. Anne's Episcopal Church, Alexandria, with a small company of friends and relatives to witness the ceremony. The Rev. Edward D. Johnson, of Annapolis, officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her aunt, Mrs. Annie E. Kidwell, and Mr. Owen Furlow was best man for his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy William Baker are passing a few days at the Weylin in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Jones, of Madison, Wis., are sojourning at the Dodge Hotel.

The Minnesota State Society reception in honor of newly appointed officials from Minnesota has been postponed from November 25 to a later date in January on account of the official mourning for the late Secretary of War.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

IT is cleverly designed to suit the needs of the larger woman. It disguises overweight without a telltale. It features all the latest ideas and whims of Paris and is essentially French in its new princess silhouette.

The long-waisted body overlaps a front in surplice effect to minimize width. It is complemented by most attractively shaped collar in deep revers at one side falling in soft ripples. The collar is quite flat at opposite side and round at back, with becoming open neckline at front. Sleeves are fitted with darts below the elbows and finished with the new, deep, turnback, flaring cuffs.

Style No. 8216 can be made at a small outlay. In the medium size it takes but 3¾ yards of 30-inch material with ¾ yard of 32-inch contrasting. It can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust.

It also makes up smartly in black crepe satin, using the dull surface for collar and cuffs and plaited skirt.

Midnight blue canton crepe self-trimmed, feather-weight tweed in rich plum shade with plain woolen collar and cuffs, black wool jersey, black wool crepe with eggshell faille silk crepe, printed sheer velvet in dark wine tones, tobacco-brown sheer velvet and red dahlia silk crepe pattern. Organizations to Talk On Legislative Topics

Legislation deemed desirable for enactment at the fourthcoming session of Congress will be discussed at a conference to be held in three sessions tomorrow at the Raleigh Hotel by the League for Independent Political Action and the People's Lobby, according to announcement by Prof. John Dewey, president of the latter organization.

The opening meeting, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, will hear Henry T. Hunt, vice president of the Peoples Lobby, on "The Need for Investigation of the Credit System," and Dr. Harry W. Laidler, executive director of the League for Industrial Democracy, on "Unemployment Insurance." Speakers at the afternoon meeting at 2 o'clock are Miss Katherine Fisher, Howard Y. Williams and Benjamin C. Marsh, while those to address the night meeting at 8 o'clock include W. T. Stone, Joseph B. Matthews and Devere Allen.

Execution Date Is Set For Slayer of Woman

Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in District Supreme Court yesterday set February 8 as the date for the electrocution of Andrew Jackson Hawkins, colored, who was convicted last spring of first-degree murder in connection with the death of Ruth Watkins, also colored.

The Negro was scheduled to be executed on December 14, but the respite was granted pending action of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals on a motion for a new trial. The stay was granted on motion of Attorney John H. Wilson, who represents the condemned man. Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, who prosecuted the case, offered no objection to the new date.

Illinois Society to Omit Meeting.

Owing to the death of Secretary of War Good, the Illinois State Society will omit its December meeting and meet next on January 8 at the Willard Hotel, according to resolutions adopted by the executive council of the group yesterday in the offices of Senator Charles S. Deneen, of Illinois, president of the society.

FEMININE GRACE

BUDS OF NEW YORK MUST HAVE HOBBY

READY FOR CAMPAIGN

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The debutante of 1929-'30 is getting ready to cross the social rubicon.

This year she has a double objective in her campaign plans. Besides her programs of luncheons, dances and teas, she is trying to make her mark in one of the arts—studying music, the drama or costume design as hard as her ever-lasting round of parties will permit.

The butterfly is doing her best to shine in another light. She must have a hobby.

Her actual social campaign began last week. Then, in a bower of chrysanthemums and autumn foliage, clad in her prettiest trailing frock, she will make her initial bow at a dance given in her honor in the Tuxedo Park Club.

From then until the debutante's ball at the Ritz New Year's eve, she will be the center of what promises to be one of the most brilliant social pageants this city has ever known.

After the Tuxedo ball—a general "get together" party—the deb will make her individual debut at a luncheon or dinner dance, or both.

Miss Olive Whitman, daughter of former Gov. Whitman, is one of those who will make two social bows. She will "come out" first at a reception tea which her father is to give in her honor at the Colony Club November 18. Later she will be introduced to younger members of society at a dinner dance at the same club. Others, among them Cathleen Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyttleton Fox, and Eugenia Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nay Morris, will content themselves with one debut. They will "come out" at dinner dances this month.

Alice Vanderbilt Morris 2d, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hennen Morris and a descendant of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, will be presented to society at a dinner given by her parents at Pierre's the day after Thanksgiving.

Clothes require a great deal of attention from this year's debutante, since the fall mode has seen a radical change.

Will she adopt the new high waist, the evening hemline that touches her heels and sometimes trails the floor, the elbow and shoulder-length gloves now in vogue? She has to concentrate to find the style most becoming to her, for on the charm of her appearance much of her social success depends.

The actual mechanics of her social campaign she leaves to her mother or an aunt or some other sponsor. And so intricate has that campaign become that many chaperones place the reins of control in the experienced hands of some woman publicity director and let her do the worrying.

Rockville Pike Group Formed by 66 Citizens

Sixty-six residents of the section between Rockville and Bethesda, Md., organized the Rockville Pike Citizens Association at a meeting at 8 o'clock last night at the Harper Country Club.

C. Griscom Randall was elected president of the organization, with Walter Dawson as vice president; T. Burton Doyle as secretary, and Mrs. E. C. Brandenburg as treasurer. An executive committee of five members and a representative to the Montgomery County Civic Federation also were named. E. C. Brandenburg, Washington attorney, who was appointed to the executive committee, presided until the election of officers. The group voted to hold its next meeting on December 9.

Financial news is most valuable in the morning and The Washington Post is unusually complete in its presentation of financial tabulations together with authoritative comment. "Advice on Investments," by Charles W. Storm, is a particularly valuable feature to the inexperienced adventurer on financial seas as well as a source of information for all interested in financial transactions.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

FROM time to time, although generally in an incidental and fleeting way, this column has expressed the belief that were the legitimate theater, so called, to take a page from the book of the motion picture industry its internal disturbances and ostensibly undiagnosed ailments might not be quite so acute.

With particular view to the New York situation in the traditional theater, it has been the contention from the outset of its doldrums that were it to enter into active competition with the picture houses in the matters of beauty, comfort, spaciousness and reasonable admission charges, its plight might be far less distressing. It is, therefore, reassuring to find the following in the reply of the Actors Equity Association to the theater managers' petition that Sunday night performances be sanctioned by the association in New York:

"Now, therefore, it (Equity) resolves that if and when the managers shall first establish the invariable custom of selling a substantial portion of the best seats in all sections of the house to all attractions at the box office at box office prices; and, second, shall inaugurate a system which shall insure the public that the seats which are sold at the agencies shall be sold at a fixed premium; meaning plainly that the manager shall do away completely with the unconscionable 'gypping' at present practiced on Broadway, which has without doubt done more than any one thing to alienate the good will of the public from the theater; and third, shall revise the system of selling cut-rate tickets so that all money from their sale shall go to the theaters themselves, instead of a large portion of it going to a private concern; and, fourth, shall see to it that a stop is put to the discourtesy and supercilious insolence practiced in most of the theaters by box office attendants and other employes who come in contact with the public, as contrasted with the unfailing courtesy of the employes of the picture houses, which are the chief competitors complained of by the managers, then in that case, if it shall appear that these remedies have not solved the economic problems of the theater, the Equity Association will very seriously consider the question of allowing its members to play on Sunday nights, whenever such playing is legal or shall become legal, provided always that in lieu of Sunday night another night in the week be given the actor for rest and recuperation."

If these few minor discrepancies might be adjusted along Broadway, the heart of America's body theatrical, I dare say the rest of the country might contrive to take care of itself.

As a result of a week-end switch in bookings, Paul Muni, whose only previous picture has been "The Valiant," comes to the Fox Theater next week in "Seven Faces," in which he impersonates seven characters, instead of Warner Baxter and Mona Maris in "A Romance of the Rio Grande."

What will be of far greater interest to the patrons of the Capital's picture houses is the announcement that Mr. Muni will be present in person at the Fox throughout the week of his engagement, making stage appearances at both afternoon and night performances, beginning Saturday. The hours of these personal appearances will be made public in due course.

In passing, you might like to know that the second Sunday of "Sunny Side Up," current at the Fox, exceeded the second Sunday of "The Cock-Eyed World" in gross receipts by a sum measured in thousands and fell short of its own first Sunday by only a few hundred dollars.

That's business.

Not that we are going to devote the entire column to the Fox, but Jack Loeb, in charge of stage bookings for the Fox, and the routing of the Fanchon and Marco "idea" units, and Marco Wolfe, the Marco of the producing firm's name—Fanchon being his sister—are in Washington conferring with the local executives of the F street cathedral. Arrived last night.

Since I myself wrote the review of George Bancroft's first all-talking picture for The Post, I am slightly at a loss to understand why I myself should have written a line for last Sunday's motion picture section describing "The Mighty," coming to the Palace, as his first all-talkie.

Perhaps it is that my old paresis is coming back on me, or maybe 2:30 a. m. is not so hot as an hour for careful thinking.

Anyhow, I am lighting a Murad.

However, I disclaim all credit for the five perfectly splendid transpositions, misspellings and twisted verbs wished on my review of "Marianne" in yesterday's issue by a depleted Sabbath evening proofroom.

Boys, have some Murads on me!

The powers that be among the bookers are doubling on the unwary cash customer again this week. Benny Rubin, supporting Marion Davies in "Marianne," in the role of a Jewish doughboy, at the Palace, contributes practically the same specialty that he offers at the Rialto in "The Delicatessen Kid" skit, comprising one of the major supplementary attractions of an all-comedy bill. They are costumed differently, to be sure, and inspired by different motives, but the dances are identical.

The Stanley-Crandall houses are going in for special weeks in a big way. The song memory contest just having been completed at the Ambassador, the Colony is now conducting a star memory contest and at the Earle it is college week. With Harold Lloyd on the screen in "Welcome Danger," the Metropolitan should be advertising a shivers and shrieks week. And don't you think it isn't!

For your information, there will be a special midnight performance at the Metropolitan tomorrow night at 11:30 and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday "Welcome Danger" will be presented seven times a day, beginning at 9:20 a. m.

The Fox also announces a Wednesday midnight performance, beginning at 11:50 p. m.

It seems to me there was another item that was to have been put here—Heaven forbid!

Man Held in Death Of Boyhood Chum

Slaying Is Outcome of Fight for Supremacy in Labor Union.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury today recommended that Melville Purves, 35, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder for the slaying of his boyhood chum, Edward Tracy, early Sunday in the culmination of a struggle for supremacy in a labor union.

Purves and his brother, William, entered a cafe where Tracy was with a group of friends early Sunday, walked to his table and Melville Purves, police said, fired four shots into Tracy's head. He and his brother were captured after a block's chase by a policeman who had seen the shooting.

A year ago, police said, Tracy supplanted Purves as business agent of the Sign and Bulletin Board Hangers Union.

GRADUATES RENEW STUDY OF ENGLISH

BAN ON TELESCOPING

Special to The Washington Post.

Milwaukee, Nov. 25.—A night school class in English usually brings up visions of an Ellis Island crowd painfully learning the primer requirements of the language of their adopted country. Not so, however, at the class of the Better English Institute at the Hotel Schroeder.

Of the 200 or more "students" present certainly half were college graduates. They were well-dressed, well-mannered and appeared to know their alphabets. They probably represented all ranks of business life and the average age was about 30.

But they were present to learn English and they saw nothing odd, apparently, about learning it from the ground up—learning not to say "ain't" or the semi-educated "I aren't" when "I am not" is meant.

"Of course you don't use these barbarisms but you probably have a friend who does," drily remarked the professor, J. Manley Phelps, of Northwestern University.

The first thing pupils were cautioned against was telescoping words, and a typical conversation was flashed on the screen.

"Wentashow."

"Java gootime?"

"Yeah, jew?"

"Cut your words off cleanly," advised the instructor, pointing out that though mergers seemed to be the going thing in business they had no place in English.

The simple word "you" receives the greatest abuse from careless talkers in its combinations with verbs. "Didju," "couldju," &c., were examples.

Pronunciation of certain frequently misused words was next. Broad "a's" may soon be plentiful hereabouts in circles where sharps "a's" were always considered good enough up till now.

"Err" is pronounced as you would stammer it—er—and not as "air," said Mr. Phelps. And how many use "air" as the first syllable in "surprise?" he wanted to know. Usually it is "supprise."

And so went on the lesson through thirty slides, with Mr. Phelps pronouncing and the class repeating. "Hear it, see it, say it" is the school slogan. And the college graduates, students of high hat English, settled down to learn language all over again.

Cider Pipe Mile Long Takes Product to Tank

Gays Mills, Wis., Nov. 25.—The first carload of apples of the 1929 harvest has been shipped from Orchard Heights, and shipments since have been increasing. Shipments amounted to 133 carloads last year.

A large number of tank cars were filled with cider. The cider is carried in a pipe line from the orchards to the railway tracks in the village a mile away.

OLD ACTORS MOURN RAYMOND HITCHCOCK

EXPIRES IN WIFE'S ARMS

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Another familiar face was missing today from the ranks of the old troupers whose memories are mellowed with the stage days of "the gay nineties." The comedian, Raymond Hitchcock, died last night.

The star of "Hitchy Koo" was 64 years old. The end came as he stopped his car before his home in fashionable Beverly Hills after an evening automobile ride with his wife. His body slumped and his head fell against his wife's shoulder. He died from a heart attack, a malady which he had fought constantly for years, trying many climates throughout the United States.

Throughout the motion picture colony he was mourned, for like many of his famed companions—Tully Marshall, Robert Edson and Maurice Costello, he had come to the land of a new era of entertainment, the screen, to play in the movies now and again and pass the last days of his life.

Among the stage luminaries of the last quarter of a century Hitchcock lived as one of the brightest. He is particularly well remembered for his portrayals in "Hitchy Koo," "King Dodo," the "The Old Soak," "The Sap" and "The Yankee Consul."

Many of his plays ran brilliantly on New York's Broadway for months and in others he tourned the country for long periods.

Hitchcock was born in Auburn, N. Y., October 22, 1865. After numerous minor roles following his advent on the stage in 1890, he struck the keynote of his success in "King Dodo," and from then on his progress was unquestioned.

He is survived by his widow and a sister, Mrs. Clarence Blackburn, of Philadelphia. Funeral plans have not been completed.

Results Are Noticed In Mail-Early Drive

The annual shop-early and mail-early pre-Christmas campaigns are bringing results, according to W. M. Mooney, Capital postmaster, but even more prompt response from the public is desired. Mooney said that the peak loads of Christmas mail have been moved forward at least three days in the last few years.

The Washington postoffice was one of the first units in the country to urge early mailing, he said. The postmaster calls attention to the Postoffice Department order that postoffices will not be open for business on Sunday, December 22.

GAYETY

Mr. Talbot features Jyes La Rue and Harry Evanson, comedian, at the head of the cast. Able assistance is given them by Evelyn Murray, Mildred Jennette, Mervin Harmon, Peggy White and Tretta Shea.

Miss La Rue, who is the proud possessor of about the best voice on the Mutual Circuit, is the star of the show. Her vocal numbers, "Under the Spell of the Blues" and "Something About a Rose," earn her much applause.

Evelyn Murray, a former "Hindu Doll" performer, participated in several scenes with Mervin Harmon and took several encores. Evanson, probably inspired by his recent $26,000 win on a horse race in Newmarket, England, appeared to be funnier than ever before.

To Mildred Jennette, goes the honor of being about the best toe dancer to appear at the Gayety this season.

Mr. Healey, a fromer popular Washington musician, directs the musical activities of this show.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

Sena Balsam	Phoebe Foster
Percival Redingote	Alan Mowbray
Harlow Balsam	Frank Morgan
Emily Gunning	Vera Neilson
A Model	Harry Clarke
Another Model	Mortimer Lesey

In the smart comedies of the present day theater there is atendency to poke fun at the various professions—all in the nature of satire.

Ernest Pascal, writing "The Amorous Antic," the new play at the Belasco, took a left-handed crack at the ultramodernists of three spheres, laying low a painter, a sculptor and a playwright. It all makes for a Broadway holiday—since the types will be readily recognized in the heat and frenzy of the modern world's art center, if not in the more somber places.

An ultramodern satire on ultra-moderns, "The Amorous Antic," is decidedly different from the ordinary salty fare of the theater. Its language, in spots, is the language of a cult—and there must be a lot of good old-fashioned folk in this country who would not, hearing its overtones and undertones, know what it's all about. Amusing? It is and it isn't. Decidedly, it is rich and racy for those who realize there are such people as the arty, shallow individuals who stalk through the play. For others "The Amorous Antic" must seem like a study in idiocyncracies—with perversion under the microscope.

A thin sketch of the situation that dominates the entire play should suffice to throw light on Mr. Pascal's laboratory experiment in the sex life of an artistic colony. Sena Balsam is a painter wedded to Harlow Balsam, a playwright. Percival Redingote is a sculptor sitting for a futuristic portrait—or something that, in the making, resembles the description. Complacently, Sena and Percival decide to broaden their souls—in an effort to round out her art. So she meets him in his studio. Over the supper table, she lets her husband in on the secret—and that poor devil tries to argue her out of it; but to no avail. So he goes to the rendezvous, is slapped in the face and called a cad by the unperturbed sculptor and, furthermore, shown the door. Thus an irate husband makes a mild exit.

Now this, in any other play, would be just a situation; but in Mr. Pascal's work it is all so different that it becomes absolutely amazing. These people, to begin with, are not like the average run of mortals; not motivated by the same impulses, the same emotions. In fact, the one great sin in their category is sentimentality. So there can be none of it going on here, although, in a moment of anguish, the playwright goes so far as to admit that his grandmother was a bit that way.

What happens at the Belasco is that nothing really happens; only a lot of talk about it. Even after the break-up, when the painter-wife comes back home somewhat repentant, the husband wants to thrash the matter out, and says, "Now, Percival must have——"

"Oh, let's leave Percival out of this," she pleads.

"But if we leave Percival out of it," he cries, "the whole bottom drops out of the argument."

And there you have an insight into the manner of people infesting the play fashioned by Mr. Pascal. Whether they are worth while considering as play material, if only for purposes of fun, is something for the gods to decide.

The play, as it now stands, is more concerned with sex than any play that has been along here this season—a sort of biological clinic wherein the love-life of the artists is studied in relation to their work; if you can call it that.

Frank Morgan manages to be completely sincere in a ridiculous role, the husband; Phoebe Foster is petite and pretty in the concomitant part, the wife; and Alan Mowbray minces along in one of those sang-Freud character parts without life or liver, the while Vera Neilson displays the sardonic touch demanded by a returned libertine from the verdant verandas of Vienna. Two male models with lady-like demeanor discuss their love affairs, thus giving the thrill that Broadway awaits. From this angle alone, the play ought to be a smash hit on the Street of Streets, though it is doubtful if the farm bloc will have any of it.

NATIONAL

Only a few weks ago Washington audiences nightly watched the overwhelming of mankind and of civilization by man-created robots in "R. U. R.," then for a brief six nights "Death Took a Holiday." But last night the Grim Specter once more spread his lethal "Wings Over Europe" and al lthe world besides. And that part of the world which was gathered within the precincts of the National Theater aplauded the menace!

It would seem as if our playwrights, reading the "Mene, Mene, Tekel Upharson" written on the walls of the theater by the "talkies," are determined to coonvince us that disaster to the drama means the destruction of civilization as well as their Babylon.

The latest terrifier is another of the Theater Guild's productions, "Wings Over Europe," in which the authors, Messrs. Robert Nichols and Maurice Brown, introduce a prodigy of a physicist who, at the age of 25, has discovered the secret not merely of "the universal solvent" and the "philosopher's stone," but also how to control the atom in its orbit. In other words, this young protagonist has in his keeping the power to save or destroy mankind. He would save it, and he offers to do so through the cabinet of the British Empire. But statesmen-politicians can not grasp their opportunity. The idea is too vast, too idealistic, for them to utilize.

With only a week given them to devise a plan whereby to put into operation the "emancipation of man from all drudgery, hunger, pain, labor, law and force," they can not "muddle through," and the young scientist decrees that they and all mankind shall pay the penalty. He announces that at noon of the last day he will return to die in their midst. Then he shall will that this pigmy of a planet, earth, be destroyed and nature can begin again in the primordial slime of some other planet to evolve a race worthy to accept the responsibility for the control of the atom.

Primarily a forensic discourse for two acts, the final scene is devoted to more conventional drama—at least, the drama of a conflict of personalities rather than a series of didactic harangues on physical phenomena. It is in this last act that the authors give their conception of how a prime minister and his twelve cabinet associates would—not should—spend their lastfifteen minutes on earth. A rather sorry conception of the human race and, fortunately for one's self-esteem, a not altogether convincing series of thirteen portraits of men who are about to die.

The denoument, while not entirely coherent, is far less of an anticlax than that of either the more griping "R. U. R." or the more human and stirring "Death Takes a Holiday."

Like "Journey's End," "Wings Over Europe" concedes no feminine significance to the affairs of the world. All of the nineteen characters are men, and the element of romance is the romance of a mankind's struggle for conventional existence against the revolutionary idealism of science personified in a poetic physicist.

In the role of the prime minister, dependable Ernest Lawford becomes somewhat stridently oracular; Alexander Kirkland is the intense and passionate young physicist; Morris Carnovsky impersonates the pivotal character of an understanding scientist; Hugh Buckley gives a solid impersonation of the one doer of the cabinet, while less conspicuous roles are enacted with individuality by John Dunn as the sportsman statesman; Boyd Davis, as lord high chancellor; George Graham as the stuttering attorney general, and Charles Carden as a workingman of socialist proclivities.

To add piquancy to these death-dealing plays, it is suggested that questionnaires be distributed among theater patrons: What would you do if you had only five minutes, or ten, or fifteen, to live. Perhaps, like the understanding scientist, some of us would sit by the fire and finish the last chapter of our book.

Women Aviators Start New Endurance Flight

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 25. (A.P.)—A womens' endurance refueling airplane flight record attempt of Bobbie Trout, Los Angeles and Elinor Smith New York, was declared officially under way at 5:30 p. m. today after the girls completed two successful refuelings within half an hour. They took off at 5:29 a. m. today.

A refueling plane made contact with the endurance ship over San Fernando Valley, at 5 o'clock, transferred 100 gallons of gasoline, and again at 5:20, made contact for transfer of 50 ballons additional fuel and food to last the young women through the night. The next refueling was planned for 6 a. m. tomorrow.

Woman Awarded $1,50 For Traffic Damages

Delia Agnes Donohue, of Lowell, Mass., was awarded a consent verdict of $1,500 against the District of Columbia by a jury in District Supreme Court yesterday.

The woman claimed that she suffered permanent injuries August 14, 1928, when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a "silent policeman" at Thirteenth and N streets northwest. The woman tells the court that the "silen policeman," a structure of steel and concrete, did not bear a light and that her automobile was wrecked and she was badly injured. She entered a suit for $5,000 damages through Attorney Harry S. Barger just before the consent verdict was recorded.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. yesterday was ordered by the Public Utilities Commission to issue free transfers from its Rhode Island avenue buses at Twelfth and Lawrence and Twelfth and Thirteenth street at their intersection with Monroe.

Petition for an order providing for operation of a regular-fare motor bus service to Chevy Chase was considered at a meeting of the commission yesterday. Commission officials said that a public hearing would be held on the question if the commission decides to make any change.

Census Questionnaire May Bear New Inquiry

To determine just how many residents of the District vote in their home States and how many do not have their say in national elections the Washington Board of Trade will recommend an additional clause to the census questionnaire providing for the acquisition of this information, it was learned yesterday.

At an executive meeting of the trade board yesterday, a committee was appointed to draft a resolution urging an amendment to the census questionnaire. This committee is composed of Samuel J. Prescott, E. C. Brandenburg and E. C. Graham. It will be submitted to the director of the census and other authorities.

Suitcases Stolen From Auto.

Two suitcases containing wearing apparel and a fur coat were stolen from an automobile in front of 2001 Eleventh street northwest yesterday afternoon, police were informed last night. Susan Blackwell, living at 2001 Eleventh street, and Ada M. Hatchett, living at 901 Florida avenue northwest, were the owners of the suitcases. The value of the loot was $325.

Imagine your Motor

Constantly immersed in Oil

That, in effect, is what happens when you fill your crank case with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil--none of its hundreds of moving parts are ever without lubrication.

CONOCO

CONOCO GERM-PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

. . . . . actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a film that adheres for months to bearings, cylinder walls and all working parts . . .

Per Quart - for All Grades Except Special Heavy and Extra Heavy

A MOTOR OIL, to do a 100% job, must lubricate all the time. That means that it should provide a lubricating film at every stage of motor operation including starting when the engine's cold. In other words, the motor should have a perpetual oil bath.

And that's exactly what happens when you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil for the very good reason that this super-lubricant because of the patented germ process by which it is produced, actually combines with the bearing surfaces to form a film which adheres indefinitely. It never leaves the bearings—and that means constant lubrication.

Think of the saving this means to the motoring public! Automotive engineers estimate that from 40% to 60% of the destructive wear and tear on a motor is caused in the starting operation because, with ordinary oil in the crankcase, the moving parts have no lubricating film when the engine is cold—and the oil is not distributed until 5 or 10 minutes after starting. Imagine the abuse to the engine during these periods of running with absolutely no lubrication! No wonder Conoco Germ Processed Oil is hailed as the revolutionizing motor lubricant. Its "carry-over" film has solved the greatest lubrication problem of the day. It assures longer life and smoother operation in any motor where it is used.

And never forget that to produce Conoco Germ Processed Oils the exclusive germ essence principle is applied to only carefully selected paraffin base crudes, resulting in a lubricant with greater film strength, greater adhesiveness, greater tenacity, greater stamina and lower friction than any other oil on the American market.

Draw up to the Conoco Red Triangle and give your motor a perpetual oil bath. Ask for Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

The following decisions were handed down today:

Customs Appeals Nos. 3199 and 3218. The U. S. vs. Porto Rico Coal Co. Same vs. Same. Opinion by Graham, presiding judge. The steam tug Berwind, purchased by the Porto Rico Coal Co., was appraised and assessed for duty at San Juan, Porto Rico. The U. S. Customs Court held that this appraisement was void and should be set aside. Their judgment is affirmed, and it is held that said judgment may be construed, without violence to either the parties or the purpose and intent of the law, as a judgement that the Berwind is not legally liable to appraisement. Lenroot, J., dissents.

Customs Appeal No. 3237. McLaughlin & Freeman vs. The U. S. Opinion by Graham, presiding judge. Ornamental framed pictures on glass, assessed as entireties, were held by the U. S. Customs Court to be dutiable at 55 per cent as articles in chief value of glass. The importer claimed that they were properly dutiable as photographs or as nonenumerated manufactured articles. The judgment below is affirmed.

Customs Appeal No 3198. Pelz-Greenstein Co. vs The U. S. Opinion by Bland, associate judge. Upon exportation of 183 dresses appellant claimed drawback on the ground that they were manufactured or produced in this country with the use of imported merchandise. The collector disallowed the drawback on the ground that the dresses had been in this country more than six months. The importer protested, the U. S. Customs Court overruled the protest, and their judgment is affirmed. Garrett and Lenroot, JJ., specially concur.

Customs Appeal No. 3206. The United States vs. Louis Wolf & Co., Inc. et al.; opinion by Bland, associate judge: merchandise assessed as toys at 70 per cent was claimed by the importers to be properly dutiable at 35 per cent as manufacturers of paper. The United States Customs Court sustained the protest of the importers except as to the items represented by exhibit 2, and their judgment is reversed except as to said items represented by exhibit 2.

Customs Appeal No. 3163. Semon Bache & Co. vs. the United States; opinion by Hatfield, associate judge. Certain glass "exit" signs were assessed at 60 per cent as glassware commercially known as plated or cased glass, composed of two or more layers. The importers protested that the merchandise was not composed of two or more layers and was properly dutiable at various lower rates. The United States Customs Court overruled the protest of the importer, and their judgment is affirmed.

Customs Appeal No. 3191. The United States vs. August Merckens; opinion by Hatfield, associate judge. Small slot machines were assessed at 70 per cent as toys. The importer protested that they were properly dutiable at 30 per cent as machines or parts thereof. The United States Customs Court sustained the protest of the importer, and their judgment is affirmed. Bland and Garrett, J. J., dissent.

Customs Appeal No. 3231. W. L. Conover vs. the United States; opinion by Hatfield, associate judge. Semismographs were assessed at 40 per cent as scientific instruments. The importer protested that they were properly dutiable at 30 per cent as machines. The United States Customs Court overruled the protest of the importer, and their judgment is affirmed. Lenroot, J., concurs in the conclusion.

Busy Men Profit By These Four Flyers West

Fast Afternoon Schedules Prove Most Convenient For Washington

THE recent inauguration of The Golden Arrow makes two fast Pennsylvania Flyers to Chicago every afternoon—leaving at two different convenient hours.

Similarly the quickening of the Spirit of St. Louis—less than one year ago—makes two fast afternoon Flyers to St. Louis, leaving at 2.40 and at 6.30.

And there are other convenient trains as well, morning, afternoon, evening—a total of eight to Chicago—a total of five to St. Louis.

This multiplicity of fast trains makes it possible for you to select the one which fits your business plans—both here and in the West.

If you have an early appointment in Chicago—take the Liberty Limited, leaving Washington at 3.25 P. M., arriving in Chicago at 9.10 A. M. But if you would prefer an extra hour in Washington, take The Golden Arrow at 4.18 P. M.—almost at the close of the business day—and you're in Chicago at 11 the next morning.

To St. Louis—the Spirit of St. Louis and The American offer you an equally convenient choice in hours of departure, hours of arrival.

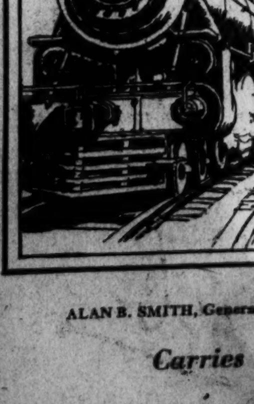

All four of these trains are fast, luxurious.

To Detroit—The Red Arrow leads four convenient Pennsylvania trains daily. Leaving Washington at 3.55 in the afternoon, The Red Arrow arrives in Detroit at 8.45 next morning.

On Street Cars For Forty Years In Washington

Mr. M. J. Donovan, Who Has Lived in City 60 Years, Praises Miller's Herb Extract.

Forty years ago Mr. Donovan began driving horse cars in Washington. When they were replaced with cable cars he continued as a motorman; he saw the cables replaced with the present up-to-date system, and he was retired from active duty about four years ago.

MR. M. J. DONOVAN.

Mr. Donovan now resides at 330 N street southwest. He is known to people from all walks of life throughout the city, and his statement regarding this medicine should be of special interest to his many friends. He said: "My sister-in-law told my wife and I about Miller's Herb Extract (formerly called Herb Juice). She praised it so highly, I must admit I was rather doubtful about it, as I did not think a medicine could do all she said this one would do. Still, I had noticed lots of other statements in the papers, so I said to my wife: 'Well, I will try one bottle, at least, and see if it has any effect on my old ailments.' I had a great deal of trouble with my stomach; food would not digest properly, bowels were out of order, I felt tired, sluggish and seemed to be in a run-down condition. Of late I had also been troubled with rheumatic pains in the shoulders. This medicine seemed to just fit my case, and as a general system cleanser and builder it beats anything I have ever used; regulates the bowels, wakes up a sluggish liver, eliminates the body poison and makes a person feel better in every way, also relieved the pains in my shoulders; in fact, made me feel better in every way. My wife also uses Miller's Herb Extract, and in her case it has also proven to be satisfactory in every way. I never expected to give a statement of this kind, but this is one medicine worthy of any one's praise, and I think it is only fair to it to say to others who may want to give it a trial that it is one medicine that has proven in every way to be just as recommended."

This great medicine is an herbal preparation, (formerly called Herb Juice), and is the largest selling medicine on the market, where it is known. Owing to the great demand for Miller's Herb Extract in Washington it was necessary to place two representatives here. These men are located at Store No. 2, 505 Seventh street northwest, and Store No. 9, Thirty-first and M streets (Georgetown), of the Peoples Drug Stores, where they are explaining this medicine to the hundreds that call.

JAMES J. HILL'S SON IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

PAPERS HELD IN SECRET

Papers in the case were immediately withdrawn from court files. Mrs. Hill's attorneys would not divulge their contents.

On May 18, 1927, within ten minutes after he was divorced from his second wife, Pauline Gillison Hill, Walter Hill took as his bride Mildred Richardson, whom Florenz Ziegfeld, theatrical producer, described as "a perfect American beauty."

She was playing in a New York production, "No, No, Nannette," when Hill met her. The courtship followed, and the Follies beauty and her mother, Mrs. C. R. Mayers, were waiting in one room of the courthouse at Livingston while, in an adjoining room, the divorce proceedings were heard. Mrs. Hill's father is W. Earl Richardson, Saskatchewan rancher.

Under the terms of her divorce, Pauline Gillison Hill received $25,000 in cash and Hill was ordered to pay $25,000 within five years and $1,000 a month for the remainder of her life.

Today's proceeding is not the first breach in the romance of the third Mrs. Hill. On October, 1927, five months after their marriage, she filed suit in Butte, Mont., asking separation, alleging that while Hill had the manners of a Park avenue boulevardier during their courtship she had found him since the wedding "wild as the Montana scenery." A reconciliation was effected and the suit dropped.

Hill has built up a fine herd of purebred stock at his ranch, some of his animals having taken high awards at outstanding live-stock shows. At Corwin Springs, near Yellowstone Park, he has built an attractive clubhouse and laid out a pretentious golf course.

LADY RHONDDA.

London, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Lady Rhondda, one of the most prominent business women of the country and a director of 30 companies, today led England's employed femininity in a counter-attack on J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal and minister of employment.

He, in a speech to the House of Commons, had denounced "women pin-money workers" as economically unfair and against the interests of the nation. "No legislation can cure it," he said. "It is a question of moral responsibility. The number of women engaged in industry today doing work that men did prior to the war is very substantial—women that need not to be so employed."

Lady Rhondda retorted with, "It is strange that Mr. Thomas, a Socialist, should be advocating idleness for any section of the community. It is ridiculous to say that it is against the interests of the nation for women to work. Every one either works or is kept by some one else. My own experience in business is that few women are engaged in it on a pin-money basis. Most of them work because they need the money."

Even if women had no other responsibilities, "why should they not work to support themselves?" she asked. "Is it fair to expect fathers to support a family of grown-up daughters? Suppose even that many women are working for pin money. what would happen to the pin money when earned? It would be spent some way, and however spent it would create more work."

Miss Florence Underwood, secretary of the Women's Freedom League, said, "We think the Thomas statement is simply scandalous. It is not for him to be the inquisitor of why women work. Like the old Adam, he is just trying to blame the woman—for unemployment. Every woman has a right to work, no matter what her position, if she chooses to do so."

MILLER'S ANTI-PAIN OIL
Formerly known as
Snake Oil
STOPS PAIN.

From coast to coast men and women are singing the praise of "Anti-Pain Oil"—a most powerful, penetrating, pain-relieving liniment. It will penetrate thickest sole leather in a few minutes. Mrs. B. Werner, New Orleans, La., writes, "Thanks to your wonderful penterating oil, it relieved me of Rheumatism and deep-seated cold after other remedies failed."

"I had rheumatism so bad I had to walk on crutches for nine years," says H. C. Hendrix, old soldier of Minneapolis, Minn. "After three months' treatment with "Anti-Pain Oil" laid off my crutches, and now can walk like a boy."

J. B. Moore, Pittsburgh, Pa., railroad man, says: "Anti-Pain Oil" is the only liniment that ever gave me relief from rheumatism. I use it regularly after being exposed to bad weather." For rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, stiff joints, pain in back and limbs, corns, bunions, chest colds, sore throat, "Anti-Pain Oil" is said to be without an equal.

MOTHER AND FATHER OF DEAD BABE HELD

MURDER CHARGE FILED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—A 29-year-old mother and her alleged lover were held in the county jail here tonight on murder charges following her admission, officers said, that they drowned their 8-month-old daughter.

Mrs. Bertha Ellison admitted today, Sheriff J. L. Scogin said, that she watched Andrew Garner, an unmarried man, throw their infant daughter, Eleanor May, into a creek near Grady, a few miles from where both live and hold her submerged with a stick until she drowned.

County Solicitor Temple Seibles announced he would ask Judge Walter B. Jones of Circuit Court to call a special session of the Montgomery County grand jury to investigate the child's death.

Baby Is Recovered.

Coroner J. J. Diffly returned a verdict of death by drowning. The body was recovered today. Mrs. Ellison said the child was slain last Wednesday.

The couple was arrested late yesterday after neighbors had become suspicious of the child's disappearance and notified authorities. Deputy Sheriffs Hayden Sellers and Sim Butler, who made the arrests, said the woman readily admitted her part in the infanticide, stating that she and Garner met at a bridge near where the body was found, after he had suggested disposing of the child.

When the man started to take the baby from her arms, Mrs. Ellison said she revolted at the thought of killing it and declared her intention of placing it in an asylum. Garner then seized the child and drew a pistol and threatened her life, she continued.

Shoved Under With Stick.

They proceeded down the stream a short distance and Garner dropped the child into the water, wrapped in its blanket, and prodded it under with a stick. "I turned my back, then," officers said Mrs. Ellison told them.

She went to a nearby Negro residence where she stayed until arrested.

The woman told officers that her relations with Garner had been intimate for a considerable time, resulting in a separation from her husband, Jasper Ellison. The husband has custody of the elder of the two children, the other being cared for by a brother.

Representative Griest's Death in Night Expected

Mount Clemens, Mich., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Representative W. W. Griest, of Pennsylvania, was not expected to live through the night, Dr. Oswald G. Fluemer, his physician, said here late today. Representative Griest, who is 71, is suffering from pneumonia.

"There has been a decided change for the worst. I do not believe he can live through the night. His heart action is growing weaker," the physician said.

Veterans' Head Lauds Hoover's Merger Plan

(Associated Press.)

Approval of President Hoover's plans for consolidating Federal agencies dealing with war veterans was expressed yesterday by William J. Murphy, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans.

His organization, he said, is "strongly behind" the plans of the Chief Executive. He urged prompt congressional approval of whatever legislation is necessary.

Pope Pius Will Appoint Additional Cardinals

Vatican City, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Pope Pius, at the secret consistory December 16, will appoint two or three more cardinals than those already announced, making seven or eight in all. All of the additional ones will probably be Italians.

It is virtually certain that Mgr. Serafini, secretary of the congregation of the council, will be one of those named, while the others most prominently mentioned are Mgr. Pacelli, nuncio at Berlin, and Mgr. Tedeschini, nuncio at Madrid.

British Ship Asks Help; Tug Rushes to Rescue

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The British steamer Jamaica Settler, London for Kingston, Jamaica, wirelessed here today for assistance. She said her rudder post was damaged and she was helpless. Her position was given as 48 north, 22 west.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

Although Thanksgiving plans absorb nearly every one's attention today, still back in our minds somewhere, is a lurking interest in gift-buying for Christmas, and we all have the feeling that just as soon as we can, we will settle down to it seriously.

There is no reason why you should not have a perfectly wonderful time buying Christmas presents this year. The shops are full of lovely things and the prices are so varied that no matter how you may feel financially, you can still afford to buy something.

The Time Has Now Come

—when we must schedule our days to find time for everything that we must do. Our plans for Christmas include having some new pictures made to send to members of the family and intimate friends. Underwood & Underwood have been busy for some time making sittings for Christmas giving. If you had thought it was something which might be put off until later, just figure mentally how many weeks to Christmas, and you will see that it must be done now.

Just a word, too, about the importance of photographs in your Christmas list. It is not necessary to remind you that this is the one thing you can give which no one else can duplicate. You know when you give your photograph to some one, that no one else can give just that present to that particular person.

If you must send gifts to friends or relatives in far-away lands you must lose no time, for you must allow at least two or three weeks for mail to reach its destination in most foreign countries.

As to prices of pictures, you can pay almost anything you want to from $20 a dozen on up. Some of the most expensive prints are so gorgeous that they come under the head of important portraits. Look at them anyway, whether you order or not.

Old Virginia Shop Has Gift Suggestions

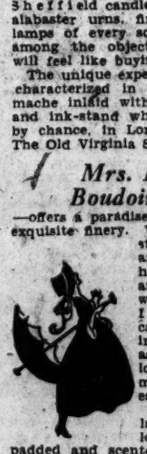

—in many little objects of interest at moderate prices. You must see a collection of snuff boxes in eighteenth century silver, in all shapes and sizes, too attractive for anything. Interesting papier-mache boxes have decorations of old prints. Any number of rather small things might be chosen with gift-giving in mind. Sheffield candlesticks, alabaster urns, fine old lamps of every sort are among the objects you will feel like buying.

The unique experiences of the collector are characterized in a desk set of old papier-mache inlaid with pearl, a portfolio, a box and ink-stand which were assembled quite by chance, in London, Brighton and Paris. The Old Virginia Shop, 1711 I street.

Mrs. Dulany For Boudoir Accessories

—offers a paradise for the shopper who likes exquisite finery. While this shop at 1901 Q street specializes in lingerie and chaise longue sets, they have just now a delightful array of small creations which are suitable for gifts. I was surprised to find delicately worked pin cushions in pastel colors for as little as $5; traveling cases of lovely silk for $6.50, and many other things at modest prices.

Everything in Mrs. Dulany's is made finely of the loveliest materials. There are padded and scented cases for traveling, for lingerie and night things, jewel boxes and everything adorable.

Ronald Hayes Sings This Afternoon

—at 4:30 at Poli's. His appearance here is one of the outstanding musical events of the season. If you have not yet secured your seats, do so immediately at the Wilson-Greene Concert Bureau, 1300 G street.

Holland, Italy, Russia, Germany, London and Paris have proclaimed this Negro tenor one of the wonders of musical history. His career reads more romantically than the most fanciful tale. Through pathetic struggles he has risen to fame from the lowly obscure background of a Georgia farm, where he dreamed and hoped for his opportunity.

Some way he managed to get through school and college and finally went abroad, where a recital in London was his first step toward fame. He was soon the talk of the capitals of Europe, where music lovers marveled at the beauty of his voice and his mastery of the art of singing.

His voice is indescribable, its timbre, its flexibility, the unbounded richness of shades, its warmth—all these have something that you do not find in any one else, a kind of amazement at its own wonder, a tenderness for all art and sound.

Thanksgiving Dinner At Canterbury Bell

—will be just as delicious as you know the food always is in this attractive cafe. The Canterbury Bell is one of the most beautifully appointed restaurants you can find in town. For Thanksgiving Day dinner will be served from 12:30 to 8 o'clock continuously.

It is not absolutely necessary to make reservations, but I would suggest that you do so, and for the hour which suits you best.

The Canterbury Bell is in Alban Towers, at Massachusetts avenue and Wisconsin avenue. You will see many of your friends there on Thanksgiving Day.

Pre-Thanksgiving Sale On at Herron's

—is just in time for most of us, who want inexpensive little frocks before the holiday. Herron's, up one flight, 1735 Connecticut avenue, is selling afternoon and sport models at two prices, $12.50 and $18.50. The frocks in these groups are in silks, flat crepes and failles and travel prints. In the first group are attractive tans and greens, red and dahlia shades, with many of the same in the second pricing, too. At $18.50 there is a charming black and white costume and a brown mixture with a canary yellow blouse.

Do see the lovely evening coats and day and evening frocks which are made to your order in Herron's.

Harris & Ewing.

MISS ENGRACIA FREYER, the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Frank B. Freyer, will be presented to society by her parents at a tea at their home on December 10. Miss Freyer has just returned from several months in Europe, where she traveled extensively in Italy and Spain with her mother and two young brothers. The classic simplicity of the white moire gown in which she is pictured here is in this season's best manner.

Pasternak Saves The Day

—for many a girl who simply must have another frock or two before the Thanksgiving holidays.

Pasternak, 1219 Connecticut avenue, has such huge varieties from which to chooose in charming models for day and evening, that no matter what your last minute needs may be, they may be filled here.

Now that cold weather is upon us, we need warm clothes for the football games, but they must be smart. knitted two or three piece frocks in gay colors, furry coats, trim little hats.

The demands for tea frocks and evening gowns must be met, too, and nowhere more elegantly than from the displays of Pasternak, 1219 Connecticut avenue.

J. Rand Opened Formally Yesterday

—and every one is entranced with this, the newest shop at 1702 Connecticut avenue. J Rand is an importer of knitted garments for children, and has been doing business from a residential office for some time. The demand became so great for these fine little English garments that it was thought best to open a downtown shop.

J. Rand is the sole agent in the United States for Mastroknit garments. They are so marvelous that once a mother has bought them for her children she can not be contented with anything else. Boys' clothes are in sizes from 1 to 6 years, and girls from 1 to 10 years.

Delicious Desserts From Avignone Freres

—may be ordered for the Thanksgiving festivities in any mold, any flavor, any combination you have in mind. Avignone Freres, 1777 Columbia road, have a reputation for making wonderful desserts and other sweets and pastries. I happen to know that they make their own fruit sirups and flavors, their own preserves and fillings, so that you are eating the best, purest food possible when you order from Avignone.

Avignone candies are famous for the same reason, and you can not go wrong in ordering Thanksgiving confections here.

A special Thanksgiving dinner will be served in their mezzanine restaurant. There is a private room available, if you need one.

Thanksgiving Dinner At The Willard

—will be the most festive imaginable. The Willard Hotel always does everything so well that it is to be expected that they will have many little features appropriate to the day which will add greatly to the pleasure of dining there.

Dinner will be served in both the Crystal Room and the Coffee Shop from 12 noon until 9 in the evening. This gives hours to suit every one. The Willard Hotel Orchestra will play in the Crystal Room. The dinner is $3.50 only, which, you know, is a very low tariff for a menu such as the Willard serves. Linassier, the famous new chef, with a European career to his credit, has planned a toothsome array of dishes for the day.

In the Coffee Shop the dinner is $2 a plate, and since the atmosphere of this restaurant, is informal and cozy, it will be the choice of many families and individual parties.

Although it is not at all necessary, it is a good idea to make your reservations now for the hour you wish to dine.

If you are in the city all alone, which sometimes happens, you will like the atmosphere of the Willard Hotel restaurants, and you will most assuredly be enthusiastic about the food, which is without doubt absolutely perfect.

Tailoring Done At Schwartz

—is as excellent now as it always has been. Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue, make suits and coats so quickly that it is a great pleasure to go to this firm for made-to-order things.

Before Thanksgiving is a good time to enjoy the privilege of buying at special prices. Frocks which were $19.75 are now $16.75. These are truly delightful frocks, made of nice materials, and with superior workmanship. Nearly every color is represented in the group. You will like a pansy crepe with shirrings, and the dahlia shades and deep greens. Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue.

Robert-of-Paris Has Elsie Pierce

—preparations in the new salon, 1514 Connecticut avenue. When looking around for creams and lotions which were the most desired by every one, considering this line and that, Mr. Robert decided upon Elsie Pierce Preparations for their pure composition, and for the benefical results they prove to have.

Elsie Pierce Cleansing Cream, Neroli Skin Tonic and Preserving Cream are the three essentials which every devotee of these preparations wishes to keep on her dressing table. Besides all the other fine aids to beauty at Robert-of-Paris, you may now have an Elsie Pierce facial treatment.

Interior Architects Talk of Elevations

—which to the uninitiated must be explained as drawings in color of the four walls of a proposed room. It is the most efficient imaginable way of submitting the plans for an interior, for you can see where every piece of furniture will be placed, just how the walls will look, what the colors will be like together and all about it.

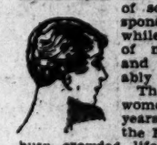

I saw a set of such "elevations" at the studio house of Schuyler & Lounsbery, 1409 Twentieth street northwest, yesterday. This firm of interior architects have a genius for visualizing finished results, working sometimes with the furniture you already have, and sometimes with certain additions which they deem necessary.

You might be agreeably surprised to find what could be done with your rooms, if you had the advice of such experts as these two prove to be. There comes a time when every home needs renovating, and changing about for variety if for no other reason.

Do drop in to see Miss Schuyler and Mrs. Lounsbery and tell them your problems. I know they will help you, and you will have the pleasure of enjoying your home in a fresh new guise, perhaps without the addition of so much as a single piece of furniture.

The Fame of Russina Treatments

—for hair and scalp is entirely justified. Malnutrition and the most stubborn cases of scalp disorders quickly respond to scientific treatment, while the strength and vigor of normal hair is preserved and its appearance immeasurably improved.

The most exacting men and women in Washington have for years enjoyed the benefits of the Russina treatments. For a busy crowded life, there is nothing quite so relaxing and restful as a shampoo, such as Russina gives, or a marvelous face treatment.

THE HUGUENOT, 1359 Connecticut avenue, will be open as usual every other day this week.

Varieties of Sandwiches From Pastry Shop

—are equally delicious. This well-known, unique little shop has moved to 806 Seventeenth street. You go up a short flight of steps and ring a bell at the door of a tiny office at the rear of the hall. Better yet, telephone to Met. 6939 and give your order. It will be delivered to your home, at a slight additional cost, at the time you want it.

When you are entertaining in the afternoon or evening, and want a quantity of sandwiches quickly, this is the best and most economical way in which to secure them. You may buy them for 45 cents a dozen or for $3.25 a hundred. There is a slight additional charge for delivery. You will agree, once you have tasted them, that they are more toothsome than you could make in your own home.

New Modes in Lamp Shades

—are being shown at the Lamp Shade Shop, No. 2 Dupont circle. Mrs. Helen Tanquery Smith brought back from Europe this fall such new and different ideas in lamp shades. There would be no use in my trying to tell you about them, for they are indescribably lovely.

New shipments from the other side, in interesting antiques, are arriving frequently. The last shipment, which came in from England the other day, includes interesting figurines in pottery and glass vases for lamp bases, several nests of tables and other suggestions for Christmas gifts.

Affectionately,

Bab

Bridge Game Over Radio In Afternoon

Two Women Will Play Against Men in Second Contest of Series on WRC; Post Breakfast Brevities 8:15.

The second bridge by radio game to be broadcast through Station WRC at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon will feature four widely known bridge players and lecturers. In the south Sidney S. Lenz, of New York, will be paired with Mrs. Guy U. Purdy, of Omaha, while opposing them will be William E. McKenney, of Cleveland, in the west, with Mrs. Oscar E. Busby as his partner.

The games are prepared under the personal supervision of Milton C. Work, international authority and teacher of bridge.

Tomorrow morning a summary will appear exclusively in this paper. It is suggested that the readers clip these summaries and thus keep a permanent record of the hands as broadcast. These can not be secured other than through The Post.

Sidney S. Lenz, South, the dealer, holds: Spades—K 8; Hearts—A 8 7 4; Diamonds—K J 6, and Clubs—Q 10 7 4.

William E. McKinley, West, holds: Spades—A Q 10 9 7 4 3 2; Hearts—5 3; Diamonds—A Q 10; Clubs—None.

Mrs. Guy U. Purdy, North, holds: Spades—5; Hearts, K—9 6 3; Diamonds—8 3 2; Clubs—A K 9 5 2.

Mrs. Oscar E. Busby, East, holds: Spades—J 6; Hearts—Q J 10; Diamonds—9 7 5 4; Clubs—J 8 6 3.

One of the important partnerships in the history of music was that of Gilbert and Sullivan, the famous duo who wrote the great series of comic operas. The highlights of the collaboration of Gilbert and Sullivan will be the basis of the broadcast planned for the Eveready Hour at 9 o'clock tonight from WRC. The dramatic version of the lives of the two will show their meetings, at which were born such celebrated operettas as "Pinafore," "Iolanthe," and the "Mikado." An orchestra, under the baton of Nathaniel Shilkret, will provide the musical background.

Four tunes, popular when the Pilgrims celebrated the first Thanksgiving some 300 years ago, will be played by Leo Reisman's R-K-O Orchestra at 10:30 o'clock tonight. This broadcast will last an hour and will include several well-known entertainers, with Graham McNamee as master of ceremonies.

Priscilla and John Alden, of Longfellow's famous poem, will appear in a different light when a new comedy song, entitled "Why Don't You Speak For Yourself, John?" composed by Harry Reser, is offered for the first time by the Eskimos at 10 o'clock tonight. "By Wireless" is another number scheduled.

The last half-hour of an all-Wagner program arranged for the Slumber Hour by Ludwig Laurier will be broadcast by WRC at the conclusion of the R-K-O Hour.

Gene Austin, tenor, will sing "How Am I to Know?" and "Please Come Back to Me" when the Freed Orchestradians program is broadcast at 10:30 o'clock from WJZ and a network of stations, including WBAL.

The song hits of two popular motion pictures, "Sunny Side Up" and "Paris," will be heard during the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman hour to be broadcast at 9 o'clock tonight over WMAL. Mildred Bailey, contralto; Bing Crosby barytone; Jack Fulton, tenor, and the Rhythm Boys will be heard.

William Haines and Jack Eagan, of the movies, will be Mr. Whiteman's guests in the studio during this broadcast and are expected to extend a word of greeting over the air.

Frank Crummit and Julia Sanderson will be featured in the presentation from WMAL at 8 o'clock. Miss Sanderson will sing as solos "My Castle in the Air" and "A Pretty Girl," while Mr. Crummit's contributions are "How Come You Do Me Like You Do, Do, Do," and "Get Away, Old Man, Get Away." Together they will do "Same Sort of Girl," "Babes in the Wood" and that old number, "Shine On, Harvest Moon."

A program new to local listeners will be heard at 10:30 o'clock from WMAL, under the title, "Marjorie Oelrichs Tells a Story." Will Osborne and his orchestra will be featured for a half-hour, starting at 11 o'clock.

"Breakfast Brevities," sponsored by The Washington Post, will be broadcast by WOL at 8:15 o'clock this morning. The station will present its two new features again today, the first at 11:30 o'clock, "Half Hour With Famous Composers," and at 5 o'clock, the period known as "Tea Time." A program of luncheon music will be transmitted between 1 and 2 o'clock. The station will broadcast the regular Tuesday evening program from 6 to 7:30 o'clock and from 10 o'clock until midnight.

More than 80,000 short tons of lime, valued at more than $750,000, were produced in Texas last year.

Laying the First Atlantic Cable.

A CENTURY ago there was no way of getting a message across the Atlantic except by means of a ship. Vessels of that time were much slower than those of today, and letters needed from three to eight weeks for the passage.

Thousands of lives would have been spared if there had been a quick message service across the ocean in December, 1814. A peace treaty was made to end the War of 1812, but the news of the treaty took so long to get from Europe to the United States that a battle was fought at New Orleans after peace had been agreed upon.

How could men make messages cross the ocean faster than a ship could carry them? In 1844 Samuel Morse proved that a telegraph message could be sent from Washington to Baltimore. Was it possible to lay telegraph wires across the ocean?

In 1857 efforts were started to lay seven copper wires, bound together and forming a "cable," from Ireland to Newfoundland—a distance of 2,000 miles.

The cable was let out from a ship departing from the Irish coast; but it broke after 400 miles had been laid down.

The next year a British ship and an American ship met in midocean. Each carried about 1,250 miles of cable. The cable ends were spliced together and the ships moved apart, letting down the cable as they went. But, alas! When the vessels were only 3 miles apart the cable broke.

Again and again the ships met, but each time the cable broke, and the trials were stopped for the time being. The next month the same ships met again. This time they had better wheels for letting out the cable.

Three hours after the ships parted a whale swam near the British ship and grazed the cable—but it did not break. The American ship sighted icebergs, but managed to steer safely past. At last both ships reached port. The cable was completely laid down!

WORK'S BRIDGE

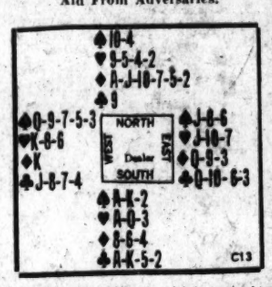

"Bridge Brevities," a pamphlet, by Milton C. Work, the world's preeminent authority, on auction bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp), self-addressed return envelope.

Aid From Adversaries.

IN the above hand, which was played in a game of Auction Bridge, I sat West. South bid No Trump and as the other three passed, he obtained the contract.

In Contract Bridge, South would have bid two No Trumps and North would have jumped him to three, East and West passing.

In the play, which would have been the same at both games, I led my fourth best Spade. The Declarer played the Ten from dummy, hoping that my lead had been from Queen-Jack; but when East played the Jack, the Declarer gave up all hope of taking three Spade tricks, and won with the Ace. He next led a Diamond, and when my singleton King fell he took with the Ace in dummy and returned the Jack of Diamonds. My partner (East) properly held up his Queen of Diamonds, and dummy's Jack won. The Declarer, then appreciating that he was limited in Diamonds to two tricks, in Spades to two tricks and in Clubs to two tricks, attempted to secure an extra Heart by leading from dummy and finessing his Queen. As I had the King of Hearts, the finesse failed and Declarer consequently made only one-odd—two Spades, one Heart, two Diamonds and two Clubs.

How should Declarer have managed his hand?

The Correct Play.

Declarer should have seen that to make game he must win three Diamonds and two Hearts, or four Diamonds and one Heart in addition to his assured two Spades and two Clubs. The Heart finesse was an even gamble, but the four Diamonds could be made without difficulty.

On trick 2 when I played my King of Diamonds, dummy should have held up his Ace; and on trick 3 when I led my second Spade, South should have held up his winner so as to exhaust the East hand of Spades. When I led a third Spade to clear the suit South would have won, and should have led a second Diamond and ducked a second time, permitting East's Queen to win. Then Declarer would have taken two Spades, one Heart, four Diamonds and two Clubs for a total of nine tricks and game regardless of what East led. If a Heart were led, the finesse should have been refused.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 26.

DR. MARY WALKER, heroine of the Civil War and noted exponent of dress reform, was born this day, 1832. She was commissioned a lieutenant on the U. S. Army surgical staff and served on the battle field for the duration of the Civil War, wearing at all times male attire. She lectured all over the country on dress reform and woman suffrage. For her bravery on the battle field, Congress awarded her the medal of honor and granted her express permission to wear male attire. She habitually appeared in a frock coat and full evening dress suit. She died in 1919.

Queen Maude Charlotte Mary Victoria of Norway was born this day, 1869. The queen is the daughter of King Edward VII of England. She married King Haakon, ruler of the "Land of the Midnight Sun," in 1903. They have one son, Crown Prince of Olav.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Paris, Nov. 25.

DO YOU take time off for loveliness? Oh, yes, of course, you simply haven't time—you haven't a minute in between office hours and scrambling to get dressed for a dinner date, theater, party and what-not—in between managing the house, bridge dates, matinee, dressing for dinner, making calls.

Even merry-go-rounds stop, in between going around. Ah, but women, lovely, delicate, fragile, sheltered mechanisms that they are, don't need to stop for repairs! Or they act as though they think so. But the point is that they don't think.

Will you ask yourself one question at my expense—right this minute? Of all the things you do, of all the things you know, what is the most important?

I'm just going to let you think that over for a minute.

Is any one friend or all your friends put together, is the game of bridge, the knowledge of dancing, the business of eating, your housework, your office job, your family, in short is anything at all that you can think of more important to you than you are to yourself?

At first you may answer "Yes"—but that will only be because you do not understand that in order to have or do any of these things at all you must first be You. And yet you are the very thing that you neglect and abuse the most!

Time off for loveliness! It is the wisest investment a woman can make—the most indispensable one. Time off not only for physical loveliness, but for mental loveliness, which is tranquillity, and spiritual loveliness, which is charm.

Why not think this over and convince yourself of the necessity?

• • • •

"Do I get on your nerves?"

"Sure, why not?"

(Tee hee! We always did think that was funny, and still do.)

• • • •

The art of Premet evolved the graceful ensemble illustrated for you today, with its assortment of browns and variety of materials. Brown velvet makes the coat, brown alpaca with velvet spots makes the dress, touches of yellow embroidery trim it, and a beige vest does the rest. Note the novel placement of fur on the sleeves of the coat.

Lovely odd faces—a geometric butterfly—a couple of lovely birds, an elephant—twenty designs in all sizes and shapes! That's what we offer you in this week's illustrated leaflet, for which you may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. And the directions for using these designs in a large way—or any other way you can think of—go with them. With Christmas just around the corner, it does seem as though you will have ever so many uses for this leaflet, doesn't it?

The weekly Dare fashion letter in The Washington Post each Sunday always has some pleasing and interesting ideas. By all means look for it.

This Stunning Boucle Suit
Has a Palm Beach Future

It's prominent in all the important advance showings for resort wear—the three-piece sports suit of a firmly knitted, nubb fabric. Jelleff's interprets it in this stunning silk and wool suit in a perfectly divine color combination—warm, yellow beige and a rich, chocolate brown. The Vionnet type sweater uses bandings of the darker contrasting color to the greatest advantage, while the keynote of the cardigan and skirt is a classic simplicity. Equally smart for now as later.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Beautiful but——?"

"SHE is a knockout, but I can't possibly marry her, and yet I've asked her and we are engaged. She hasn't one idea in her head, and she is counting upon our marriage, which, thank heaven, is well in the future, as I am not through college yet.

"She went through high school—or so she says, yet the other day she asked me who this Helen of Troy was that every one was raving about and what had she done. When it finally dawned on me that she thought Helen of Troy was some current personality who had shot a husband or otherwise made the front page of the daily papers I was sunk. Now please don't misunderstand me. I don't care whether a girl is college bred or not if she is half way intelligent, but how can a girl of 25—she is three years my senior—have gone through life without ever having read enough to know, even if vaguely, such personages as Helen of Troy? Leaving history and mythology out, you can't dodge them even in fiction and the press! I am going in for journalism when I finish here, and feel I must get out of this engagement tangle somehow. I get a thrill out of her looks, but her talk is the talk of a 10-year-old. Will she be difficult to handle in such a matter as a broken engagement? She is one of the most stubborn people I ever knew. I met her here and do not know her people. They are foreign born, but she is just gorgeous. American in type. She is in musical comedy.

"PENN."

Oh, the relief of that last sentence, for she will soon tire of a college youth who hopes to enter "journalism—whatever that thing is." The girl is naturally eager to marry, as 25 is about the dead line in her profession—unless she is a star—which does not appear in the evidence. So just fade gradually from the picture and allow your place to be taken by some complacent bald-headed business man who has probably buried an intelligent wife and who now would welcome an opportunity to spend the money his wife saved and hear some 10-year-old prattle while doing so. It is a notable fact that breaking an engagement with a chorus girl is considerably more difficult than becoming engaged to one. A raccoon coat and a fair "line" can bring about an engagement, but it sometimes takes a high-priced lawyer and pretty strong argument to undo the work of the raccoon coat.

So proceed with caution rather than dispatch. Become a grind and work nights as well as day. Bore the lady with your devotion to your books, and who knows but the fair one may forthwith send you packing. For beauy, foreign-born or tariff-free, commands and may exact attention, and few the beauties who do not know that however vague their knowledge of whether Helen of Troy lived in Queens Village, N. Y., or was a headliner for Weber & Fields. Be not impatient, son, and forthwith some broker will invest in some startling beauty and some astonishing experiences—while you pursue the arts!

This column is for you. Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF today is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 3 p. m. to 4:45 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:15 p. m.

Disturbing influences will be in force on this date, and an unsettled feeling will exist throughout the day. There will be some worry in connection with some correspondence which will not be alleviated at the present time. Avoid casual associations!

The child born on this November 26th will have natural power and endurance, and will never spare itself when interested in work or play. It will be quick tempered, but with it, it will not last more than a moment. It is inherently fitted to be at the head of things.

You have a great many homely traits which make you very attractive to those who know you, and very dependable in any role of life. You are of a type which improves with acquaintance, as you have to be known to be appreciated. In the first place you are sincere, and Goethe has said that it is not genius that is so rare, but sincerity. There is not an ounce of hypocrisy about you, and you loathe this trait in others. You have a kindly nature and you can not bear to hurt or harm any one by word or act. Your generosity and sympathies are widespread, and are given to those who truly deserve them. You choose your friends because they are congenial—for what they are, and not for what they have.

You possess a fair amount of initiative, are a splendid worker, and are very thorough in everything you undertake. You do not think quickly, nor do you move quickly, but you make few mistakes, and usually come out ahead in the long run. You have considerable will power and your brain is an efficient servant of that will. You adhere to a "do it now" policy, and are not a victim of the habit of procrastination. You will live a happy and useful life.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TO AVOID GAME DISEASES.

WE are hearing much about tularemia. The latest is that it is a disease of quails and may be contracted from this game bird. There seems a possibility that it may exist in many game birds and game animals, and that all hunters and those who handle the kill may be subject to it.

In 1911 Dr. T. B. Beatty, of Salt Lake City, saw his first case of it. He called it deerfly fever. The man whom he saw it with had been bitten by a deerfly. He found that the common opinion among the people was that it was an old disease among wild rabbits and that occasionally it prevailed as widespread epidemics. There were stories, generally not well authenticated, of epidemics in which dead rabbits were found everywhere in the brush. The theory of the people was that it was a rabbit disease which was carried to man occasionally by the deerfly. This insect was the carrier, just as the mosquito carries yellow fever, the flea, plague, the louse, typhus, and the fly, typhoid.

Dr. Beatty reported his observations and the information he had gained to the surgeon general of the Public Health Service and to the State health officers in one of their meetings. Soon after Dr. McCoy found a disease in rodents which was called tularemia and which was due to a bacillus which he discovered.

The next step was the demonstration by Francis that the deerfly fever of Beatty and the tularemia of McCoy were the same disease. The next step was the demonstration that the wild rabbits found in the Washington market were often infected with tularemia and that some people who skinned and butchered rabbits developed the disease. The next was the proof that tularemia as a disease of human beings is widely scattered over America and that several wild animals and game birds are infected with it.

The known methods of avoiding it are:

Not to kill any sick animals or sick bird.

Not to handle killed game with the bare hands. Especially to wear gloves when skinning and cutting up game.

In butchering game, to examine the viscera and particularly the liver, and to reject all diseased organs, and, as a rule, not to eat any animal that appears to be unsound.

In course of time a man may learn how to recognize "wolves" under the skin of rabbits and masses in the liver, neither of which have any relation to tularemia, but until one does it is safer to reject all animals and birds that appear abnormal.

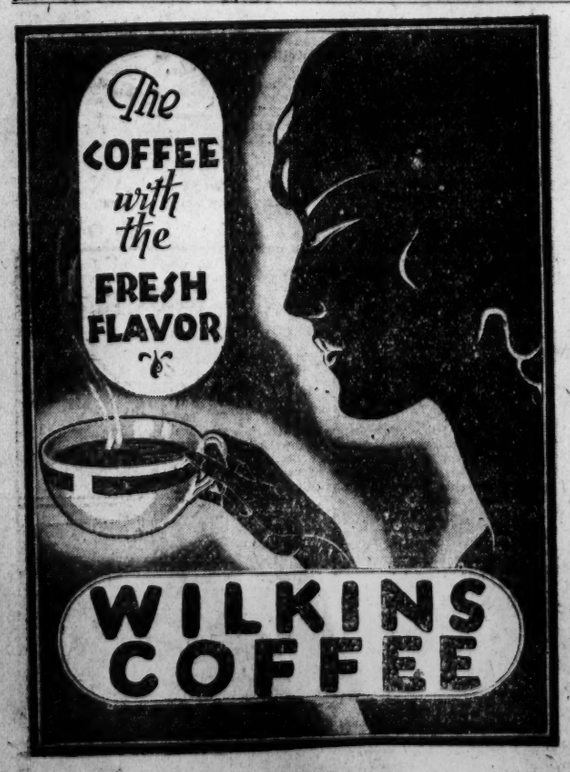

SEWER GAS NEARLY HARMLESS.

Mrs. W. W. S. writes: At this time of the year we have heavy rains and flooded basements. Would you kindly print some information regarding the dangers of sewer gas? In what way does sewer gas impair one's health?

REPLY.

Sewer gas or sewer air is harmless, or practically so. If a basement has been flooded, clean it thoroughly. Sprinkle lime around profusely. Start a fire and dry it out. Beyond this you need do nothing.

STOCKS IRREGULAR ON PROFIT TAKING

CEMENT ISSUES RALLY

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The stock market was somewhat unsettled by profit-taking in advance of the protracted closing beginning with the Thanksgiving Day holiday, and a mild break in the coppers today as normal five-hour trading sessions were restorted after three weeks of three-hour periods.

The market was well supported on declines, however, and traders were encouraged by a noteworthy slackening of trading on down turns. Cautious short selling, still restrained by the members' daily reports to the stock exchange as to short accounts, was in evidence, but it made little impression.

Total sales for the five hours of trading were only 3,130,000 shares, the smallest turnover for a full session since October 17, and but little larger than the average volume of trading during last week's three-hour periods.

Losses Are Regained.

Declines among popular shares ran from 1 to 11 points, but a large part of these losses was regained before the close. Profit-taking appeared in some volume during the morning, and no sooner did it seem to have been absorbed than reports of price-cutting by some of the smaller copper producers depressed the red metal shares and caused further unsettlement.

Some profit was expected to result from the announcement after last Friday's close that the exchange would be closed beginning with the holiday next Thursday, until the next Monday. This four-day shutdown will be one of the longest on record in peace times. Today's news continued to be of a reassuring character. The reports of copper price cutting were regarded calmly in red-metal trade circles. Leading producers are still determined to maintain the 18-cent-a-pound price level. Foreign buying was said to be somewhat better today and cheaper credit is expected to help electric power construction projects.

Hoover's Plans Stimulating.

President Hoover's conference with agricultural leaders, at which road building and grain-elevator construction were suggested, was regarded as marking further definite progress in the administration's plans to keep the wheels of business spinning smoothly. Announcement of plans to merge the United and Cuyamel Fruit Companies, and to bring Anglo-American Oil back under the fold of Standard of New Jersey, gave evidence that the merger movement has been but momentarily restricted.

A few extra dividends and fairly good earnings statements were announced. Railroad income statements for October were somewhat less favorable, but this had been foreshadowed by the decline in car loadings.

Credit remained abundant. Call money held at 4½ per cent officially, but was again offered as low as 3 in the outside market. Time money was normally quoted at 5 per cent, but the demand was slight, and some lenders offered funds as low as 4¾. A few bankers' acceptance dealers quoted further reductions of ⅛ of 1 per cent.

General Electric dropped 11 points to 210, rallied to 222, and closed at 220, off 1 point. U. S. Steel sagged 2¾, but closed nearly a point higher, net. American Can, American & Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, and Johns Manville dropped 4 to 6 points, but wiped out all but a point or so of their losses before the close.

Coppers Rally Moderately.

Coppers rallied but moderately, from the day's lows. Calumet & Arizona dropped 6½ points, and closed 4 off. Anaconda and Kennecott dropped about 4 points, and closed down about 3. American Tobacco, Atchison Macy, National Cash Register, U. S. Industrial, New York Central and Norfolk & Western were among issues closing 3 to 6 points lower.

Rails having coal interests were in demand as result of the cold weather. Delaware & Hudson and Lackawanna gained about 4 points each. New Haven was firm in response to a favorable October earnings report.

Cement issues rallied briskly, stimulated by the heavy building and public works projects disclosed by the Washington conferences. International Cement, Alpha Portland and Penn Dixie preferred rose about 5 to 8 points.

In the commodity markets wheat sagged about a cent a bushel, and corn also was under moderate pressure, resulting primarily from large receipts at the markets. Cotton futures showed little change.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling was firm, and the German mark reached a new high for the year. The Canadian dollar rallied to above 99 cents. The Spanish peseta, however, sank to another new 1929 low.

RICH CHICAGO GROUP NOW COURTING

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Some of the public-spirited millionaires who built the Chicago Stadium so that their fellow citizens might absorb culture in a painless and involuntary way are now conducting a business flirtation with the millionaires who built the new Garden in New York. Object, matrimony. The New York millionaries are somewhat Old World in their ideas, however, and the matter of whether or not this flirtation will ripen into love will depend on the size of the dowry which the Chicago millionaires are willing to provide for their corporation.

If the union is effected, there may be a family of junior gardens and stadiumettes in various minor centers of population about the country and culture may become a household word. The Garden Corporation is very fecund and already has had two progeny, the New York Velodrome and the Miami Arena, by some odd biological process which I believe would be called parthenogenesis. The first of these has been no credit to the Garden, having achieved a court record at an early age, but the Miami Arena made a very auspicious start in life last year and is in high favor with the home office.

The Chicago millionaires have dislodged Mr. Paddy Harmon, the old dance hall proprietor, from the presidency of their corporation, and while this suggests to me that the cost of public spirit may have been running a bit too high for them, I hope I am mistaken.

Always Had Skeptical Opinion.

I have always had a rather skeptical opinion of the public spirit of these millionaires not only in New York and Chicago, but also in Detroit, Boston and Cleveland, who aim to elevate the ethics and refine the tastes of their fellow citizens by investing their excess profits in the stocks of firms engaged in the present action of prize fights, wrestling shows, six-day bicycle races, dance marathons and baseball games.

It will be interesting to observe now that the excess profits are likely to be much less excessive than they were heretofore, whether public spirited millionaires of the same type living in other cities will be as eager as ever to build such tempts out of basic capital. The cultural value of these places is obscure and if any of the millionaires engaged in the financing really believe they are inspired by altruism, they probably have hypnotized themselves as Mr. Tex Rickard did.

Mr. Rickard began talking up the cultural and civic values of his New Garden and his Dempsey-Tunney prize fight productions strictly as a sales promotion, but he talked so much and so enthusiastically that he presently reached a state of mind in which he almost believed what he said.

When he first began suggesting that the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight would confer a great permanent benefit on the city of Chicago, he was able to smile at the notion of a city of 3,000,000 people, several universities and great substantial character, acquiring desirable, lasting distinction through a thirty minute prize fight.

He Could Deliver Orations.

But before he was through ballyhooing the sale of his tickets, which did not move very briskly after the millionaires had been allotted all the best seats, he could deliver his orations about the great big thing that he was doing for the city of Chicago with wild-eyed fervor and apparent conviction.

I have seen that some millionaire connected with the Chicago Stadium has compared the stadium to the Civic Opera, and as one who has no knowledge but only respectful illusions about grand opera, this seems a terrible thing for any millionaire to say, even in defense of his stock investments in a stadium. Perhaps my ideas of opera are exaggerated. I derive them from the pictures in the papers on opening night every year, showing the best people entering the foyer, wearing capes and collapsible opera hats.

The only time I ever handled one of these hats was when a magician came down through the audience at a show and handed it to me to verify that there was nothing in it. I did so certify to the audience and he then reached into the hat and produced several rabbits, gold fish and other forms of wild life. We had an office plug hat in London when I worked for the United Press, but Mr. Keen, the manager of the bureau always kept it in the safe and the only time I ever saw it at close range was when he got it out and gave it to our Mr. Hal O'Flaherty, that he could attend the opening of Parliament.

Mr. O'Flaherty happened to fit the hat so he drew the assignment, and

(Associated Press.)

TWO traditional Thanksgiving Day football games are beckoning invitingly to Virginia's football fans this week—the annual V. M. I.-V. P. I. clash at Roanoke and the University of Richmond and William and Mary contest at Richmond.

The annual battle between the University of Virginia and the University of North Carolina, which during the many years it has been played, at times has been paramount among the classics, this year has narrowed itself to little interest in Virginia, and in North Carolina fans are merely speculating as to how many touchdowns the Tarheels will score.

Washington and Lee leaves the Old Dominion for a Turkey Day clash with the University of Florida at Jacksonville. Dopsters say the gravy for the dish is monopolized by the Gators.

Attention Fastened on Richmond Game.

Thus, with two of the "Big Four" playing out of the State and the remainder hooked up in a struggle (and what a struggle it will be!) all their own at Roanoke, the William and Mary-Richmond classic at Richmond holds supreme interest in the East.

One other game is scheduled for the Thanksgiving program in Virginia at Bristol, where Carson-Newman and King College will pull the "turkey's wishbone."

But there are four teams engaged in these two major Virginia contests, and there is not a soul within the confines of the Commonwealth who can say, now, who will win either of the games. There is no doubt that they are the proverbial "blood games," and either two of the four can win.

Relative merits, and scores on paper make no difference with these games. V. P. I., of course, generally is conceded to be the weaker of the Roanoke contestants, and Richmond University, of the Richmond Fronts. But dope "buckets" always find it hard to keep right side up in both of these games.

William and Mary Has Had Edge Recently.

For the past five years, William and Mary has had a keen and well sharpened edge over the age-old foe at the University of Richmond, but the "Spiders" have a knack, of notching that edge in an uncanny fashion, and cutting down the Indians to their own size, and battling the Williamsburg aggregation to a standstill.

None knows who will win these two games but thousands of stanch alumni of the four schools are preparing to hurriedly partake of Thanksgiving dinner and fill the highways to Roanoke and Richmond.

Tourney Winner Will Tackle Sonnenberg

Boston, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gus Sonnenberg announced here today that he had complied with the order of the Illinois Athletic Commission to post a $2,500 forfeit to give any grappler that body named a chance to wrestle for his heavyweight mat title.

The Illinois commission, Sonnenberg said, intends to supervise a wrestling tournament in that State and compel the champion to wrestle the winner. The Illinois body has reinstated him in that State as a result of posting the forfeit, he asserted.

Sonnenberg has agreed to meet the winner of a tournament to be staged in one of the Chicago ball parks next summer by Promoter Joe Coffey, of that city.

Dr. Spears to Stay With Gophers, He Says

Minneapolis, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Denying that he would leave Minnesota, Dr. Clarence Spears, football coach, today said "there is nothing to the whole matter" of his accepting appointment as head football coach at the University of Washington.

Fred Luehring, athletic director of Minnesota, supported Dr. Spears' statement. Dr. Spears will leave tonight for the East. He will attend the coaches' meeting of the Big Ten in Chicago, December 6.

G. W. Freshman Star Breaks Leg in Practice

George Washington's powerful freshmen eleven yesterday met an unexpected reverse in its training for the game with the Catholic University freshmen on Thanksgiving when Lyle Sturtevant, brilliant right end, suffered a broken right leg on the practice field at Potomac Park. The accident occurred as Sturtevant was catching a pass during a scrimmage with the varsity. Leaping into the air for the ball, Sturtevant lost his balance and came down heavily on his right leg, which snapped under the sudden strain. He was removed to George Washington Hospital where it was said he will be confined for about two weeks.

The loss of Sturtevant, whom the G. W. coaches stamped an exceptionally good end, may open a starting role for Bill Vogt, brother of Al Vogt who holds down the left end position. Jones, Helvestine and Galloway also are available for use in Sturtevant's berth.

N. B. A. RATES SHARKEY BEST

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Jack Sharkey, Boston, was rated as the Nation's leading heavyweight but not the official champion by the National Boxing Association here today. The heavyweight title was declared vacant.

Stanley M. Isaacs, president of the association, said all titles must be won in the ring and not on paper, and for that reason champions in several classes were declared open.

Flyweight—Champion, Frankie Genaro.

Bantamweight—Champion, Panama Al Brown.

Featherweight—Champion, Battling Ballalino.

Junior lightweight—Champion, Tod Morgan.

Junior welterweight — Champion, Mushy Callahan.

Welterweight — Champion, Jackie Fields.

N. B. A. Takes Over Wrestling.

Wrestling was adopted as its own by the association. Hereafter the grappling game will be under the exclusive control of the association, according to Stanley M. Isaacs, Cincinnati, president. Steps are to be taken at once to investigate conditions and to standardize the sport, he said.

As an opening bomb, Al Haft, manager of John Pezek, heavyweight contender, placed a certified check for $10,000 in the hands of President Isaacs to bind a match with Gus Sonnenberg, who claims the title, or with Richard Spikat, recognized in several States as title holder.

All wrestlers, managers and promoters must register with the association before they can take an active part in the sport and no champions will receive recognition until after January 1. In the meantime the board suggested it would be acceptable to the association if promoters would get together and put on an elimination tournament.

President Isaacs said he was working to formulate a boxing law to put before the next Legislature legalizing the sport in Ohio, stating that although boxing has been conducted in Ohio for many years, the law against prize fighting has never been changed.

Drinkers to Get "Gate" At Florida U. Contest

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 25. (A.P.).—Persons caught taking intoxicating drinks at the Florida-Washington and Lee game here Thanksgiving Day will be escorted to the gate, given their money back and ejected from the stadium.

City and county authorities decided today to avoid arrests if possible, but were agreed that all persons "drinking in plain sight" should be ejected.

Pop bottles also came under the official ban. To avoid any trouble with this sort of thing, venders of soft drinks will be required to use paper cups.

168-Game Schedule Likely for Association

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—American Association club owners tonight took a recess from their annual meeting, without having been able to agree upon the 1930 schedule question, and will go back into session tomorrow.

President Thomas J. Hickey indicated the league again would adopt the 168-game schedule, although several owners held out for 154 games. The latter favored the shorter schedule because of financial losses suffered last season when unfavorable weather caused many postponements at the start and near the end of the long campaign.

The 1929 championship officially was awarded to Kansas City, and a resolution congratulating the club on its victory over Rochester of the International League in the "little world series" was adopted. Resolutions of sorrow over the deaths of William Killilea, late president of the Milwaukee Club; James Perry, late president of the Indianapolis Club, and Clyde Tuttle, Columbus, Ohio, sports writer, also were adopted.

MITCHELL STOPS FOE.

C. U. to Show New Star in Backfield

Cards Seek to Better 40-8 Victory Scored Last Season.

By JACK ESPEY.

IF ANYBODY suspects that Catholic University is taking lightly its game with George Washington two days hence, his impression would certainly be altered following a look at the Cardinals in practice.

Coach Jack McAuliffe's red-clad warriors yesterday drilled as hard as any time this year and evidenced spirit that presages lots of fighting football when they come to grips with their local rivals. They tore up and down the Brookland gridiron in signal drill as if their lives depended on the number of trips they made back and forth, and all the while were yelling like a bunch of wild Comanches.

Big Bob O'Connor, 180-pound tackle and the best defensive lineman on the squad, practiced in the fullback position and showed plenty of speed and agility in following his interference on running plays. McAuliffe said he probably would start O'Connor in the back field against the Colonials.

O'Connor's Plunging New Problem for Colonials.

This latest change in the Cardinal array is another bit of indication that George Washington and its adherents can't expect to find Catholic in an overconfident mood. With the switching of O'Connor, the Brooklanders gain weight and power for running plays, which combined with an already effective forward passing attack, makes them more formidable than they were for either Duquesne or William and Mary.

The strengthening of the Cardinals creates one more problem for the luckless G-Streeters, for now they must form some plan intended to stop O'Connor's line smashes and off-tackle sweeps. O'Connor is at home in the back field as he had three years of experience as a full back and half back in prep school.

It now appears that Catholic is planning to give the Buff and Blue the worst licking it ever took in this annual local gridiron classic. Last year the Brookland team ran up a count of 40 to 8, which stands as the most decisive victory a Catholic eleven ever scored over G. W.

Colonials Base Hopes on Back Field Aces.

George Washington is not worrying, however, about what preparatory steps Catholic is taking. The downtown outfit is thinking only of putting its all into the battle in an effort to make a creditable showing. It secretly hopes to win, in spite of the huge odds in favor of C. U., and is placing much dependence in its back field stars, Blackie Hoffman and Babe Clapper, believing this pair capable of penetrating the Brookland defense.

With Hoffman crashing the line and Clapper tossing passes George Washington may well be expected to try all it has in the way of offensive tactics. At least, no one should figure the Colonials are going out to Brookland with the idea that they will do enough to hold down Catholic's attack.

Harding, Harvard End, Reported Much Better

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Victor M. Harding, Harvard varsity football end, who was severely injured in the Yale game last Saturday, today was "much better" and "on the way to recovery," according to officials of the Stillman Infirmary. His life was saved by an emergency operation late Saturday night in which a ruptured spleen was removed. It was said by physicians that he would not be out of danger for several days.

Harding, a junior, of Hubbardwood, Ill., left the game in the fourth quarter in great pain after an apparent kick in the back.

Harding's scholastic record was high and he could complete the full college course in three years. Dr. Thomas Richards, team physician, said that Harding's football days are ended, "if I have anything to say about it." The boy's mother saw the game and was at his bedside before and after the operation.

Harding made a spectacular catch of a 48-yard forward pass that enabled Harvard to tie Army.

Al Marsters to Watch Navy-Dartmouth Game

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Al Marsters, still the East's highest football scorer, today rejoined the Dartmouth varsity football squad as it prepared to leave for Atlantic City to complete its training for Saturday's clash with the Navy at Philadelphia.

Marsters, however, will have less chance of playing against the Midshipmen than any of the 27 clubs who will accompany the regular players. His back, injured in the Yale game, is encased in a metal brace. He was accorded the trip by the Dartmouth Athletic Council, to enable him to end his college football career sitting as one of the Green's coaching staff.

TECH ELEVEN ALLOWED TRIP

Principals Give Consent for Connecticut Grid Game.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER.

THAT Tech High School's championship football team will travel to Stamford, Conn., to meet the strong Stamford Eleven of that city on December 7 was assured yesterday when a unanimous consent to the proposed trip was given by the five high school principals, who held a special meeting to consider the question. Although the game had been pending for some time, no official sanction had been given until yesterday, when the necessary permission was granted.

According to present plans, therefore, Coach Elmer P. Hardell will leave here with his championship squad some time around 1 o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, December 6, arriving in Stamford that evening. The team will remain in the Connecticut stronghold until Sunday morning, when it leaves for Washington.

Besides Coach Hardell and his team, Principal Frank Daniels of Tech is planning to make the trip, while there is a possibility that Assistant Principal Davis might also accompany the squad. And if business matters permit him, Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, likewise will go with the party.

Tech Took Trip Last Year.

The offer to come north to oppose the Stamford Team was made to the Tech Team immediately after Hardell's charges had clinched the 1929 interhigh title. The trip will resemble a jaunt of the same Tech Team last year which traveled down to Tuscaloosa, Ala., for an intersectional game with the Tuscaloosa Eleven, to which it bowed. The defeat took nothing from Tech's honor, however, and gained the local team widespread recognition, especially among the Southern section.

Although looking ahead to that date, Hardell is at present engaged in keeping his team on edge for the coming game with Staunton, at Staunton, Va., on Thursday. Tech's Eleven will be one of the two District scholastic teams playing on Thanksgiving Day, as Coach "Mike" Kelley will take his Eeastern Team to New York for a contest on the same date.

Cadets Test for Tech.

Although Tech won the high school title with ease, it appears that it will have its hands full when it runs up against the Virginia Cadets on Thursday. The Staunton Team has been acknowledged the prep school champion of the State of Virginia. Although Tech was admittedly the class of local teams in the interhigh series, it is extremely doubtful if it can take the measure of the Staunton Eleven.

Offer for N. Y. Contest Rejected by Pittsburg

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—The University of Pittsburgh athletic council today turned down the offer made recently for their football team to play a game in New York City for the benefit of the Christmas fund. The Panthers were to have been matched with either Fordham or Colgate in the post season contest.

The council's refusal statement follows:

"The athletic council of the University of Pittsburgh thanks the officers of the New York Christmas Fund for honoring their foot ball team with an invitation to play a post season game in New York City.

"The council has decided that it must decline the invitation. The team has already played a long, hard schedule. The strain and time involved in playing a post season game at any other time than during the Christmas holidays would react unfavorably on the studies of the team members.

"Therefore, the council feels that the only post season game that the team will be permitted to play is one during the Christmas vacation, when it will not interfere with classroom work."

The statement leaves the way open to accept the invitation of the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena.

Jones Lectures Army For Notre Dame Game

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Coach Biff Jones took time out today to demonstrate, via the blackboard, the many mistakes his Army football team committed against Ohio Wesleyan. With Notre Dame to be faced at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on Saturday, Jones impressed upon his charges that the same mistakes will be much more costly than they were against the Ohioans.

After the blackboard talk, the squad was divided for group work. Bill Singer, who played well on Saturday, showed great promise in today's workout. Glattly is another player, who is coming along in great shape. Carver did a good job at quarter back against Ohio Wesleyan and called the numbers today during signal drill.

Mickey MacDonald Plays With Baltimore Pros

Pro basket ball is to be given a comeback trial at Baltimore this winter after several seasons layoff after Monumental City fans failed to support the team holding the American Basket Ball League franchise.

Henry Klein is promoting the new team which will include among its stars Mickey MacDonald, local star, who was under contract to the former pro team owners. Klein is also scouting Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington court circles for a center. Dutch Lentz and Lefty Stern, well known to Washington basket ball fans, have been signed.

The Baltimore team will open its season on December 17 at the Fourth Regiment Armory in Baltimore against a team comprised of District stars.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The University of Michigan Football Team drew an average crowd of 88,000 for all games this fall. Total attendance was 464,000, which was 70,000 short of the Wolverines' record season of 1927, when the team played before 535,000 people. This year there were capacity crowds at the Ohio State, Harvard and Minnesota games.

The 1929 attendance figures were:

Albion-Mount Union (double header)	50,000
Michigan State College	40,000
Purdue	23,000
Ohio State	89,000
Illinois	60,000
Harvard	89,000
Minnesota	58,000
Iowa	55,000
Total	464,000

Charlottesville Midgets May Play In Army-Notre Dame Preliminary

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The Holy Name Midgets, of Columbus, Ohio, have accepted the challenge of the Fives, Charlottesville's midget football team sponsored by the University of Virginia for a game to decide the national 100-pound-class championship.

Negotiations are under way for this contest, to be played next Saturday either in New York before the Army-Notre Dame game or in Philadelphia before the Navy-Dartmouth scrap.

Johnnie Fath, coach of the Holy Name Midgets, wired Bob Osborn, coach of the Fives, that the Columbus eleven won the Midwest title with a 6-to-0 victory over Kent. Coach Osborn has also received a challenge from the Buccaneer Midgets, of Philadelphia.

GILLIS LOST TO HILLTOP ATTACK

Full Back Is Called Home; Unlikely to Face Detroit.

THE unexpected loss of Mancell Gillis, sturdy sophomore, has partly upset Georgetown's plans for the game with Detroit University at the Michigan City Saturday. Gillis, who was suddenly called to his home at New Kensington, Pa., last Friday on account of the serious illness of his brother, was being groomed to start at full back in this final Hilltop contest.

Since leaving, Gillis has sent no word as to when he will return, and Coach Little now probably will restore Leroy Bordeau to the full back post. Gillis, according to Little, should develop into a clever back in another year, and right now is worthy of a trial in the starting line-up.

Maczees to Supplant Leary at Half Back.

Should Gillis return in time to leave with the squad Thursday afternoon, Georgetown will present two changes in the back field on Saturday. Bill Maczees, the speedy junior, who started the season as regular half back, only to give way to Ed Leary in the third game, will get the call once more, while Leary will be held in reserve. The latter was considerably used up physically in the Navy and West Virginia games.

The defeat of Detroit by Oregon State last Saturday has not misled Georgetown on the question of the Titans' strength. Reports of the game brought back by Hilltop scouts were that the Doraismen entered the contest overconfident. Furthermore, said the scouts, the Titans gained far more ground than the victors, but fell victims to listlessness when scoring opportunities presented themselves.

Title Claims Of Irish at Stake

Rockne's Eleven Will Miss Services of Moynihan.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The last hurdle of Notre Dame and its claims to the national championship is the annual game with Army at Yankee Stadium next Saturday.

With 200,000 clamoring for the 70,000 tickets that are available and already disposed of, the contest takes rank as the outstanding of the late season with the championship claims of Rockne's Ramblers hanging on the result.

There are others untied and unbeaten teams, notably Purdue and Pittsburgh, but there will be few who will deny the top ranking to Notre Dame if the Ramblers emerge triumphant from the Army test. Pitt has beaten Waynesboro, Duke, West Virginia, Nebraska, Allegheny, Ohio State, Washington and Jefferson in order, and Purdue has disposed of the Kansas Aggies, Michigan, Depaw, Chicago, Wisconsin, Mississippi, Iowa and Indiana, but neither has encountered the consistently stubborn opposition that Notre Dame has met.

Starting with Indiana, the South Bend cyclone struck also in the squads of Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Drake, Southern California and Northwestern, leaving a trail of destruction in every pause during a schedule unrivaled in point of tough opposition.

The Ramblers will invade New York to meet an Army team somewhat below the standard of West Point elevens of the past two years. The 12-6 defeat of last year will be rankling in the minds of the Cadets when the teams take the field at Yankee Stadium, but Army does not appear to have the power to halt the talented eleven that Rockne has molded again for Notre Dame.

This Notre Dame team will be handicapped by the loss of Moynihan, bulwark in the center of the line, who fractured an ankle bone against Northwestern last Saturday, but with the wealth of players that Assistant Coach Tom Lieb can send into the game in Rockne's absence Moynihan's loss is minimized.

Army Faces Hard Test.

The Army Team that was beaten by Yale and Illinois and tied by Harvard will be sorely tried to stop the plunges of "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, the off-tackle sweeps of Schwartz, the end running of Jack Elder and the brilliant passing of Carside. This is the quartet that is fondly regarded as the rival of the famed "Four Horsemen" of 1923 and 1924.

Army has its Cagle and its Murrell, but Cagle playing behind an Army line that fails to compare with last year's forwards, has not been the menace of 1928. But he has confined his play this season to forward passing in the main and it is in this department that Army's chief hopes will be based.

Notre Dame in Light Drill Under Direction of Lieb

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Notre Dame football regulars and reserves were sent through second Monday practice of the season today in preparation for the Army game at New York Saturday, but it was a light drill. Meanwhile, Acting Coach Tom Lieb taught Army plays to the reserves who will exhibit them to the varsity later in the week.

Head Coach Knute Rockne, suffering from an infected knee, was reported improved today, but it was definitely stated that he will not accompany the Irish Team East. Demands for tickets for the Army game are unusually heavy here. Officials report receipt of scores of telegrams offering "any price" for the pasteboards.

CLEAR SKY SCORES BY HEAD IN FEATURE AT BOWIE

African Last In Bay Ridge Purse

Grandma G. Disqualified for Rough Riding of Dainty.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 25.—The Bay Ridge Purse, a dash of 1 mile and a furlong, which was provided as a feature, brought a small field to the post. There were four starters, Annapolis, Searcher and Lebey being withdrawn. With these three out, it left African in what looked like a soft spot and the son of Alambala was made a favorite. Like most of the races run here this fall there was no pace. All but African were under stout restraint. This did not help African's chances any, as the latter always runs his best races when the pace is fast.

Ormonbird went to the front directly after the start. The first quarter was run in 0:25. Low Gear was second, Clear Sky third, and African last. At the half-mile pole Clear Sky moved into second position and as they swung into the home stretch, Quattlebaum sent the latter up with a rush and, coming through next to the rail, caught and passed Ormonbird. In the last sixteenth Low Gear made his challenge and at the end was gradually wearing Clear Sky down. He could not quite make it, however, and in a driving finish Clear Sky lasted long enough to win by a head. Ormonbird was a tiring third, beaten a length for the place and African wound up in last place two lengths further back. The mile and a furlong was run in 1:56 3-5, the first half in 0:52 2-5, the 6 furlongs in 1:18, and the mile in 1:43 3-5.

Upsets are so common in Maryland this fall that Curtsey's victory over the odds-on favorite, Black Mammy, in the running of the Scandal Purse, came as no surprise.

Upsets Common In Maryland.

Black Mammy, coupled with Sunset Gun at a short price, went to the post at odds-on. Breaking to a good start Sunset Gun led Curtsey by a slight margin in the run down the back stretch. Rounding the turn, Curtsey passed Sunset Gun, and rounding the far turn was a head in front of the latter. As they swung for home, Sunset Gun dropped out of it and P. Walls then made his run with Black Mammy. The latter made a determined challenge and at the furlong pole was only a head back of Curtsey. Both were under a furious drive and both were hanging on with determination. Curtsey just would not quit and despite Walls' efforts, Black Mammy was unable to improve her position. Wild Waters was third, beaten a length for the place.

The maiden 2-year-old opening number brought a large field to the post. The full limit of fourteen sported silks in the opener, which called for a dash of 6 furlongs under claiming conditions. The Godstone Stable's Starference had the call over the others and was a well-played favorite and at the close of the speculation was an odds-on favorite. P. Walls had the mount and before they had gone a furlong he had Starference out in front setting a fast pace. Going to the half-mile pole, Thurber moved up with Argonaut and rounding the far turn joined issue with the pacemaker.

Comes Through on Inside.

Coming through next to the inside rail entering the homestretch, Argonaut caught and passed Starference at the furlong pole, opened up a lead of a couple of lengths for the reminder of the journey. It was little better than a good gallop for Argonaut and at the end he led Starference by two lengths and a half. Winning Heart was third, three lengths further back. Besides being beaten Starference was claimed out of the race by B. Michael for $3,000.

Moscow proved best of the big band of platers that went to the post in the second race. There was a change in riders, Fermin being substituted in place of Ambrose. Moscow was off forwardly when the start came and in the run down the back stretch was in close pursuit of Calgary Kay and Legend. Rounding the far turn, Moscow moved upon on the outside and passing the pacemakers assumed an easy lead. For the remainder of the journey, Moscow raced well in hand and at the finish beat The Tartar out a length. Lady Marie was third and Cadilla fourth. The latter began very slowly, but closed an immense gap after working her way up on the outside of her field, only to tire in the final drive.

Grandma G. is Disqualified.

Another big field faced the starter in the third race. This was a dash of 1 1-16 miles and fourteen cheap platers went to the post. Searington was favorite. With any sort of racing luck Searington would have been returned a winner. Breaking slowly and outrun to the first turn, Searington dropped out of it ar Jockey Richards was sitting still. He trailed along in the middle of the bunch until rounding the far turn, where he elected to take the overland route with the result that Searington lost much ground by going wide the remainder of the trip. In a driving finish Searington was beaten a neck and a head.

Grandma G. led the band as they passed the winning mark, where she beat Grab Bag out a neck. Dainty, who was rating Grandma G. up with the leaders, came through on the inside swinging into the home stretch and was on almost even terms with Grab Bag at the furlong pole. A driving finish then ensued and at the sixteenth pole, Grandma G. bore out a bit. Grab Bag, who was in between Grandma G. and Searington, was buffeted about from one to the other and when Palumbo went into the stewards' stand and claimed a foul, it was allowed and Grandma G. was disqualified. The change in placing made Grab Bag first, Searington second and Milady third.

Jockey F. Dainty was suspended for the remainder of the meeting by the stewards for rough riding on Grandma G.

Nealon Kay Surprises In Sixth.

Eight platers of medium grade furnished the contention for the nine furlongs of the sixth number and at the end of the mile and one furlong, Nealon Kay, a despised factor, carried the silks of Mrs. B. E. Chapman to victory when in a stout drive after racing in near attendance of Bounding Deep, he was able to withstand a belated rush from R. McKeever's The Freshman, and it was just a half length that separated the pair as they finished the route.

Another half length away to save third from R. Curran's Golden Arrow, came Bounding Deep. Bounding Deep and Nealon Kay both showed speed in the early racing and raced closely lapped until reaching the turn out of the back stretch. When approaching the stretch turn, Bounding Deep began to weaken and it was Nealon Kay going into command at final furlong pole. Robertson had him under stiff urging and The Freshman's rush was withstood although the latter was gradually overtaking the Chapman entrant right at the end.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOSCOW, $19.70, $10.20, $7.10; THE TARTAR, $10.90, $6.10; LADY MARIE, $5.00.

MOSCOW, showing improvement over recent race, broke fast, rushed to front and won easily. THE TARTAR was kept well up all the way. LADY MARIE, away well, followed pace, but tired at finish. CADILLA was taken wide entire trip and was poorly ridden. SUNCHEN was kept on inside all the way. SUN WORSHIP was outrun.

MOSCOW BEAT THE TARTAR IN SECOND.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CURTSEY, $31.40, $7.40, $4.30; BLACK MAMMY, $2.40, $2.30; WILD WATERS, $4.00.

CURTSEY broke well in motion, was kept out in firm going, raced SUNSET GUN into defeat and held on gamely. BLACK MAMMY was well up, saved ground on turn and had no mishaps. WILD WATERS was hard ridden all the way. BANNER BRIGHT finished with a rush. RUEFUL was running strong at the end. SUNSET GUN had speed for three furlongs.

CURTESY WINS BY NARROW MARGIN.

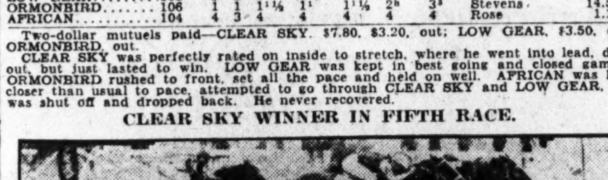

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:08. Off at 3:08½. Winner, J. E. Smallman's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CLEAR SKY, $7.80, $3.20, out; LOW GEAR, $3.50, out; ORMONBIRD, out.

CLEAR SKY was perfectly rated on inside to stretch, where he went into lead, drew out, but just lasted to win. LOW GEAR was kept in best going and closed gamely. ORMONBIRD rushed to front, set all the pace and held on well. AFRICAN was kept closer than usual to pace, attempted to go through CLEAR SKY and LOW GEAR, but was shut off and dropped back. He never recovered.

CLEAR SKY WINNER IN FIFTH RACE.

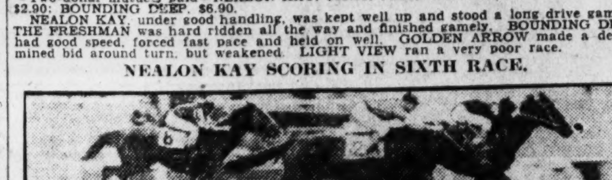

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Winner, Mrs. B. E. Chapman's b. g. (5), by Nealon—Ina Kay. Trained by B. E. Chapman. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:50 2-5, 1:15 4-5, 1:42 2-5, 1:55 4-5.

EAST RIVALS NEAR TOP SHAPE

Thanksgiving Grid Foes End Strenuous Workouts.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—There are very few days of practice left for the teams which will participate in the East's big Thanksgiving Day football battles and they are making the most of what time there is. Only the few who do not play until Saturday could indulge in the luxury of an easy day's drill.

Pennsylvania, in its last hard workout before going to the New Jersey shore to rest before the Cornell clash at Franklin Field, put the finishing touches on its offense. One change in the Penn back field is expected for the game, Greene replacing Opekun at fullback. Cornell also staged its final long home workout, easing up a bit after a hard week-end.

Carnegie Tech, hopeful of its first victory over New York University, put in its longest and hardest day of the year. The Tartans did well against the N. Y. U. plays run by the scrub team. Carnegie leaves home tomorrow. N. Y. U. likewise did some defensive work against a scrub "Carnegie" eleven with considerable success. The Violets added signal practice and kicking to the long dummy scrimmage.

Colgat and Brown, whih lash in another of Thursday's leading battles, brought their squads to full strength as they entered the last stage of preparations.

Columbia, after a week-end rest, had an hour of rough scrimmage against a "Syracuse" team made up of teh strongest scrub line-up available. The scrubs stopped the Lion backs at first, but could not keep on with their good defense.

STAR RIDER

Hugh Miller, Post Staff Photographer.
Herman Schutte, of Covington, Ky., is the latest riding sensation developed under Kay Spence. The youngster, who is under contract to the Audley Farms Stable, has ridden 82 winners in the last seven months and was astride 5 winners on one card in Kentucky.

Clarke, Former Oriole, To Manage Allentown

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—"Bill" Clarke, Princeton baseball coach and former catcher on the famous Baltimore Orioles Team, which included John McGraw and Wilbert Robinson, today was elected manager of the Allentown Eastern League Baseball Team.

Sandy Likely To Furnish Contention

Latavich, Rested, Is Selected to Win at Bowie.

By LEONARD W. COLLINS.

BOY! Page Mr. Rogers, of 1847. We need a fork. And, we don't give a continental dumb whether it is a table, salad, oyster, barley, stable, fish, muck, belt, rail, straining, manure or just the common, ordinary, everyday farm variety of a pitch fork. But, fork we must have.

Somehow, somewhere, there may be seven winners out at Prince Georges Park this afternoon, barring, of course, dead heats, earthquakes, declared-off events, typhoons, senatorial investigations and other acts of God over which man has no control.

But, try and locate 'em before you shove those two pecans through the sewer trap. Evidently, it can't be done. In seven days of racing just twelve public choices have stepped down in front—a winning percentage of .24 and they say the average is .40 even in Death Valley.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $1,300; claiming; for 2-year-olds.
1 Loyola 111 | 8 Tariff 111
2 *Charlie G. 106 | 9 *Fire Girl 106
3 Lord Britain 111 | 10 *Skirt 108
4 Prin. Henry 108 | 11 *Lenox Ave. 110
5 †Jovial Friar 115 | 12 *Colinport 103
6 Cavel 106 | 13 Main Rock 111
7 Ulverston 111 | 14 Frances St. L. 112
Also eligible—
15 Egg Man 114 | 18 Lightfoot Don 118
16 *Eleusagon 106 | 19 *Leller Bunny 107
17 Ultra 108 | 20 *Chatmore 108
†Gilpin-Harrison entry.

ELEUSAGON has the foot of the field in the opening number and if the bay daughter of Paragon II steps to the front during the early running she may win a purse for our fellow-townslady and sportswoman, Mrs. Bean. COLINPORT has raced upon a couple of occasions as though a filly of more than ordinary promise. However, the scramble for the secondary portion of the spoils may be keenly contested by LOYOLA, a colt, which is moving up to brackets.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $1,300; for 3-year-olds and upward; maidens.
1 Dance 109 | 4 Legend 109
2 Spurn 112 | 5 Wee Baloo 109
3 Hot Sand 112 | 6 Rule Brittania 112

Our good friend Tom Lynch says that impossible horses are winning at Bowie. Wonder if T. K. realizes that the impossible exists only that it may be achieved. Drop any one of these six into any other event and we would say that it would be impossible for them to win. But a winner must come out of the running. So here is where the impossible gets a kick in the slats. Our guess is LEGEND, SPURN and DANCE. What's yours? It's just as good, if not better.

1 Breez. Through 115 | 5 Plucky Play 113
2 Brown Admiral 108 | 6 Hacky H. 113
3 We Dun It 106 | 7 Sage Fire 113
4 Titus 108 | 8 Captain Hook 108

BREEZING THRU, at about 1 to 4, will be a mighty long price on the Bradley colt in this field. The North Star III juvenile is just about the slickest youngster now in training, your Ned O.'s and others, to the contrary notwithstanding. If there is to come any contention in the running we look for it from SAGE FIRE, with PLUCKY PLAY holding the rest of the field safe for what is left of the purse.

1 Pegg's Pride 103 | 8 Eskimo 114
2 †Silverdale 106 | 9 Clean Play 110
3 Gun Royal 113 | 10 ‡Sun Broom 106
4 Water Lad 111 | 11 Margaret Cal 102

‡Sagamore Stable entry.

BALKO trimmed SANDY, giving the Smith gelding 4 pounds. Today BALKO is in receipt of 7 pounds from SANDY. That makes a weight shift of 11 pounds in favor of the Sagamore entrant. Yes, we still have in mind that Balko-Donnay, or Donnay-Balko tableau, which ever way you want to put it. Neither are we overlooking the fact that SANDY is a mighty keen hide at the present writing, but has anybody noticed a lessening in BALKO'S speed in his last two races? GUN ROYAL for what is left.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $2,000; the Rainbow handicap; for 3-year-olds.

LATAVICH has been given a month's rest since his last outing at Laurel. However, the Blandford gelding has been going soundly in training and is one of those horses which does not need actual competition to key him for a winning effort. KARL EITEL has a high flight of early speed and figures to be the contender. COIN COLLECTOR, if he goes, should be somewhere close at the finish. ANNAPOLIS is a picture possibility.

1 *Dainty Maid 100 | 8 *Fair Bill 103
2 The Dipper 103 | 9 *Rea 100

Also eligible—
15 Nae Breeks 108 | 18 *Tipperary II 110
16 *Celeritas 103 | 19 *Golden Anger 105
17 *Equation 116 | 20 Tom Kanty 108

EQUATION may win another purse for "Buck" Foreman, provided he gets in. Three declarations will find the Donnaconna gelding going postward. While he is picking up 9 pounds off his last race the added poundage will hardly stop him. HOMELIKE has been moving up to brackets, and a race to best form will find him the contender. BLAZING CINCH'S last two were good enough to give the gelded son of Blazes a look-in.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles; purse, $1,300; claiming; for 3-year-olds and upward.
1 *Friend 107 | 8 *Humdinger 102
2 Immortal 112 | 9 *Fair Catch 104
3 *Lannie 104 | 10 Acme 108
4 Estelle Marie 105 | 11 Lucie Ann 109
5 Rockslide 112 | 12 Green Flag 105
6 Sunspec 105 | 13 Blanco 104
7 Star Gold 112 | 14 *Krick 104
Also eligible—
15 *Raving Lady 104 | 18 Sir Leonid 112
16 *Forehead 104 | 19 Festic 112
17 Smart Sinner 112 | 20 Hedge Fence 112
*Apprentice allowance claimed.

FESTIC is well down on the eligible list, but if the Negofol gelding gets a crack at this field he will have scant excuse for not coming back to the winner's circle. ROCKSLIDE has been racing just so-so since coming to Maryland and is seldom well back in the ruck, in fact, he is just a little bit overdue. FOREHEAD has been given the benefit of a long letup and if ready might make it interesting for all concerned.

PEERLESS FIVE IDLE.

Games with unlimited and 145-pound basketball teams are sought by the Peerless A. C. Quintet. Louis Atchison at Lincoln 4218 is in charge of the Peerless schedule.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER

SAMBO G.

That, all ye faithful is the magic formula for today. The 3-year-old colt from the Bryson meange goes in the sixth spasm down Bowie-way this aft, and I confidently expect him to get down in front at something like 4 to 1. Not as good as some of the ones I have been handing you lately—witness the four juicy morsels of Saturday—but at that 4 to 1 is a good bit better than a push in the face. SAMBO'S last out resulted in his being beaten a neck by Lommern. It took no eagle eye to see, however, that he hung right at the end. "Ought to have grabbed that one by a coupla lengths," that's the pleasing platter of the tick-tock lad, and by the same token SAMBO will have a bit of an advantage in the weights, especially as concerns EQUATION. The latter promises to be the contender, but I can't see him winning unless SAMBO G runs up an alley on the far turn.

genuine, copper-riveted good thing in ELEUSAGON, which has won five races this year. You don't have to tell me that most of them were won at four-bit tracks. I know that. But Eleusagon will have her track, has been asked to lug only 106 pounds and is just a hot patootie.

LEGEND seems the best of an exceedingly ordinary lot in the second, while I am stringing along with PLUCKY PLAY in the third, which is at 7 furlongs, out of a chute.

John the Bath Coughlin has furnished what appears to be the winner of the fifth and feature race in KARL EITEL. It just looks like a spread for the Chicago-owned trick, LATIVICH is passed up. The latter, however, has not been out in some time. Karl's last race was plenty better than the old dope shows and he is not meeting any MISSTEPS or BATEAUS today. Bear down and get that turkey money.

Milan Is Appointed Birmingham Pilot

Clyde ("Zeb") Milan, coach and former manager and outfield star of the Washington Nationals, will take his fourth fling at managing a professional baseball team next spring, when he will assume the pilot's duties for the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association.

Appointment of Milan as manager of Birmingham was announced yesterday by the Barons. He was given the post held for many years by John C. Dobbs, who recently took over management of the Atlanta Club.

Since 1928, Milan has been a coach for Washington. Previously and following his vacating the managership here in 1922, he piloted the New Haven Eastern League Club and the Memphis Southern Association Club. He has been in professional baseball since 1905, when he played with Clarksville of the North Texas League. In 1907 he was bought by Washington from Wichita of the Western Association and held forth brilliantly in the Nats' outfield for fifteen years.

Fire Threatens Stables Owned by Harry Sinclair

Jobstown, N. J., Nov. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Fire early today caused damage estimated at $2,000 to a house on the farm of Harry Sinclair, near here, and menaced the Rancocas Stables, in which most of his race horses are kept.

Employes and neighbors fought the blaze with hand extinguishers until firemen arrived from Columbus and Mount Holly. The fire is believed to have been caused by a defective flue.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETES TURN ATTENTION TO COURT

Guyon Drills Another Army of Players at Eastern.

WITH local scholastic football just about on its last legs, with only a small handful of games remaining on the 1929 schedule, every high school in the city is now turning its thoughts to basketball.

Already two of the schools whose teams suffered most disastrously in the grid race have called out players for the court campaign and already the outlook appears to have fairly good teams for those schools in the making. Business High, cellar champs of the gridiron list, probably has the rosiest prospect, although Eastern's squad, again under the tutelage of "Chief" Guyon, after a year's lay-off, seems ready to lift its head on the floor again.

"Strange as it seems," Coach Lynn S. Woodworth is actually prophecying good things for his Business High School squad and promises Stenog followers one of the best court teams in years at the 9th Street School. The popular all-around coach of the mid-city school has had his squad out for almost a month now, ever since it was certain that his football team would end in a most disastrous position, and the Business coach has not spent his afternoons in vain.

Woodworth Has Veterans.

In Nate Newman, captain and forward and prominently mentioned for all-high honors last year, Bob Lucas, another sensational '28 forward, Fred Finley and Milton Singman, guards, Woodworth has the nucleus of a first-class five and one that should develop with the addition of a few more capable players who seem to be on hand. Spencer Chase appears a logical choice for the tap-off position, and if these five come through as expected, Business would have reason to rejoice.

It ust be remembered that the Business Quintet beat Central twice in the interhigh series last year and once beat Eastern by 20 points, and with the coming team appearing a bit more formidable than that aggregation, great things are looming on the horizon.

Over at Eastern, Guyon is again resuming the reins for the first time since 1927 and he is not at all sure that another of his former championship aggregations is in the making at the Lincoln Park school. The Eastern coach is working at present with a group of youngsters, although a few experienced players are expected out after the close of the football season.

Eastern Has Grid Games.

However, Eastern will not close its gridiron campaign until after its game with Gonzaga on December 3, the date to which the affair was yesterday changed from December 4, and Guyon must wait until then to count upon these men.

Ben McCullough, All-High half back, Charley Miller, stellar quarter back, and Chester Miles, center, comprise three men who will report for the winter sport after the Gonzaga game. However, it is reported that Bernard Lieb, a candidate for this year's five, has been playing the floor game at the Bays' Club for the past seven years, and will make a strong bid for a regular berth this season.

Due to the staging of the fall show, Guyon cancelled practice for the past week, but expects to have his charges out again tomorrow afternoon. The Eastern Team will drill daily from then on, until its first game with Emerson on December 13.

BOAT CLUB FIVE OPENS.

Potomac Boat Club Five will open its season tonight, meeting the Walter's Whirlwind Team at 7 o'clock in the Eastern High School Gym. The Potomac Team will also play the War College Five on Friday night at 8 o'clock on the soldiers' court.

COLOR ADDED TO EMERSON CONTEST

Sanborn Is Planning for Baylor Game Saturday.

IF Washington football fans are not treated to a colorful gridiron setting next Saturday afternoon at the Griffith Stadium when the strong Emerson Institute Team plays host to the Baylor Military Academy Eleven, prep school champions of Tennessee, it will be no fault of Harlan Page Sanborn, coach of the local prep school combination.

Besides offering the crack team of the Southren State as the main attraction, Sanborn has been dickering with Secretary Enyon, of the Washington Baseball Club, to have Nick Altrock, comedian of the Washington Team, on hand during the afternoon's festivities, who is expected to offer the fans a share of his own tricks before the game. Altrock has been invited in the capacity of an honorary official, but it's a sure bet that his unofficial capacity will be more that of a crowd entertainer at the bailiwick. The Boys Independent Band will be on hand.

Magoffin Will Referee.

However, Sanborn has not neglected the serious side of the game on Saturday, and has arranged to have one of the most competent officials in this section of the country on hand as referee of the big intersectional clash. Paul ("Maggie") Magoffin, official arbiter of the interhigh series, has been secured to call 'em on Saturday afternoon, while "Ty" Rauber, crafty mentor of the Central High Team, will act as umpire.

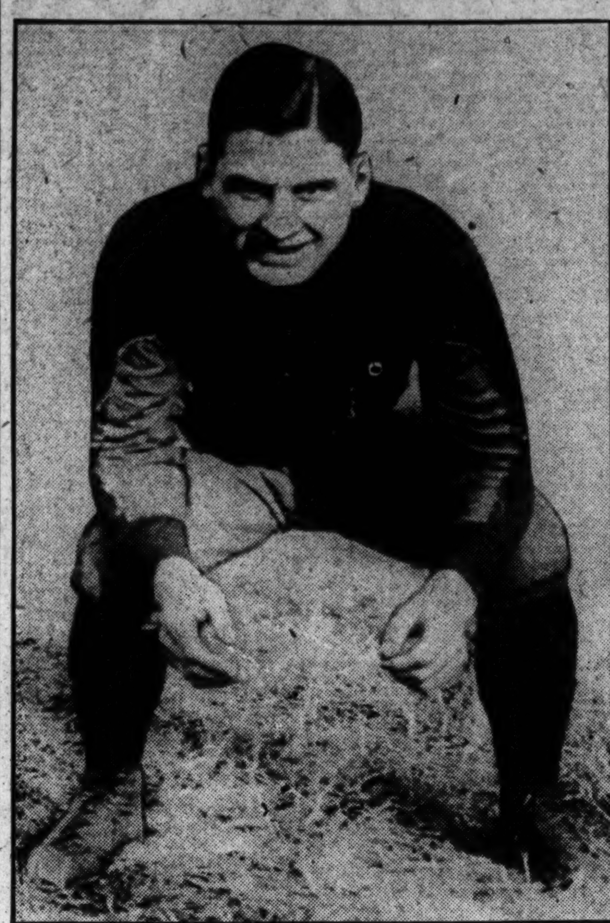

The Baylor Team is scheduled to arrive here Friday morning at 7 o'clock and will take a workout in the stadium that afternoon. Sanborn will send his team through only the lightest of workouts on the same day, as it is slated to play the Wenonah Military Academy on Thursday. However, the local mentor expects to have his entire team in perfect condition for the big game with the Southerners and looks forward to seeing his team give the Tennesseeans a run for their money regardless of the reputation which the Dixie team will bring.

Emerson Has Good Record.

With the exception of three college Freshmen teams, the Emerson Eleven has been undefeated this year, while these losses were no disgrace to the local prepmen.

The crack George Washington Freshmen and their rivals at Catholic University were two of the Emerson Team's conquerors, while the yearling team at William and Mary also took the measure of the Sanborn charges. With these three exceptions the big Maroon Team has swept all before it, including the Eastern and Business High Schools of this city, among their victims. La Salle Prep and Culpeper High were the last two victims of Emerson, both bowing to the score of 20-0. The Emerson aggregation has totaled 156 points against its opposition this year, while only 56 markers have been scored against it. Outside of the G. W. Team no eleven has scored more than two touchdowns against Emerson.

Hawks and Apaches Start Work for Sunday's Contest

JOHN ("SNAIL") DE LABRE.

AN air of confidence that has prevailed in Mohawk ranks since early September has been dampened a bit within the last 24 hours. Coach Craig Wilton and his score of stalwarts came out of a gruelling battle with the St. Mary's Celtics on Sunday with the sudden realization that the unlimited football championship is resting less secure on the Mohawk standard than it was generally thought by Hawk players and followers.

The Celtics played havoc with the Hawks, but now that the bitter battle is over and the Hawks are holding a 7-to-6 verdict over the Alexandrians as one of the choice prizes of recent campaigns, Coach Wilton is inclined to believe that the tussle with the Celtics is just the remedy needed for a bad case of overconfidence that has plagued his team as the result of a string of easy victories over all comers.

The moral victory gained by the Celtics could not have come at a more opportune time, Wilton says. It is much better that the Hawks should gain the knowledge that they are not unbeatable before they face the Apaches and run the chance of being overtaken by a surprise attack. His squad is more likely to take this week's heavy training more seriously than it might have had the Celtics not made the great bid for victory that they made Sunday in Griffith Stadium.

Rivals Start Work For Game.

Both the Mohawk and Apache squads started a week of tedious practice last night. Bill Lytell, of the Apaches, and Wilton will drive their charges through stiff workouts every night this week, with the exception of Saturday, when a rest truce will be declared to give the rival warriors an opportunity to ease up a bit before the battle on Sunday.

A slashing 32-to-0 victory over the Seat Pleasant Firemen on Sunday while the Mohawks were staggering under the weight of too strong a fot, has served to make the Apaches bolder than at any time since the start of the campaign. Their followers are rallying as the annual sandlot clash nears and predictions of victory are rapidly replacing expressions of doubt.

Although they have failed to compile a record as impressive as they have in recent years, the Apaches are none the less satisfied that they are stronger in every department than at any time in their gridiron history.

Lytell Pleased With His Eleven.

Sunday's exhibition against the Seat Pleasant Firemen left Coach Lytell well satisfied with his line. The big forward wall, which comes nearer to matching in weight its Mohawk foes than any previous Apache line, has performed well both on the offense and defense. With Clifford, Mosko, Carroll, Tobin, Farran, Farrell, Lytell and other capable linemen available, the Apache mentor has no serious worries in this department.

The rival teams will devote their practice sessions this week to polishing up their respective defenses and to developing new plays. Much secrecy presides over these drills just prior to the title battles between the arch enemies.

ARMSTRONG WINNER IN 6-0 GAME

THE Orange and Black Eleven, of the Armstrong High School, yesterday captured the colored high school championship by defeating Dunbar at the Griffith Stadium before a crowd of 2,500, 6 to 0. The touchdown by Shorter came in the last few minutes of play after Minns fumbled on Dunbar's 3-yard line on an attempted kick, and the ball came into Armstrong's possession as Jackson tackled him for the fourth down. The kick for the extra point failed.

Excepting a 25-yard run by Davis, Dunbar quarter back, and a pass, Armstrong to Wallace, the first quarter was dull. The second, however, was enlivened by a 60-yard run by Armstrong, the Orange and Black quarter back, to Dunbar's 20-yard line, which availed little as the ball was fumbled immediately afterward and went into Dunbar's possession. Dunbar later held Armstrong on the 8-yard line for downs. The half ended with the ball in Armstrong's possession when a blocked kick by Minns was recovered by Shorter on Dunbar's 10-yard line.

Gregg Misses Pass With Clear Field Ahead.

Opportunities to score in the final quarter were lost when Gregg missed a 40-yard pass by Armstrong with a clear field ahead of him, and when Wallace picked off one of Armstrong's 20-yard throws, but couldn't get away. Minns had the better of the punting game throughout, and had he not fumbled at the game's close, it was apparent that the Dunbar aggregation had the ability to hold the line indefinitely.

NAVY FACES SCRIMMAGE PRACTICE

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 25.—Navy today entered the final week of football campaigning that will be climaxed by meeting the formidable aggregation of Dartmouth on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Saturday. Virtually every member of the squad in good shape. Instead of a scrimmage session today, as originally planned, the players were taken through an extensive drill in signals and formations. A hard scrimmage is scheduled for tomorrow and Wednesday, and tapering off will come Thursday and Friday.

The coaches are confronted by a problem in final backfield selections, owing to the large number of players of almost equal grade, but it was announced tonight that efforts will be concentrated on the group composed of Johnny Gannon, quarterback; Lou Kirn and Harold (Joe) Bauer, half back; and Joe Clifton full back. But when the roll is called, there is Art Springs, who has borne the brunt of the ball-carrying through the season; Jack Castree, Binns, Rusty Williams, Mal Peterson, Mauro, Tschirgi, Toth and Antrim.

Kirn Now Viewed as Ace of Back Field.

Kirn is now viewed as the star of the group because of his off-tackle thrusts and end sweeps in both of which Joe Bauer furnishes splendid assistance in blocking. Gannon, ace of the ball carriers last year, is slow in coming to form, but it is believed he will be at the peak for the go against the Green. Bauer and Clifton are the heaviest men behind the line. Each tips the scales at 180 They are bulwarks in backing up the line. Clifton is a hard line plunger, while Bauer is a good drop kicker, punter and passer. Gannon. too, is good at drop kicking.

Maine Harriers Tie In Intercollegiate Race

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Harry Richardson and Francis Lindsay, teammates and seniors at the University of Maine, ran home ahead of a big field today to finish in a voluntary dead heat for the Eastern intercollegiate cross-country championship and set a new record for the Van Cortlandt Park course.

The University of Pennsylvania, placing five men in the first 27, captured team honors after a lapse of a dozen years with a point score of 62. Michigan State, the first intersectional entry in the long history of the classic 6-mile event, was second with 81, and Bates College third with 98. Syracuse was fourth, Maine fifth, and Penn State, the defending champion, sixth, in a record turnout of nineteen full teams.

Never before in the 21-year history of the event did the 6-mile varsity chase result in a tie. The winner's time of 30 minutes 6 seconds was 5 seconds faster than Jimmy Reid, of Harvard, made last season, the year the new course first was run. Bill Cox, of Penn State, covered 6 miles at Van Cortlandt in 1926 in 30:02, but not over the same route.

	Time
1. Francis C. Lindsay (Maine)	30:06
2. Harry L. Richardson (Maine)	30:06
3. Lauren Brown (Michigan State)	30:25
4. C. S. Chamberlain (Mich. State)	30:33
5. Joseph W. Hagen (Columbia)	30:35
6. William McKniff (Pennsylvania)	30:45
7. Carl A. Coan (Pennsylvania)	30:46

Mountaineers Prep For W. & J. Contest

Special to The Washington Post.

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 25.—Energetic preparation as the Mountaineers of West Virginia University are wont to go about their tasks was resumed here today as the annual homecoming celebration for alumni approached. While the Mountaineer gridders were going about their drills for the twenty-eighth meeting with Washington and Jefferson here Thanksgiving Day, the University harriers were going through their paces in order to be fit for the tri-state championship cross-country run with Duquesne University in an event which will be an added attraction to the Mountaineer-President grid encounter.

Head Coach Ira Rodgers, with his squad intact, save for Clint Carrico, veteran center, and little Bill Lively, substitute back, both of whom are definitely out of the game, had the Mountaineers going at a fast pace last week. Today he again launched into a lengthy drill on signals and wound up the session with a rehearsal of defensive formations that will be used in combating the Presidential campaigns for touchdowns.

N. Y. U. GAME AHEAD FOR CARNEGIE

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—Only two more practice sessions will be held at the Carnegie Tech bowl before the team departs for New York Tuesday night. The Tartans are scheduled to meet the strong New York University eleven on Thanksgiving Day at the Yankee Stadium.

Coach Bob Waddell this week put his charges through some of the hardest workouts of the season in preparation for the encounter with the Meehanites. He departd from his usual custom at this stage of the season by holding a couple of stiff scrimmages in an effort to correct the flaws which appeared in the Pitt tussle last week and to brush up the offense for the powerful New Yorkers. Loose tackling and poor interference were the chief defects which had to be remedied.

Tartans Hope to Reverse Form.

A grim and determined band of gridders will board the train for the nation's metropolis Tuesday night, bent upon atoning for the crushing defeat suffered a week ago. The Tartan warriors realize that they were not playing up to their best form, and the breaks were against them last week, but they intend to show a complete reversal this week and make their own breaks against the Gothamites.

The game on Thanksgiving Day will be the fourth in a row between N. Y. U. and Carnegie Tech. The former has won all three contests played, the first by a 6—0 score in 1926, the second 20 to 6, and last year they surprised the football world by upsetting the Tartans in their final game 27—13, after the latter had waded through every one of their opponents and seemed headed toward the Eastern and National championships.

Hyattsville Girls Bow In State Title Contest

Frederick, Md., Nov. 25.—Central High School, of Lonaconing, easily defeated Hyattsville in the second round of the State elimination high school field ball tournament at Cadet Field this afternoon, 14 to 4. The Lonaconing lassies started to score early in the first quarter and were not threatened in any period of the fray. With most of the playing in Hyattsville territory, the first quarter ended with Lonaconing 4 points to the good. Hyattsville rallied in the next race and during some fast playing both sides scored 2 points. Lonaconing again took the offensive in the third period and scored 4 points. Hyattsville braced in the final quarter and chalked up 2 points while Lonaconing put over 4. The Central girls easily outplayed their opponents and from the start the result was never in doubt. Line-up:

Football Has Tamed Since Flying Wedge Days of 1898

N. C., Using Professor in Back Field, Won First Virginia Game and Nobody Howled; Same Prof. to See 1929 Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

Now take in the old days—back in 1898, say. You played professors as ringers, and they weren't even ringers. You played the president even, if he could drive hard enough.

Vernon Howell, professor of pharmacy, had been a mighty good football player at Wake Forest for four years, so the team decided to elect Mr Howell to membership.

The thing was being done in those days, and Virginia didn't think a thing of it when Prof. Howell donned the togs for the 1897 game that has since become one of the South's oldest annual Thanksgiving classics.

Cavaliers Beat Prof And All.

The Cavaliers, in fact, accepted the odds and proceeded to mete out another 12-to-0 licking to the Tarheels, professor, and all.

But it was a different story the next year. Prof. Howell played the game with a broken nose and a finger (they were common then), and the Virginia players, tiring of seeing him in football togs for so many years, were going at him for all they were worth.

Prof. Howell was tearing along himself, and when the game was over, and the Richmond internes had carried away the last casualty, Prof. Howell's 50-yard run through the whole Virginia team had won Carolina a 6-2 victory and broken the long losing streak.

Prof. Howell had written his name in 42-point, streamer type across the role of the university's hero athletes —alongside Bill Folger's 52-yard run that beat Virginia in 1916, and Monk McDonald's 95-yard run from kick-off against State in 1922.

Virginia Didn't Howl.

Virginia didn't even raise a howl. Football was really the iron man's game then. You played whom you wanted. You weren't bothered with conferences and rules, &c. You didn't quit when you got a broken finger or nose, but sought to pay your foe in specie.

That team of 1898, incidentally, was the one undefeated Tarheel team of history. And what's more, Prof. Howell got credit for beating Virginia for the first time in a regularly scheduled game—Carolina had beaten the Cavaliers once before, in Atlanta, in 1892, but that was a post-season game for the Southern title.

The popularity has endured to the present day. Prof. Howell, now "Dean" Howell, of the School of Pharmacy, will be one of the most interested spectators when Carolina and Virginia hold their thirty-fourth annual clash here next week.

CIRCLE FIVE WINS.

The National Circle Basket Ball Team last night defeated the Takomas at Bolling Field, 22 to 17. Moore and Merrick were the oustanding performers.

ON SOUTHERN GRIDIRONS

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Practice began in Southern Conference football camps today for the Thanksgiving Day games, which will wind up the season for 15 of the 23 conference elevens.

One other team will round out its schedule next Saturday while seven others will not ring down the curtain until December 7.

Coach Bernie Bierman has his Tulane Greenies in fine condition for their finale with Louisiana State Thursday. Tulane, one of the two teams with an excellent chance at the title, can finish its season undefeated with a victory over Louisiana State.

Vols Must Trim Wildcat Claws.

Like Tulane, the Vols have a clean slate so far, but to continue in the running they must come through against the Wildcats, who are still rated dangerous despite their reverse at the hands of Alabama.

Following last week's decision over South Carolina, Coach Charles Bachman did not extend his Florida Alligators today, but served notice that real work would begin tomorrow on preparations for Washington and Lee.

North Carolina's powerful Tarheels are in good trim for Virginia, which is expected to make its best showing of the season at Chapel Hill and Virginia Poly and Virginia Military were hard at work at Blacksburg and Lexington for their annual tussle at Roanoke.

One of the hardest-fought games on the holiday card is looked for at Birmingham, where Alabama's Crimson Tide plays the University of Georgia Bulldogs. Georgia Tech, after four straight reverses at the hands of Tulane, Notre Dame, Vanderbilt and Alabama, hopes for a win against the luckless Auburn Plainsmen at Atlanta. Vanderbilt and Sewanee meet at Nashville in the oldest sectional rivalry on the Southern records and the University of Mississippi and Mississippi A. and M. will fight it out for the State championship at Oxford.

Chattanooga Faces Oglethorpe.

Meanwhile Chattanooga's Moccasins buckled down to hard work to stop the Oglethorpe threat in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Chattanooga's hopes hinge on this game. Out in front with five straight victories, the Moccasins may lose their chance for the bunting if Oglethorpe, now going at top speed, beats them Thursday.

there was quite a ceremony at his coronation, he kneeling on the office floor while the hat was solemnly placed on his head, while I, serving as gentleman, bearer of the rod, handed him his walking stick, which goes with the plug hat like the scepter with the crown.

So the plug hat connotes mystery and majesty to me and inasmuch as opera is a plug hat ceremony, it seems blasphemous to compare a prize-fight arena to a civic opera house. Everybody I have ever known in the prize-fight industry, including the millionaires who own stock in the new Garden, has always been intensely interested in the box office statistics. If a millionaire wants to be really civic in a big way, he should prove the sincerity of his intentions by investing his excess profits in the opera. There he has nothing to worry about. He knows from the outset that he is never going to get it back.

BOND PRICES STILL IN ACTIVE ADVANCE

FOREIGN SHARES HIGHER

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The noteworthy rise in bond prices which followed the release of vast amounts of speculative credit through the recent crash in stock values continued today in an active market. Advances were mostly in fractions and the list had its weaker spots, but the undertone was distinctly strong.

Two months ago the quotation tables were showing numerous new lows each day in bonds of prime investment caliber. The situation has now been completely reversed and scores of domestic bonds are at or near their 1929 peaks as a result of the demand fostered by declining money rates, the returning popularity of bonds with the investing public and the scarcity of the better-grade issues. Last week saw the first turns into new high ground by corporation bonds, and today more than a dozen low coupon rails, the bulwarks of the market, joined that group.

With call money at 4½ per cent and time loans nominally quoted at 5 per cent, the monetary markets hold small inducements to corporations with funds to lend, and the inquiry from these sources for good bonds is growing. The consensus among observers is that money rates will go still lower, and hence dealers in fixed-income securities are making purchases in expectation of a livelier demand after the turn of the year.

U. S. Securities Irregular.

United States Government securities displayed some irregularity today, although the Liberty fourth 4¼s managed to squeeze into new high ground. The terms of the December 15 Treasury financing are being awaited with interest, but it is generally expected that in view of the improved conditions the forthcoming issue will bear less than 4 per cent interest.

High-grade rails, industrials and utilities were in about equal favor, Atchison general 4s, especially active in the first-named group, touched a new high at 95. Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Denver & Rio Grande 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio, Richmond & Alleghany Division, 4s, New York Central 4s, Pennsylvania gold 5s, Reading general 4½s and Wabash 5½s were among the leading carriers to make new highs. There was also marked activity in Union Pacific first 4s, which all but touched a new 1929 peak, and in the Rock Island listings.

Steel Loans Feature.

Steel company loans featured the trading in the industrial section, while telephone issues led in the utility group.

Foreign bonds moved higher on moderate turnover. French Republic 7½s went to a new top at 118, and the 7s also rose a shade above their previous peak. It was reported that the proposed Brazilian coffee loan would be floated in France, marking the first participation of that country in foreign financing in some time.

Convertibles had an irregular day in sympathy with stocks. American Telephone 4½s, showing a flash of their midsummer popularity, made a net gain of half a point.

Curb Review

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Five-hour sessions were resumed on the New York Curb Market today, but the volume of trading fell below that of the abbreviated three-hour sessions last week, with prices drifting irregularly lower.

Professional operators, who bought stocks in the early stages of last week's advance, showed a tendency to take their profits before the beginning of the four-day holiday Thursday while investors were inclined to hold off pending more definite indications of the trend of holiday trade and the effect of the recent securities decline on general business.

Cities Service, one of the most active issues on the board, moved within a range of half a point, closing ¼ lower, at 30¼. Electric Bond & Share opened fractionally lower, at 79⅜, advanced to 80½, broke to 74½ in the midday selling movement, and then snapped back to 78⅞. American Gas & Electric fell 3⅜ points and Allied Power & Light, Brazilian Traction, International Superpower and Middle West Utilities (new) and United Gas lost a point or two. Among the less active issues, American Light & Traction jumped 5 points and Duke Power 9, while Commonwealth Edison dropped 15.

Declines of 1 to 3 points were quite common in the trading and investment trust group with selling influenced by the belief that many of these corporations will close the year with deficits as a result of the large declines in the values of their security holdings. Heaviness also was apparent in the aviation group as a result of the disappointing character of the current year's operations. Consolidated Aircraft dropped to a new low. Aviation Corporation of America fell 3¼ points and National Aviation 2¼.

Oils moved within a rather narrow range, with scale buying apparent in some of the seasoned dividend-paying issues. Mining shares were heavy on reports of a shading of copper prices, Newmont dropping 8½ points and Noranda, 1¼.

Cement shares were strong on reports of an advance in prices in Eastern territory, Atlas rising nearly 9 points and North American Cement 2. Rubbers were heavy in expectation of reduced automobile sales. Rainbow luminous products advanced 3 points on the announcement of inclusion of that company in the Federal Neon System. Earl Radio, which sold as high as 12½ this year, fell more than a dollar a share to a new low level at 62½ cents in response to the financial difficulties of that company.

REPORT SHOWS BIG DECREASE IN LOANS

STOCK PRICES ADVANCE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Recessions for the week ending November 20 of $204,000,000 in loans and investments, $346,000,000 in net demand deposits, $33,000,000 in time deposits, $19,000,000 in Government deposits and $91,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks were announced yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in leading cities.

Loans on securities also declined $378,000,000 at all reporting banks, while all other loans increased $125,000,000. Holdings of United States Government securities increased $36,000,000, and holdings of other securities gained $13,000,000 at all reporting banks.

The statement of operation of the Washington Gas Light Co., filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission, showed a net income for October of $56,194.76 and one of $708,755.62 for the year to date. Net income for the month was $30,044 in excess of that for October, 1928, and that for the ten months a $152,021.88 improvement over the corresponding period last year.

Gas Company Business Better.

Financial gains were also recorded for the Georgetown Gas Light Co., net corporate income of which for last month was $12,087.97, a gain of $1,610.38 over the same month last year. Its income for the year thus far is $119,282.50, or $26,845.02 more than the comparative period a year ago.

Prince & Whitely Trading Corp., have just issued a statement to their stockholders as of November 16, covering the first two months of operation and showing that the corporation has in cash in bank, time and demand loans in excess of $17,850,000 and owns investments in excess of $7,400,000.

The corporation had no borrowings and its statement showed that the net assets are better than $76 per share of preferred stock outstanding; this after declaring the quarterly dividend of 75 cents per share on the preferred.

Chestnut Farms Dairy, Inc., 6½ per cent bonds have been called as of December 2 at 107½ and accrued interest ceasing after the first day of December and bonds being redeemable at the National Bank of Washington December 2.

These bonds are listed on the Washington Stock Exchange, and their high for the current year was 107, their low 106 and the last sale was made at 106½.

Telephone Company's Report.

Net income of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., in October decreased $7,291 from the same month in 1928, the report of operations just filed with the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia shows. Telephone operating revenues for the month of October were $714,693, with operating expenses of $516,057. Taxes and uncollectible amounted to $49,457, making net operating income $149,179.

For the first 10 months of the year the company's operating revenues amounted to $6,897,221. Operating expenses during this period were $5,076,277, making net operating revenues $1,820,944. Taxes and uncollectible for the 10 months' period were $495,735, making net operating income $1,325,209.

$3,539,000 in New Equipment.

Net additions to outside plant and central office equipment added to the telephone company's system in the District of Columbia for the 10 months ending October 31, amounted to $3,145,189. Gross additions for this period were $4,354,337, with retirements of $1,209,148. Net additions for the twelve months ending with October amounted to $3,539,000.

The company has shown a substantial increase in telephones during the first 10 months of the year, 7,856 having been added to the system, making 158,016 in service at the end of the month. Telephone calls, both local and toll, also show an appreciable increase over the same month last year, there having been 17,215,906 local and 531,800 toll calls during the month. This was an increase of 8.5 per cent in local and 11.7 per cent in toll calls.

Every trade but two of the 24 made at yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange was at advances in price over last sale levels, a single share of Potomac Electric 6 per cent preferred and a $500 transaction in Washington Gas A bonds being the only ones showing recessions. While the bond sales total, $10,800, was an $8,700 improvement over Friday's, closing session for the previous week, the stock turnover receded 819 shares from that day's business, involving 1,138 shares.

163,373 Surplus Freight Cars.

Class I railroads November 8, had 163,323 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. This was an increase of 39,129 cars compared with October 31, at which time there were 124,194.

Surplus coal cars on November 8 totaled 35,745, an increase of 18,679 cars within approximately a week, while surplus box cars totaled 97,494, an increase of 16,538 for the same period. Reports also showed 18,831 surplus stock cars, an increase of 1,145 over the number reported on October 31, while surplus refrigerator cars totaled 4,364, an increase of 1,790 for the same period.

Railroad Shares Corporation reports that the net asset value based on the close of the market Thursday, November 21, equals $9.60 per share of common stock.

Seaboard Utilities Shares Corporation announces that it has been able to take over $25,000 profit in its trading account since November 14, 1929.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries, address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Barnett, Ward Baking.

M. B.—Kindly give me some information concerning Barnett Leather and Ward Baking Co. I wish to know if the companies are financially sound and doing a good business and whether the stocks are a good buy for holding.

Answer—Steady downward trend of earnings of the Barnett Leather Co., combined with lack of any prospect for marked improvement in near future, render both common and preferred stocks as unattractive speculations, even at existing low levels. Since there is no definite evidence that the Ward Baking Corporation's earnings status will permit restoration of dividend payments on the "A" stock, that issue does not appear at all attractive. The same is also true of the "B" stock. Earnings of the company have recently improved somewhat, following a disappointing first quarter, and amounted to $4.63 on the class "A" and 48 cents on the class "B" shares.

About Two Companies.

P. W. H.—Would appreciate your advice on United Light & Power and U. S. Pipe & Foundry. What future do these stocks seem to have, both for present investment and for long-term holding?

Answer—Earnings of United Light & Power have shown steady expansion since the acquisition of American Light & Traction in 1928, and returns for the twelve months ended June 30, 1929, amounted to $1.75 a share on the combined "A" and "B" common stocks. In the calendar year 1928 net income amounted to $1.36 per share and in 1927 to only 76 cents a share. Dividend of both classes of common has recently been increased 12 cents a share annually to 60 cents. As a speculation the shares appear to have considerable attraction for the long pull. U. S. Pipe & Foundry, while at present paying dividends of $2 annually, is not to be regarded in the nature of an investment. It is highly speculative, and because of the fact that the company's earnings fluctuate from year to year, some doubts are entertained in conservative circles that current dividend payments can be continued indefinitely unless a revision of earnings trend is experienced. However, dividends at the present rate are assured up until January, 1930, as such dividends have already been declared, payable 50 cents quarterly.

American Bank Note.

J. G.—Would you consider American Bank Note common stock and Worthington Pump 7 per cent preferred as investments? I understand the latter is paying 1¾ per cent on account of back dividends besides the regular 7 per cent. What does American Bank Note pay?

Answer—Generally speaking, common stock issues are not regarded in the light of conservative investments, although on account of the fact that the American Bank Note Co. is the outstanding organization in its field, that issue has more than ordinary attraction. The stock is currently on a $2 annual dividend basis, with $1 extra. Earnings have shown steady and moderate upward trend for a number of years, and for the twelve months ended December 31, 1928, net equaled $4.97 per share on the common, as compared with $4.26 in 1927 and $3.99 in 1926. A similar rate of increase was registered in the first half of the current year, when $2.21 per share was earned on the junior issue, as compared with $1.77 in the corresponding period last year. Based on present trend, full year earnings should be in excess of $6 per share. It is true that the Worthington Pump Co. is paying back dividends on the preferred in addition to its regular cash dividends and there is a possibility that all arrears on the preferred issues will be paid soon after the first of the new year. Reorganization and economy program is now resulting in large scale increases in earnings. Due to the foregoing facts, the 7 per cent preferred stock is well thought of as an investment.

Standard Oil of N. J.

R. J. M.—Will you please tell me the par value of the stock of the Standard Oil Co. of N. J.; also of General Motors? Will appreciate your advice on these as investments at present prices.

Answer—Par value of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey is $25; of General Motors common, $10; preferred, $100. Both Standard Oil of New Jersey and General Motors are well regarded in conservative investment circles, especially at existing price levels. Both are on a more or less substantial dividend paying basis, the permanency of which seems at least reasonably assured for an indefinite time.

Webster Eisenlohr Corporation.

T. C. J. B.—Can you give me some information regarding the financial condition of Webster Eisenlohr Corporation, and if the stock is a good purchase at present selling price? Is this common stock and what is its par value?

Answer—Earnings of Webster Eisenlohr, Inc., have steadily declined during recent years and for year ended December 31, 1928, amounted to 37 cents per share, as compared with 84 cents in 1927 and $1.19 in 1926. In current year, however, a reversal of trend has been registered and eight months net amounted to 67 cents on the common as compared with a deficit of 2 cents in the corresponding period last year. Dividends on preferred have been paid regularly to date, though none have been paid on the common. Believed that recent very serious decline in latter issue has overdiscounted company's reversal in fortunes during recent years. Par value of the common is $25 per share.

About Several Stocks.

A. M. V.—Would appreciate your opinion on the following common stocks at present prices, Continental Can, Bethlehem Steel, Kroger Grocery, Procter & Gamble and Montgomery Ward? What is your opinion of their future?

Answer—Viewed strictly from an investment standpoint, Procter & Gamble is about the only issue named that could be recommended without hesitancy. The rest, being common stocks, can not be regarded in the nature of investments, although all undoubtedly possess more or less attractiveness for the long pull. Procter & Gamble occupies a most unusual position as a common stock.

Sinclair Consolidated.

J. A.—Kindly give me your opinion of Sinclair Consolidated Oil 7% bonds of 1937. Is it a suitable bond for investment? Also please let me know your opinion of Reynolds Tobacco "B" common stock for long-term holding?

Answer—The bond carries a good rating and is so considered. In view of its present low selling price and the dividend now being paid on it, Reynolds Tobacco "B" has considerable attraction for the long pull.

Concerning Six Stocks.

C. L. L.—Will you please advise whether or not you consider the common stocks of the following named corporations attractive for long-term holding: Alleghany Corporation, Nash Motors, Radio Corporation, United States Pipe & Foundry, General Foods, Standard Brands?

Answer—While not to be regarded as strictly in the nature of investments, the stocks named, as common issues go, are all well thought of for the long pull. Especially is this true if one is prepared to buy and pay outright for them, a policy which is always recommended in the purchase of any and all securities.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Wheat, corn and oats all suffered price downturns today, wheat dropping most notwithstanding the biggest domestic visible supply decrease in many months. Low temperatures in Argentina, assumed to be putting at least a temporary stop to black rust advance, were largely responsible for the action of the Chicago wheat market. Besides, a sharp break in Liverpool wheat quotations, together with weakness of stock exchange values at New York and elsewhere, had a bearish effect.

Chicago closing prices for wheat were nervous, ⅞ to 1⅝c a bushel below Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅞ to 1¼c down, oats ½@⅝ to ¾c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

Although the falling-off in the United States visible supply figure posted today amounted to 4,302,000 bushels for the week, and showed a reduction of nearly 13,000,000 bushels from the extreme high point reached some weeks ago, the market made only a brief, half-hearted rally. Reports of frost in southern Argentine provinces that have a wheat acreage of 10,400,000 acres, were also practically ignored. It was generally conceded that some harm had been done by the frost, but the prevailing opinion was that this had been much more than offset by the checking of black rust.

Wheat traders here gave evidence of special concern over the fact that the Liverpool wheat market today suddenly tumbled at the last, whereas earlier the Liverpool quotations were advancing. According to some advices that reached Chicago, the late collapse at Liverpool appeared to be due to selling orders from this side of the Atlantic. In this connection, it was pointed out that the United States wheat visible supply was still about 52,000,000 bushels more than last year.

Selling of wheat future deliveries in Chicago today was largely by houses that were active buyers Saturday. The fact was noticed that Easterners appeared to take the selling side on all rallies, despite indications that elevators were loading out more than 1,000,000 bushels of wheat here for shipment East.

Increasing arrivals of corn here, together with favorable weather to promote the movement of the new crop, had much to do with easing the corn market down. Oats were governed by sympathy both with weakness of corn and of wheat.

Provisions declined on account of large receipts of hogs.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—An opening advance on relatively steady Liverpool cables was followed by reactions in the cotton market today, with near months easy under liquidation promoted by the issuance of December notices. January contracts, after selling up to 17.65 at the start, declined to 17.47, and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady, net 6 points lower to 2 points higher.

The opening was steady at a net advance of 11 to 13 points in response to the relatively steady showing of Liverpool, an idea that the December notices, which were estimated at about 85,000 bales, would be promptly stopped by the trade, and continued talk of a possible scaling down of crops ideas because of recent unfavorable weather in the South. December sold up to 17.50 and May to 1818 on this initial advance, but while there was a good demand for December contracts, the liquidation in that delivery continued, and the initial advance of later months seemed to meet some realizing and Southern selling.

Prices eased off in consequence, with December declining to 17.31 and May to 18.03 during the early afternoon, or about 2 to 5 points net lower. Later fluctuations were more or less irregular, but the rallies met a little more selling, and offerings increased in the last few minutes, with January closing at the lowest price of the day while other deliveries were within a point or two of the lowest.

Differences between near and late months widened out somewhat during the circulation of the notices, but the closing quotations for December were only 14 points under January, compared with a closing difference of 17 points on Saturday.

Much of the day's business seemed to be connected with the further evening up of December contracts and there was a good deal of switching from December to later months. Aside from this no particular trading was in evidence, according to local brokers.

Liverpool cables said that trade calling and continental buying had absorbed some hedge selling in that market. Manchester advices reported a broadening demand for cotton cloth and said a fair business was pending for India.

Exports today 20,369, making 3,060,551 so far this season. Port receipts, 77,142. United States port stocks, 2,570,698.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, Nov. 25—(A.P.).—The 1930 budget of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad will be close to $70,000,000, an increase of $3,000,000 over 1929, President Fred Sargent of Chicago, said today.

It was reported in Wall street today that negotiations are in progress for a merger of the Richfield Oil Co. of California and the Rio Grande Oil Co.

The 1930 improvement budget of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad will total about $50,000,000 and includes the purchase of 41 locomotives, 5,000 freight cars and 24 passenger cars.

The American Commonwealths Power Corporation has completed an agreement for merger with the West Shore Gas Co.

Arrangements have been made for the shipment of $2,816,000 in gold from Buenos Aires to London.

The Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Co., subsidiary of the United States Aircraft & Transportation Corporation, was reported today to have acquired control of the Bavarian Motor Works, of Munich, Germany.

Sales of R. H. Macy & Co., have been better each month this year than in the corresponding months of last year, and there are now more than 2,000 more employes on the pay roll than at this time last year, it was announced today.

Directors of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Corporation have increased the annual dividend rate on the common stock from $2 to $2.50, through the declaration today on a quarterly payment of 62½ cents, payable January 7, to stock of record December 16.

Two Diesel-electric tankers, to be built by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, at Quincy, Mass., have been ordered by the Lake Tankers Corporation, a subsidiary of the Shell Oil Co., of St. Louis. The tankers, for use on the Great Lakes, will have a capacity of 6,000 barrels of oil each. Electrical equipment for the boats will be furnished by the General Electric Co.

The time for deposit of securities under the plan and agreement of reorganization of the Middle States Oil Corporation has been extended to December 6.

Directors of the International Match Co. today increased the annual dividend rates on the participating preference and common stocks from $3.20 to $4, by the declaration of quarterly payments of $1 each, payable January 15, to stock of record December 26.

An extra dividend of 80 cents was declared on the common stock of the American Maize Products Co., of Roby, Ind., in addition to the regular quarterly payments of 50 cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred. All are payable December 31 to stock of record December 12.

Net earnings of the Canada Dry Ginger Ale Co. for the quarter ending September 30 amounted to $1,135,727, equal to $2.22 a share, compared with $954,976, or $1.87 a share in the corresponding period of 1928.

The Sun Investing Co., for the first six months of operation ended October 31, reports net income of $424,744, equal to $3.69 a share on the 115,000 shares of common stock outstanding.

For the nine months ended September 30, I. Miller & Son, Inc., manufacturers of women's shoes, reports net profits of $796,661, equal to $3.85 a share on 175,500 shares of common stock, compared with $571,236 earned during the first nine months of 1928.

Samuel Zemurray, president of the Cuyamel Fruit Co., announced today that the company had negotiated to sell its property and assets to the United Fruit Co. If the sale is approved by the Cuyamel stockholders, the latter will receive United Fruit stock on a share for share basis.

The sale also involves the Cortez Development Co., a Cuyamel subsidiary operating a sugar business in Honduras, where the plantations of the Cuyamel Co. are located.

New securities offered for public subscription tomorrow include an issue of $3,900,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent sinking funds bonds, series "A," of the Park-Plaza, an apartment hotel now under construction in St. Louis.

Directors of the Phillips Petroleum Company increased the regular divident rate on the common stock to a $2 annual basis, exclusive of extra dividends, by declaring a cash payment of 50 cents a share, compared with the 37½ cents a share paid heretofore. In addition, a stock dividend of 5 per cent in common stock was declared. Both dividends are payable to stock of record December 16. The cash dividend on January 2, and the stock dividend as soon as practicable after January 2.

Metallic Non-entity

Working long hours in a scientifically equipped laboratory, a Chicago scientist brought forth a silver-grayish metal—a new metallic element, which has been named Columbium. But, even today, no commercial use has been found for it.

But chemists are still making elaborate, complicated tests of Columbium—and eventually it may be more valuable than gold. Wise men of science today leave no element inconsidered, no matter how trifling it appears; just as wise men of business leave no trifle neglected—often they got their start to wealth by carefully saving the small, usually inconsidered part of their salary and investing it in some reliable security.

Just so, a small sum placed in the 6% First Mortgage Notes, sold through Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company, will yield an attractive interest, and give you a steadily growing income for independence and leisure in future years. Do not neglect to start saving now, no matter how small the sum may be.

AUTOMOBILES WANTED

HIGHEST PRICES paid in the city for used cars; see us before selling. Southern Motor Sales, 346 Pennsylvania ave nw.

CASH for your car. Without a doubt I pay the highest prices in this city. If your car is not paid for, I will pay your unpaid balance and give you the difference in cash. No delay. See Mr. Barnes, 1729 14th st. Dec. 2390.

WE invite your attention to a feature The Washington Post has inaugurated. It is the publishing of a daily schedule of auction sales in the District of Columbia and nearby suburban sections. The purpose is to increase attendance at these sales and bring to the attention of investors the properties offered.

Information deemed essential to prospective bidders not found in the legal advertising, is given. A detailed description of the property, zoning regulations, assessed valuation of ground and improvements, and in the case of office buildings and apartments, number of offices and apartments and annual rental for same, is published daily.

The Post believes that now is an opportune time to invest in Washington real estate. An acceleration of Government building and a more favorable trend in the market for real estate securities should combine to enhance existing values.

Any suggestions or assistance that you may see fit to offer in furtherance of our efforts will be gratefully received.

Butcher Boy Saved In Mellus Killing

"Pat" Kelley Given Prison Term in California Murder Case.

Los Angeles, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Leo "Pat" Kelley, butcher boy, once sentenced to death for the murder a year ago of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, Los Angeles society woman, was resentenced in superior court to 1 to 10 years in San Quentin Prison on a manslaughter charge growing out of the case.

Kelley was in death row at San Quentin when the State supreme reversed the lower court and remanded the case to Los Angeles for resentencing on a manslaughter charge, which, the higher tribunal held was the severest sentence justifiable under the evidence.

Attorneys and relatives of the young man declare he is innocent and that "other persons" slew the 40-year-old married woman. She was found dead, lying unclad across a bed in her palatial home when her husband, prominent real estate man, returned from a yachting trip. Kelley was found hiding in a closet.

Mrs. Mellus and Kelley, who is 30, fell in love after a flirtation which started in the butcher shop where he worked, the evidence showed. He admitted being "on a party" and being intoxicated with Mrs. Mellus the day of her death, but stoutly denied killing her.

Family of Four Killed In Wilmington by Gas

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Gas, escaping from a water heater, asphyxiated a family of four persons sometime between Friday and today. William Ryan, his wife and their two children, a boy of 12 and a girl 2½ years old, were the victims. Their bodies were found today in their apartment in Walnut street. Ryan was crippled in both legs.

An unopened letter, addressed to William Ryan, Weston, W. Va., was found on the kitchen table. The West Virginia address had been crossed out and the Wilmington address inserted. The letter was from John Thiesa, a Covington, Ky., attorney. Its contents were not made public.

Lynchburg Wedding Announced.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 25 (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jones, of this city, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Viola Jones, to Edward F. Cheatham, of this city, which was celebrated Saturday by the Rev. A. L. Franklin, pastor of Memorial Methodist Church. They will live at 1407 Garfield avenue after a Northern bridal trip.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

BALLSTON WILL GET BETTER POSTOFFICE

New Building Cost $6,000; Gov. Byrd Will Discuss Bridge Approaches.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL WORK

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Ground will be broken today for the erection of the new postoffice for Ballston, by Z. B. Groves, contractor of East Falls Church, according to an announcement made last night by Mrs. Grace White,, the postmistress.

Mrs. White stated the building will be of one story and brick construction and fully equipped with new modern postoffice fixtures.

Weather permitting, she stated, the building will be completed within the next 30 days at an estimated cost of $6,000.

The present frame structure will be razed, making room for the erection of one more modern storeroom. In addition, according to Mrs. White, owner of the property, the plans now provide for the setting back of the drug store located on the corner and facing it on Ballston avenue instead of its present location.

Gov. Harry F. Byrd will be the honored guest at a special meeting of Columbia Lodge, No. 285, A. F. and A. M., to be held tonight in the Masonic Temple, at Clarendon, at which time the Master Mason's degree will be conferred.

This will be the first time in the history of Columbia Lodge that a governor of the State has attended any of its meetings and it is hoped that he will be greeted by a large and representative crowd.

Representative John Rankin, of Mississippi, is also announced as one of the speakers.

Assurance was received from the office of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier that the county is ready to cooperate with the property owners along the Wilson boulevard in the laying of concrete sidewalks. It was stated that where the property owner is willing to share the cost the county will proceed with the work. A large majority of property owners on the north side of the boulevard extending from a point opposite the county courthouse to the Fort Myer Heights School, are ready to cooperate with the county in having the sidewalk laid.

Declaring it nothing short of an outrage that any citizen or an organization should make any move that would tend to interfere with the tentative allocation by the Virginia State Highway Department for the Lee boulevard, Richard L. Eacho, president of the Arlington County Unit of the Lee Boulevard Association, announced last night that he will within the next few days call a special meeting of his unit to formulate plans to assure the State Highway Department its united support and cooperation in efforts to get started on the construction of the Lee boulevard across Arlington County.

"As far as Clarendon and Ballston are concerned, I doubt if it is possible to obtain a right of way sufficient to take care of the increased traffic which is bound to come across the new Memorial Bridge," Eacho declared.

"Too much time and effort have been given to the work of acquiring the rights of way for the 200-foot Lee boulevard to now allow anything to come in the way," he said.

Arlington and Fairfax Counties are cooperating to establish a system of week-day schools of religious education, which will be sponsored by a joint board of administration, called the Arlington-Fairfax County Board of Religious Education. The president of the board is Walter K. Handy, and Monroe H. Stockett is the treasurer. Other members from Arlington County are Charles F. Kincheloe, Thomas E. Gilbert, the Rev. Elmer Lucas and the Rev. E. G. Latch; from Fairfax, the members are M. E. Church, E. T. Fenwick, the Rev. George L. Connor, the Rev. Ralph Mott and the Rev. A. B. Altfather.

The plan is to have five centers in Arlington County: Ballston, Clarendon, Arlington, Fort Myer Heights, Cherrydale; and four centers in Fairfax: McLean, Falls Church, Annandale, Oakton, with the other to be selected. The grades to receive this instruction for the first year will be the fifth and sixth grades. The pupils will be excused for one hour a week by the county school board upon a written request from the parents. The instruction, it is said, will be nondenominational. In the sections above mentioned the classes will start December 10 and continue until the close of the school year.

The director of religious education, Miss Isabel Latimer, who will conduct the work, is a university graduate with special training and experience in religious education.

The inauguration of these week-day schools of religious training is meeting with fine cooperation on the part of the county school board, ministers, parents and all others interested in the welfare of boys and girls stated the Rev. Elmer Lucan, of Cherrydale, last night.

The Lyon Village Citizens' Association will hold its monthly meeting tonight in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce in the Rees building at Clarendon and not tomorrow night as previously announced.

The Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church, is announced as the principal speaker. His subject will be, "Unearned Increment."

The Arlington County Post, No. 139, American Legion, will hold its monthly meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms in the Rees building at Clarendon, tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Organized Women Voters of Arlington County at its recent meeting having been unable to complete its business, announcement was made last night that the adjourned meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon, December 4, in the auditorium of the Cherrydale School at 1 o'clock.

The business to be discussed at this meeting will be the reading of the two papers, one for incorporation and the other against it.

Another matter to come up will be whether or not the resolution adopted calling upon Hugh Reid, member of the House of Delegates, to introduce an "incorporation enabling act," will be consummated in the near future.

Many of the members, it has been learned, take the view that inasmuch as efforts have been made in former sessions of the Legislature without success, that Reid should be called upon to take more concrete action than the resolution which has been adopted calls for.

E. P. Miles, charged with violating the gaming laws, was fined $100 and sentenced to two months in the county jail by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday. Noting an appeal, he was later released on $500 bond.

Charged with illegal possession of liquor, Frank Robinson was held for the action of the grand jury by Judge Thomas yesterday. Bond was fixed at $1,000.

Recognizing the need for an outlet from the new Memorial Bridge to Clarendon and Ballston and the State having failed to include any funds for its construction when it allowed $100,000 for grading and building of culverts for the Lee boulevard, the Straight-to-the-Bridge Boulevard Association, meeting last night, adopted a resolution calling upon Gov. Byrd and Col. H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State highway department, to allocate sufficient funds for the grading of the road as far as Clarendon.

A special committee comprising Ashton C. Jones, chairman; M. E. Church, Guy N. Church, H. C. Saffell and Arthur J. Porter was appointed to present the resolution to Gov. Byrd and Col. Shirley.

Gov. Byrd and Col. Shirley are meeting today at the Army Navy and Marine Corps Country Club in the county with Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, members of the County Board of Supervisors, Allen J. Saville, zoning engineer; C. L. Kinnier, county engineer; special committee from the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, and Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth to discuss adequate approaches to the new Memorial Bridge.

The committee from the Straight-to-the-Bridge Boulevard Association will arrange to meet the governor and Col. Shirley during this conference.

"The State two years ago provided for the building of 8 miles of road in Arlington County, 5.7 of which was set aside for the Lee boulevard and the remaining 2.3 for the straight-to-the-bridge road, and I can not conceive that it will be unreasonable to ask that the State provide funds for the improvement of three-quarters of a mile, which will bring it to Clarendon," said Arthur Orr, president of the association.

M. E. Church and Ashton C. Jones, members of the association, stated that while the Lee boulevard means much to Arlington County, they could see no reasons why the State should not consider the direct road, which provides the only outlet to the thickly settled sections of the county.

H. E. Honaback, jr., charged with operating an automobile without the proper license, was fined $14.25 by Judge Thomas.

Zoning of the Lyon Park area, as proposed by the Arlington County Zoning Commission, will be the chief matter of busines sto come before the meeting of the Lyon Park Citizens Association to be held in the community house tonight at 8 o'clock. A representative of the zoning commission will be present with maps to explain the plans of the commission with refernce to Lyon Park or in any other portion of the county in which those attending the meeting may be interested.

President Arthur Orr announced that all residents of the Lyon Park precinct interested in gaining first-hand information as to the plans of this area are invited to attend the meeting.

The Arlington County Zoning Commission is holding sectional hearings in the Virginia Highlands election precinct at the request of the representatives from the Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills Civic Associatitns to discuss further the many objections raised at a previous meeting. Last night, with more than 200 citizens present in the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall, the hearings were resumed.

Zoning Engineer Allen J. Saville and Commissioner J. E. Spaulding went into detail in explaining the tentative zoning ordinance as it affected that area.

It was shown by members of the commission that many of the objects raised referred especially to many of the industrial plants proposed, such a ssoap and chemical factories, have been barred from the county by the ordinance. With this explanation by the commission it appeared that the meeting was in accord with the plans and the commission was given a rising vote of thanks for the interest which has been shown in this section.

Embolism Proves Fatal To Martinsburg Man

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 25.—George William Becker, 63, native and lifelong resident here, where for 30 years he conducted a grocery store, died suddenly at a local hospital of embolism. He was active in fraternal work, belonging to the Masons, Elks, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Red Men, Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Arbelia Burns, of Maryland; one sister, Mrs. William Walters, this city; one brother, C. A. Becker, Newport News, Va. Burial will be here Wednesday.

STREET FETE PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Hyattesville Group Arranging Rhode Island Avenue Extension Party.

BUILDING PERMITS DROP

A meeting of the general committee which is arranging for the celebration of the opening of the Rhode Island avenue extension to Hyattsville will be held Friday night at the municipal building in Hyattsville.

According to reports which have come in so far, it is believed that the communities affected will more than complete the quota of $1,500 which will be needed to defray the expenses of the celebration. Any surplus funds will be devoted to decorating the overhead bridge at Hyattsville which will serve as a reviewing stand for the parade.

Thousands of Maryland and District of Columbia residents are expected to attend the exercises and Mayor H. T. Willis of Hyattsville is making arrangements for the use of side streets along the avenue as parking places. The old Tinker property in the rear of the Hyattsville National Guard Armory will be used as a parking place for the many who are expected to attend the exercises in the armory building. According to William T. Jennings, of Hyattsville, chairman of the general parade committee, there will be more than 100 floats in the parade.

Councilman Floyd B. Mathias, of Mount Rainier, yesterday asked that all persons who wish to enter commercial or organization floats in the Mount Rainier unit notify him before Friday. Places in line will be issued at the meeting of the general committee Friday.

The Forestville camp of the Woodmen of the World will hold a get-together meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at their hall in Forestville. Washington camps have been invited to attend.

Albert White, colored, of Woodmore, Md., was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff L. E. Dutrow in connection with the fatal shooting of his father, Anthony White, colored, 55 years old, Saturday night. The elderly White died early yesterday morning at Casualty Hospital. The young man told Sheriff Charles S. Early that his gun went off and that the shooting was accidental. He is in the county jail at Upper Marlboro. According to Sheriff Early it is probable that a charge of murder will be placed against him today.

A slight slump in building permits for the county was shown last week, according to James C. Blackwell, clerk to the county commissioners. Eleven permits totaling construction valued at $6,075 were issued last week.

Nail in His Throat Sticks Two Years

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 25.—For two years Percy Hayden, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hayden, of Colonial Heights, just across the Appomattox River from Petersburg, has carried a 1¼-inch nail in his bronchial tube near one of his lungs and been none the wiser.

Recently he began coughing. Physicians were unable to give him any relief. Finally they X-rayed the lad to ascertain the cause of the cough and the nail was discovered.

Subsequently Percy was taken to a Philadelphia hospital, where an operation was performed and the nail removed

With the nail in his bronchial tube Percy has attended school, romped and played games with his friends.

MONTGOMERY MAILS BILLS FOR AUTO TAX

Charter Will Be Presented to Rockville Rotary Club at Meeting Tonight.

12-YEAR TERM IMPOSED

Bills for state and county taxes, totaling approximately $12,000 on motor vehicles, will be sent out today by J. Forest Walker, county treasurer of Montgomery County, he announced yesterday. The bills represent an assessment basis of approximately $3,000,000.

The bills have been ready for some time but the treasurer's office postponed their mailing until they would arrive at the home of the taxpayer at about the time he received the license application blanks mailed by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles at Baltimore. The license tag applications must be perforated by the county treasurer to show that taxes on the automobile have been paid before tags will be issued and it was decided that the taxpayer could pay the bill and have the application blank perforated in one trip to Rockville.

The bills are payable at the office of the treasurer in Rockville or at any of the county banks, where the application blanks also will be perforated.

The charter for the newly-formed Rockville Rotary Club will be presented at a meeting tonight at the Manor Club, Norbeck, according to William R. Pumphrey, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Harrison E. Howe, chairman of the vocational committee of the Washington Rotary Club, will be the principal speaker.

The charter will be presented by Ignatius Bjorlee, of Frederick, governor of the 34th Rotary District. A number of Rotarians from Washington and other sections of Maryland are expected to attend.

Richard A. Brown, colored, yesterday was sentenced in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville to serve twelve years in the Maryland Penitentiary following his conviction of attempted criminal assault on a white woman.

Brown is alleged to have crept into the home of his former employer near Rockville and to have attempted criminal assault on the farmer's wife, who was asleep in bed. Her screams aroused another resident at the house and the assailant was frightened off.

John T. Hopkins, formerly of Baltimore, who had been employed as a salesman by a Silver Spring radio store, was sentenced to serve two years in the Maryland House of Correction. He was convicted on charges of false pretenses and embezzlement. Charles C. Higgins, convicted on a charge of larceny, received a suspended sentence.

Trial of Ernest Kisner, 21 years old, of Glen Echo, charged with criminal assault on a girl 14 years old, began yesterday afternoon but was not completed. The case will be continued today. Judge Robert B. Peter ordered that testimony in the case be heard in the jury room.

Suit for absolute divorce was filed yesterday in circuit court at Rockville by two wives.

Mrs. Sylvia Robinson Shuttleworth, now living in Baltimore, through Attorney Edward Peter, of Rockville, asked that she be granted an absolute divorce from Earl C. Shuttleworth, of Bethesda, formerly manager of the Bethesda Motor Co., and also asks that an injunction be issued restraining the husband from molesting her or interfering with her custody of the two children.

Mrs. Shuttleworth alleges that her husband treated her with extreme cruelty on several occasions, inflicting physical pain, and that since their marriage he has become addicted to drink. She also alleges that she had to leave their home in Bethesda and move with relatives in Baltimore because she was afraid of him. The couple was married July 17, 1924, at Richwood, W. Va., and have two children. A temporary injunction was issued by Judge Peter.

Mrs. Thelma I. Raum, alleging desertion, asks absolute divorce from Archibald G. Raum, of Washington. The couple was married at Clinton, Md., April 13, 1925 and have no children. The wife is represented by Attorney Reno S. Harp, of Frederick, Md.

The first meeting of the Takoma Park Lions Club since its organization last week will be held today at The Oaks, Georgia avenue and the District line, where the club will hold a luncheon meeting each Tuesday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock to discuss civic improvement programs.

CHAMBER APPROVES MARYLAND CITY IDEA

ADVANTAGES ARE CITED

Unanimous adoption of resolutions giving the name of Maryland City area to a region around Hyattsville encompassing 27 other communities with a population of approximately 20,000 in its 10½-square-mile section, featured a meeting of the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce last night at the Municipal Building in that town

The plan was first proposed in September, 1927, in the chamber of commerce, an intercommunity organization whose members are residents of the area designated. The vote was taken by approximately 60 persons, who were characterized as representative members from each community.

The Maryland City Area was described as ncluding Hyattsville, Mount Rainier, Brentwood, North Brentwood, Colmar Manor, Cottage City, Bladensburg, Decatur Heights, Cheverley, Tuxedo, Riverdale, East Riverdale, Rogers Heights, University Park, College Heights, College Park, Lakeland, Berwyn, Berwyn Heights, Branchville and Hollywood, among several others.

In taking the action, the Chamber of Commerce stressed the fact that the name was desired principally for publicity purposes and for convenience, especially in view of the present need arising from the opening of the Rhode Island avenue extension on December 2 and the further opening up of the region.

The explanation also was made that the action in no way abolishes the name or the confines of any of the communities, nor will it result in any change in the name of the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce.

Few Cows Victims Of Tuberculosis

Only 20 in Virginia Are Found to React to Official Tests.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Although tests were made in 13,371 head of cattle in 2,509 different lots in Virginia in the month of October, only 20 cows, or slightly more than one-tenth of 1 per cent, reacted to bovine tuberculosis.

The report of the Federal and State inspectors for October, made public here today, shows that 41,040 herds with 162,364 head of cattle have been once tested free of the disease and that the State has 949 herds with 29,389 head of cattle, fully accredited. Herds are placed on the fully accredited list after passing the bovine tuberculosis test on two occasions.

Under supervision of Federal and State officers were 42,256 herds with 203,567 head of cattle in October, while there were no herds on the waiting list. The report was made by H. C. Givens of the State Department of Agriculture in collaboration with R. E. Brookbank, Federal inspector.

Editor Named to Post Of Antiblue Law Unit

John M. Whitmore, of Reisterstown, Md., editor of the Maryland Free Press, has been appointed secretary of the Maryland Association Opposed to Blue Laws, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Joseph A. Themper, of Washington, chairman of the board of directors of the National Association Opposed to Blue Laws.

In accepting the position, Whitmore announced that he will make efforts to unite all forces in Maryland opposed to Sunday closing under one banner with the object of repealing Maryland's ancient blue law. Whitmore is the son of the Rev. C. W. Whitmore, former rector of Episcopal churches in Reisterstown and Valley Lee. The elder Whitmore is at present in the insurance business in Reisterstown.

Blaze Damages Flour Mill at Waynesboro

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., Nov. 25.—Damage estimated at from $10,000 to $20,000 was done today when flames swept the Gardner Flour Mill here, one of the largest industries of its kind in this section of Virginia.

While confined for most part to the top floor of the three-story building, a considerable amount of water damage was done to several hundred bags of flour stored on the first floor. A large amount of machinery was damaged. Friction from the machinery is thought responsible for the blaze.

Lynchburg Vital Statistics.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 25.—Thirteen deaths and nine births were reported during the past week to the Bureau of Health here. There were ten white and three Negro births and two white and seven Negro deaths.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA, listing her favorite noises, filled out a ballot

"What's that for?" I asked, interested.

"The time has come," she said, "to make this a peaceful city—to put some meaning in the old slogan, 'All is quiet along the Potomac.'"

"And how are you going to do that?"

"By getting rid of the noises," said Luella.

It strikes me this is easier said than done. And I told her so.

Naturally, she was huffed.

"You can do anything in the world you make up your mind to do," she declared

* * * *

JUST as she said that the radio went wild, emitting a raucous noise that sounded like bedlam in a boiler factory.

"Here's your challenge," I said. "Get rid of this static."

"So static is to go!"

"Yep," she nodded, "static and this terrible buzzing you hear over the telephone, and——"

"And who's going to accomplish this great boon to suffering humanity?" I asked, wondering what her plans were, if any.

"We are going to appoint a committee," said Luella.

"A committee! Won't that be nice? And how is this committee going to get rid of static, if I may ask the question?"

"CERTAINLY," she bade, "go ahead and ask all the questions you like. It's the only way you'll ever learn anything. The committee will be made up of prominent people from all parts of the city, and all walks of life. It will be strictly representative, so naturally we'll have a statistician on it——"

"And the statistician, of course, will get rid of static. It that it?"

"No," said Luella, "he will just compile statistics showing how much static is used in Washington, and why. After that——"

"After that, you ought to have a law enacted."

"That's one way of getting rid of these noises," she admitted. "We'll have a fine, and perhaps a jail sentence or two, to keep the city quiet."

"A jail sentence and a fine. That ought t oget action. But tell me, when are you going to start this crusade?"

* * * *

"OH, it isn't going to be a crusade," said Luella, "just a campaign. If we had a crusade, we'd have to have a band, like the crusaders of old, and all hands singing 'Onward Christian Soldier.' That would be making too much noise over the abolition of noise——"

Luella and her committee are going at this thing backwards. The way to fight fire is with fire—and noise with noise. One way to drown out noise is to make more noise—like a quartet, all singing against each other, as in "Sweet Adeline."

DEFENDANT DENIES GOADING STRIKERS

Hogan Describes Actions on Afternoon of Riot at Clinchfield.

TRIED TO AID GIRL, CLAIM

Marion N. C., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Lawrence Hogan, one of four defendants on trial for rioting and resisting an officer, took the stand late today and denied inciting strikers to do violence during strikes in textile plants here last summer.

Three defense witnesses preceded Hogan to the stand and testified as to his good character. Those on trial with Hogan are Alfred Hoffman (an organizer for the United Textile Workers of America) Wes Fowler and Del Lewis.

A defense motion for nonsuit of the case was overruled by Judge G. V. Cowper, presiding.

A union meeting which the State charges was held to prevent workers from coming into the Clinchfield mill village was to appoint committees to look after relief sickness and wood-chopping, Hogan testified. Hoffman did not say anything about any one going on a long ride and not coming back, Hogan said.

Describes Afternoon.

"I handled relief during the strike" Hogan said. "I was in East Marion practically all the afternoon of August 30 when the troops were called to the Clinchfield village. I stayed at union headquarters practically all the afternoon. I left union headquarters about 5:40 that afternoon. Hoffman had been there with me. We went to my house in Hoffman's car to get supper. When we got there Hoffman told me to go and quiet the crowd."

The men in the crowd minded him, Hogan said, but the women did not. He was attempting to get a girl whose leg was bleeding "from her knee to her ankle," who had been kicked by officers, to show her to Judge N. A. Townsend, representing Gov. O. Max Gardner, when the troops stopped him and he lost his head, Hogan said.

After apologizing to officers in charge of the militia for "losing my head," Hogan said, he returned home and found Hoffman where he had left him.

Denies Knowledge of Blast.

On cross-examination Hogan said he knew nothing about dynamiting in the Clinchfield and Marion mill villages. At one union meeting, Hogan said, Hoffman told them "for God's sake, quit carrying sticks and start carrying Bibles and hymn books.

Charges on which the men are being tried concern an alleged disturbance in the Clinchfield village the afternoon of August 30 when, the State charges, strikers moved from a company house the furniture of a worker and prevented officers from returning it.

Textile labor disturbances in the Clinchfield and Marion manufacturing mill villages here followed strikes called by the United Textile Workers of America, a branch of the American Federation of Labor.

10 Cotton Mills Join Organization

New Members of Textile Institute Announced in New York.

New York, Nov. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ten cotton mills, including seven in North and South Carolina not heretofore associated with the Cotton-Textile Institute, have just become members of that organization, it was announced today by George A. Sloan, president of the institute.

The ten mills, representing a total of 312,080 spindles, are: Cross Cotton Mills Co., Marion; Entwistle Manufacturing Co., Steeles Mills, and Hannah Picket Mills, No. 1, all Rockingham; Royall Cotton Mills, Wake Forest; Wilson Cotton Mills Co., Wilson, N. C.; Santee Mills, Orangeburg, S. C., and one each in Georgia, Texas and Massachusetts.

In addition to these new members, it was announced, fifteen mills, with 568,146 spindles, have renewed their membership since the annual meeting of members on October 16, making a total of 17,097,191 spindles in the institute's membership.

Lynchburg Pair Are Wed.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 25.—Miss Thelma Omer Hawkins and Korvell Smith Driskill, both of Lynchburg, were married Saturday evening at the home of the bride, 228 Kenyon avenue, the Rev. Joel E. Vause, pastor of Euclid Avenue Christian Church, officiating.

PARENTS, TEACHERS TO HOLD CONGRESS

NOTED SPEAKERS SLATED

Richmond, Va., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Assembling hundreds of delegates representing all sections of the Old Dominion, the Virginia Congress of Parents and Teachers will be called to order here Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock by Mrs. Harry Semones, on Roanoke, acting president.

While not a division of the Virginia Education Association, the parent-teacher group is meeting at the same time this year in order that interested members may attend both sessions.

The convention proper will be preceded by a board meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. The sessions will open the next morning at 9:30 at Broad Street Methodist Church, to continue morning, afternoon and evening for three days.

Noted Speakers Slated.

Several distinguished speakers will address the parent-teacher convention this year, among them Miss Sarah Graham-Mulhall, author, lecturer and sociologist, who has made a study of narcotics and is regarded as an authority on the subject of drugs. She was formerly with the drug traffic squad of New York City and waged a vigorous campaign against the narcotic traffic. Miss Mulhall will address the convention at the evening session Wednesday.

Miss Frances Hays, extension secretary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; Dr. Gary Cleveland Myers, of Western Reserve University, and Daniel A. Reed, representative, lecturer and attorney, are among the other distinguished speakers.

Reports of officers and board members will constitute the first business of the convention Wednesday. At the completion of this routine business Representative Reed will deliver an address on "The Place of the Parent-Teacher Movement in Education." Dr. Myers and Miss Hays will speak at the Wednesday afternoon session.

Thanksgiving Service.

On Thursday evening the convention will join with the Broad Street Methodist Church in Thanksgiving services with a Thanksgiving address to be delivered by Dr. Myers. There will be a Thanksgiving dinner for the delegates immediately before the evening session when Miss Hays will again address the body on organization work.

Dr. H. J. Eckenrode will address the convention Friday morning on "The Relation of the Child to History." During the afternoon session Mrs. W. F. Genheimer will discuss the "Parent-Teacher's Place in the Life of a City" and H. L. Gilbert will talk on "The Parent-Teacher in Relation to Rural Life."

Business will be transacted at the final session on Friday afternoon including the election of officers. A post convention board meeting will be held at 7:30 Friday evening.

Virginia Tax Case Meets Reversal

Supreme Court Says State Can Not Assess Land in Baltimore.

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday reversed the decision of the lower courts holding that Virginia had authority to tax personal property held in trust in Baltimore, Md., by the State Deposit & Trust Co., of that city, for the benefit of Lucius J. and Emerson P. Kellam, of Accomac County, Va., and sent the case back with instructions.

Counsel for the Kellams contended the controversy was controlled by a previous decision of the Supreme Court, and that the property involved in the trust had not actually passed into the possession of the Kellams and might never be enjoyed by them.

Virginia argued that while the property was being held in trust, the Kellams had obtained sufficient title to it to warrant the State in taxing it. It contended the previous decision cited did not deprive the State of power to tax personal property belonging to its citizens but held outside, and that the only question was whether the Kellams had such an interest in the property as to amount in substance to possession.

Virginians Are Married.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 25 (Special). Miss Ruth Martin and Tudor A. Crowder, both of this city, were married Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Joel E. Vause, pastor of Euclid Avenue Christian Church.

LIQUOR DEALER GETS FIVE YEARS IN JAIL

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr scored a victory yesterday after a long drawn out trial, when a jury of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, in session at Fairfax, returned a verdict of guilty and a penitentiary sentence of five years, against Joe Mills, sr., for the sale n dapossession of liquor and the operation of a still. This is the third time Mills has been convicted for the violation of the State prohibition laws.

Mills was arrested November 1 when officers led by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams, swooped down upon his home and seized a large quantity of liquor and a short distance in the rear of his house found one of the largest stills ever discovered in this section of the State. Some time earlier in the day one of the officers had made a purchase of a gallon of liquor from Mills. When brought before the court today Mills refused to enter a plea and stood mute. Judge Howard W. Smthi, presiding, ordered a technical plea of not guilty entered.

The witnesses for the commonwealth were heard, and then Mills took the stand in his own defense. On the stand he admitted that he had been convicted twice previous to this, one time serving a year in the penitentiary. He also admitted that he had sold liquor that was made at this still; but denied that he had any connection with the still outside of purchasing liquor made there. Following Mills testimony Commonwealth Attorney Farr made a plea for a conviction, citing the defendants former record."

The jury deliberated for almost an hour before they returned the verdict of guilty.

The other case tried in court yesterday was that of Pete Doyle, charged with shooting his cousin, John Doyle, in the knee during a fight following a dance at Franconia. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Funeral services were held today at Clifton for Mrs. Edmovia Payne, 80 years old, who was found dead in bed at her home Sunday morning by a neighbor, Esther Davies. Doctors pronounced the death from natural causes. Mrs. Payne had been a lifelong resident of Clifton and for many years had been living alone. The interment was in the Clifton Cemetery.

County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr has been sending a letter to members of the County Herd Improvement Association in which he states "that the county-wide tuberculosis eradication work among cattle is now in progress. It is essential that the milk shippers in this county who are compelled to test their cattle on certain dates in order to comply with the Washington health department regulations be protected. The county agent has had a consultation with Dr. J. B. Hallman, of Fairfax, who is connected with the Department of Agriculture as a veterinary inspector, in charge of this work and he was informed that all dairy men north of the Little River pike should write to Dr. B. L. Poole at Herndon, the county tuberculosis inspector, several weeks before their tests are due, giving the exact date so that the inspector can regulate his work to meet their requirements. All dairymen living south of the Little River pike should communicate with Dr. Hallman at Fairfax in the same manner." County Agent Derr states that this will aid the dairy inspectors in completing their work more quickly with less injustice to any one.

The county health authorities have been busy combating an outbreak of diphtheria. It has been necessary to close a colored school near Floris because of the large number of cases there.

Mrs. Herbert Seamons, county health nurse, will make a health talk today during the assembly period at the Lee-ackson School, and Dr. R. W. Moss, State health department dentist, will conduct a dental clinic there.

Special ararngements have been made with Dr. William Birch, of the Alexandria Hospital, by the county health department for the removal of tonsils and adenoids. All persons who wish to take advantage of this opportunity will be allowed a special price, provided they make arrangements with the local health unit. Mrs. Seamons states that arangements have been made to perform three tonsil operations on school children in the Alexandria Hospital, three in the Georgetown Hospital Wednesday, and five more in the Alexandria Hospital Friday. These cases were found by the health unit while they were conducting clinics at the various schools.

The pupils of the Snowden School will be granted a holiday tomorrow as a reward for the excellent cooperation while Dr. Moss was conducting dental clinic there. The children attended school Saturday, which allowed the doctor to connect the defective teeth of 24 of them.

A large number of teachers of the public schools of this county and members of the school and community leagues plan to attend the meeting of the Cooperative Educational Association which will be held in Richmond this week in conjunction with the State teachers' meeting. The offices of the school board will be closed from Wednesday afternoon until Monday morning.

C. C. Carr, president of the school and community league of district H which includes this county, has urged that both senior and junior leagues be represented at this conference. The other meeting which will be held in Richmond this week in connection with the educational work are the State Parent-Teacher Association and the School Trustees Association. Herbert Williams, a member of the school board from Providence district, Fairfax County, is the president of the Trustees Association and will represent the county school board at these meetings. County Superintendent of Schools Wilbur T. Woodson will also attend.

Representatives of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, headed by Herbert Haar and County Engineer F. Novell Larkin, will hold a conference this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Denty's store, near Pohick. The meeting will consider the elimination of the dangerous condition which now exists at the intersection of the Lorton road and the Alexandria-Richmond highway. The Richmond highway curves sharply at this point which makes it impossible for persons approaching the highway to see traffic for any distance either way, as there is a steep grade on the Lorton road there.

It is believed that the route of the Lorton road can be changed at this point so it will intersect the Richmond highway at another place further south, where no curves or hills will interfere with the view of traffic.
